HON. JAMES THOMPSON, The Mayor-Elect for the Year 1905.

Hon. James Thompson, who was to ay inaugurated as Mayor of the 560.80. City of Presidents, is a gentleman who has been prominently before the public for many years. He has filled many positions in the gift of the people with scrupulous honesty, marked faithfulness and business sagacty. Weighed carefully in the balance, and not found wanting, it is safe to predict that he will fill the office of Mayor with as good satisfaction to the citizens of Quincy as he has other offices in the past.

Dr Chadwick Meets His Wife In Cleveland Jail

WOMAN DISCLAIMS GUILT

Pleads For Husband's Confidence, Which, She Is Assured, Is Hers Until Proof Is Produced to Shatter It

Cleveland, Jan. 2.-Unheralded and unembarrassed by a crowd of curious, the home-coming of Dr. Leroy S. Chadwick was in contrast to the arrival of his wife three weeks ago.

Dr. Chadwick rode as a man against whom the people have no claim; Mrs. Chadwick rode as a prisoner guarded by federal officers. The early nour of the arrival and the fact that but few people were about made the doctor's arrival home quite like that of an ordinary traveler. No one was at the station to meet him with the exception

Sheriff Barry, in whose company Send me a postal or call Nelson's Pay Chadwick was on the trip from New York, chose to come to Cleveland over All goods will be taken and delivered free of the Pennsylvania road. The train arrived in Cleveland at 7:30 Sunday morning. Scarcely any of the few at the Quincy, Mass. station knew of the party and the sheriff and Chadwick were quickly driven to the county jail, where Chadwick was registered as a man against whom the law has suspicion, but the record was not made a part of the records at once. A bond provided Saturday evening by Attorneys Kline and Dawley was ready at the jail on the arrival Carpets taken up, Cleaned and Relaid, of Chadwick, and he was soon released.

After the preliminaries in the sher-iff's office, Dr. Chadwick was escorted by Sheriff Barry to the women's ward. where his wife is held a prisoner. The meeting between the two was pathetic in the extreme. Mrs. Chadwick arose when she heard the steps in the corridor and fell in her husband's arms when she recognized him. Both broke down and wept convulsively for several minutes, while clinging to each other, the sheriff attempting meanwhile to console them.

In that time all troubles that have been hanging over the family like a lodestone were lost in the joy of the meeting and the thought of the mutual sorrow. There was no artificiality about the scene. Genuine grief, genuine joy intermingled. Little by little the first shock grew less severe and the two sat down for a talk that continued for an hour and a half. There were pleadings and partial responses when the more serious predicament of husband and wife was at length appre-

Dr. Chadwick has lost his all in the operations of his wife and the large independent fortune of his only child has been swept away. Mrs. Chadwick A Few ODD SUITS for Men, tried to imbue him with the thought of her innocence of any wrong-doing. "Don't believe these stories which the newspapers have been printing about me," she said. "They are all lies; every one of them. I have done noth-BOYS' SUITS, Sizes 4 to 16, ing wrong. Believe me; trust me, everything will come out all right in everything will come out all right in the end and it will be seen that I have been guilty of none of these things the public charge me with. Don't think I deceive you; I will tell you the truth and I tell you that all these reports are

"I can only hope so," was the husband's answer. "I have trusted you and it is hard to believe anything, my mind is so confused. This has all been a terrible shock and I don't understand any of it. I want time to think of it. I do not say I won't trust you; only give me time to collect my thoughts. Ever since I heard of this trouble in Paris, I have been bothered and my life has been made almost unbearable. I have been followed and hounded until I can think of nothing else. I am not the judge. I can only hope that everything will come out all right as you say."

When Dr. Chadwick arose to leave the jail, Mrs. Chadwick apparently felt more severely than ever before the desolation of her position. She knew neither that her husband was her champion and protector nor that his sympathy for her had been swept away. She clung to him for a moment and again pleaded for his confidence. With tears in his eyes, he told her she had his confidence until proof is produced to shatter it.

"Has your regard for Mrs. Chadwick changed since her-" began a questioner of Dr. Chadwick as they were leaving the jail.

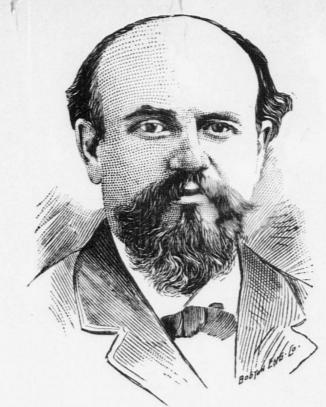

"I cannot say anything," interrupted the doctor, "you will have to talk with Mr. Dawley or Mr. Kerruish." "There will be no statement," said

Mr. Dawley, "so you may as well let him rest." There has been some question in the minds of the lawyers as to whether Chadwick has the occupancy of his home here since it has been taken possession of for the benefit of creditors of Mrs. Chadwick and it has been decided by the lawyers that Chadwick cannot be barred from its use.

FIRE IN SANITARIUM

Patients Had to Make a Hasty Ex:t In Their Night Clothes

Stoneham, Mass., Jan. 2.-The New England sanitarium, formerly the Langwood hotel, was practically destroyed by fire last night, and the 25 patient's who occupied rooms in the portion of the building where the flames were discovered had considerable difficulty in making their escape. Four were rescued by nurses, while several others came down fire escapes in their night clothes.

Those who were assisted out of the building were taken into cottages connected with the institution and others were also accommodated until rooms became too crowded so that several were obliged to sit on the lawn wrapped in blankets and watch their temporary home go up in smoke and flames.

By the time all the patients had reached the ground the upper portion of the ell, where the fire started, was entirely in flames and the fire was attacking the main structure, which was built of stone. It soon worked its way into the edifice despite the earnest effort of the Stoneham department, assisted by engines from Wakefield and Melrose.

The interior of the main building was finished in hard pine and the flames obtained a firm hold. In an hour after the fire started the ell collapsed and the stone building was gutted. The loss is estimated at $35,000.

Against Municipal Lighting Plant Boston, Jan. 2.-The Boston board of aldermen voted 8 to 4 in favor of establishing a municipal gas plant, but Chairman Doyle held that the order failed of passage because it did not re ceive the necessary two-thirds vote. There are 13 members of the board, the absentee being James M. Curley, who is serving sentence in jail. Alderman-elect Linehan, in a public speech, had charged that four members of the board of aldermen had been approached and offered $1000 each to vote against the municipal gas plant Lamp Throwing Results in Death Boston, Jan. 2.-Thomas Morrissey is dead as the result of terrible burns and Eleanor Morrissey, his wife, is under arrest on a charge of assault and battery. Mrs. Morrissey was arrested before the man's death and the charge against her will be changed to a more serious one. The woman claims that she threw a lamp at her husband in an attempt to defend herself from his assaults. The lamp broke against the wall and the blazing oil showered upon him. The building was also set on fire.

Friends Thought He Was Joking

Haverhill, Mass., Jan. 2.-Eben C. Johnson, 55 years old, a shoemaker, committed suicide by taking carbolic acid. Johnson entertained a number of friends Saturday evening and as they left he wished them a happy new year and bade them good-bye, adding that he intended to end his life before morning. This remark was thought to be a joke and was greeted with laughter. Johnson had been despondent.

Looking After Public's Safety

this week the state board of health will commence a crusade against buildings throughout the state that are not adequately equipped with fire escapes The matter is placed in the hands of the health officer in each city and town in the state. This action is taken under the terms of the law passed at the last session of the legislature.

Chief Justice Mason Dead

Brookline, Mass., Jan. 2.-Chief Justice Albert Mason of the Massachusetts superior court died early this morning at his home here of pneumonia. He had been ill about 10 days, although it is three weeks since he had attended a session of the court. He was 68 years old. He was born in Middleboro, Mass., and served in the Civil war.

Test of Cruiser Chattanooga

Newport, R. I., Jan. 2.-The protected cruiser Chattanooga has completed her two days' speed trial, averaging between 16.1 and 16.375 knots an hour over the measured mile course in Narragansett bay Saturday and 16.605 knots an hour in a four hours' speed run off shore Sunday. The Chattanooga was built to make 16.5 knots an hour.

Awful Sight For His Family Adams, Mass., Jan. 2.—Standing in the centre of his kitchen floor with his wife and 12-year-old son almost by his side, Hugh McKechnie, a laborer, 40 years old, committed suicide by cutting his throat. He was despondent from his failure to obtain work. Two other children of the family were in another room.

Two Firemen Badly Injured

Dedham, Mass., Jan. 2.-While responding to an alarm for a small fire in a greenhouse last night, a fire engine was overturned and the driver, W. P. Lavangie, and Engineer Carey were severely injured. The accident was due to the wheels of the engine catching in the street railway tracks.

INNER DEFENSES GONE

Garrison of Forty Thousand Soldiers Has Dwindled Down to Fifteen Thousand as Result of a Siege of Nearly Eleven Months--Events Hastened to Culmination by Japanese Successes of the Past Few Days

Tokio, Jan. 2.-General Nogi, the commander of the Japaneses forces besieging Port Arthur, reports that he has received a letter from General Stoessel, the Russian military commander, relating to surrender.

The news that the Russian forces at Port Arthur have been reduced to such a strait that at last the heroic commander has been forced to propose surrender follows upon a month of re-

The siege began almost with the firing of the first gun in the war, now nearly 11 months ago, and when perhaps the greatest stronghold in the world was garrisoned by 40,000 Russian soldiers, supported by a formidable squadron of modern battleships, cruisers and torpedo boats. These warships have been destroyed or dispersed until but a few torpedo boats remain in the harbor.

The garrison, at latest accounts, had been reduced to about 15,000 men. On Dec. 4 High (203-Meter) hill, one of the most commanding positions in the series of forts held by the Russians, was captured by the Japanese after a severe fight in which the loss on both sides was enormous. It was from this hill that the death blows were dealt the warships that were then remaining in

ON THE JURY.

Impressions of F. H. Palmer at Criminal Court.

[From the Braintree Observer-Reporter.]

At the conclusion of a brief term of service as juryman in the Superior Criminal court at Dedham I feel sure that many fellow-citizens, any one of thing in the package. Simply add hot and set to cool. It's perfection. A surly for a similar service, will be interested in some things which I learned in this, to me, new and out-of-the-common experience. As the bappenings of the Civil court are quite different from those of the Criminal Thope that Brother Crathern's spirit will move him to give the readers of the Observer an account later on of what he saw and learned in his longer service in that important body.

About the first thing that the average jaryman asks when he finds that some tonic for the special trials that rendered. However, the decision in this son, as I recall it now, to look in strange mischance has caused his name women have to bear. to be drawn, -probably in his "very busiest time of all the year, "-is "how can I get out of it?" There are several ways to do this and the easiest probably is, if the reader will excuse the Hibernianism, not to get into it at all. In other words one's name can usually be gotten off the town jury list, if this is desired, so that he will never be drawn as a juror. To do this, get some one to ask, or ask yourself, iu town meeting, to have your name stricken off. A merely passable reason or excuse, I understand, will "go" here, which would not be accepted later on.

After a man is actually drawn and has received his summons, (which is impressively delivered, by the way, by officer John Kelley), it is still possible to get excused, but it is well to add that it is not easy. A real physical disability such as hardness of hearing, or sickness of a serious nature in one's family would be a good excuse. I heard of a man who feigned deafness and did not respond when his name was called at the first session of the court. After much "hot air" had been expended trying to make him understand that be was being called upon, the judge dismissed him on his appearance of being very deaf; but suspecting that it was all put on he waited until the departing juryman was half way down the room and then said in an ordinary tone of voice "Call that man back to get his expenses." Instantly the man himself wheeled and came back for his pay; whereupon the judge dryly remarked that he had reversed his decision and now thought the juryman could hear well enough to take his place for the

An opportunity is given at the opening of the court for any who wish, to go forward and present to the jadge any reasons why they should be excused. Four men availed themselves of this privilege at the recent session at Dedham and had no difficuly in getting off. But all this about excuses is only written down as a preface to what I want especially to say; and that is that this service should be made a matter of the corners of their eyes. I should conscience and good men should not think the hardest criminal's heart would try to get out of it. It is a service have been a little softer after Judge which we owe to our fellowmen when the lot decrees that we render it. The great trouble with the jury system is us laugh far oftener than he made us that good men are so prone to avoid this duty, which is almost always inconvenient but which nevertheless is one of the most important duties that Sherman for my judge. the ordinary citizen is called upon to

You are a busy man of affairs, with large interests and many dependent upon you? That is exactly the kind of man who is wanted and of alleged rape, several family quarrels, needed on the jury. If your own life, property or reputation were at stake you would seek, for the hearing of your case, such a body of twelve good men greed account for nearly all the crimes whose intelligence and sound judgment had been proven; and you would not want to come before a jury drawn from the ranks of the idle and shiftless. There should also be some local spirit about this matter and we should take pride in sending good men to court from good old Braintree. After getting to work I found myself quite unexpectedly "in the house of oath are often so flimsy that a child can my friends." Whether innocent or guilty it is not a bad thing to "have a friend at court." There was the District Attorney, Asa P. French, a highly honored and preeminently successful Braintree boy, educated in the help out their friend by swearing to a school of which we are all proud, grown to a grand manhood, doing yoeman service for the Commonwealth in his incorrigible warfare with evil doers. He stands in the court room a picturesque figure, in personal appearance the impersonation of justice. Keen, straightforward, frank and open but relentless, wasting no time on unessentials but with a marvellous ability to see and remember the important points in a difficult and complicated case, he follows up the wrong doer and exposes his crime to the gaze of all, till we can well imagine the blackened soul and the seared conscience of the criminal shrinking away even to the jail with something of relief from that rebuking presence. The district may safely leave its interests in the hands of our able district attorney until he is called up for higher honors as he surely will be in the not distant future.

Mr. Richard Nutter ably assists the district attorney. He was one of the writer's old acquaintances in East Bridgewater and his successful career thus far forcasts a large usefulness in the future. Then the genial clerk of the court, Mr. Louis Cook of South Weymouth, has for years been remembered as we first knew him in a former Weymouth pastorate. Even one of the defendants was recognized as an old business acquaintance,-but we will not boast of this evidence that we found ourselves in the house of our friends.

Judge Sherman was exceedingly kind. faithful and fatherly, and one of the most impressive things about our experience in court was the vision of the judge's grand way of rising to his opportunities to do good in the direct performance of his duty. Judge Sherman has an attractive, winsome personality and he has a father's heart in his breast. He preached from his bench two or three of the most impressive and effective sermons I ever heard and once or twice I saw people in the audience wiping away their emotions from Sherman got through with him. Yet he has a keen sense of humor and made cry. His rulings were eminently fair and sagacious. If I were to be tried I would count myself fortunate to have

It would be manifestly improper to say anything in detail about the cases that were heard, but of course here lay the chief interest of the session. We had numerous liquor cases, two cases larceny, burglary, manslaughter, perjury, and one murderer was brought in to plead, but not tried. Rum, lust and committed.

One of the revelations of the session was the marvellous stupidity and iguorance of the whole bad lot of criminals in thinking that they could stand up before the judge and twelve "good men and true" and lie out of their trouble. The first recourse of the average villian is perjury. The tales they tell under see through them. It is not easy to deceive a judge who has spent his life in studying the value of evidence and the psychology of crime. In one case two witnesses who were brought in to tissue of lies were immediately arrested and brought to trial for perjury. They Mas were given a richly deserved sentence of nine months at hard labor in the house of correction. It is no trifling offence to lie to the court and nowhere can one get a better object lesson in the wisdom and value of telling the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth on all occasions and under all circumstances.

We visited the jail at noontime one day. Everything was neat, clean and physically comfortable. But O, the agony of the restraint and the sameness of prison life! No conversation with one's fellows, no daily papers, but little fresh air and sunshine, no change but dull monotony week in and week out, year in and year out, - it must be killing! We concluded the session with a new conception of the dignity of the law New and the majesty of the Government of our goodly Commonwealth. But we must confess that our estimation of the jury system was not enhanced but rather lowered. Some in almost every jury come to the case with more or less of prejudice. The idea of a given juror Senator Mitchell Indignant Over once in a while seems to be to get the wrong doers off at all hazards; like the immigrant who when asked if he was a republican or a democrat replied that he didn't know but that anyhow he was 'agin the government.''

Picked Up In Mid-Ocean

Southampton, Jan. 2.-Steamer Minnehaha, for New York, has on board Captain Nelson and wife and five members of the crew of the American schooner W. R. Chester, who were picked up in mid-ocean by the British steamship Anglo-Chilian. The W. R. Chester was owned at Machias, Me., and was built at that port in 1890. Before abandoning the schooner when the Anglo-Chilian appeared, Captain Nelson set fire to her.

Roasted Alive Under Engine

Lima, O., Jan. 2 .- A cut of cars loaded with stone crashed through an €ngine house and forced two engines to the end of a switch, where a shanty occupied by sleeping men was 'demol ished. Thomas Sullivan was cooked beneath the firebox and Fred Smith was buried in mud under the pilot until the engine was lifted with jacks. Smith may recover.

Kiss Led to a Murder

Logansport, Ind., Jan. 2.-Florence Mitchell shot and killed Ella Swisner during a dance at a road house near here. Miss Swisher had danced repeatedly with one young man and, as she left the dance, kissed him. As she did so, Miss Mitchell fired three shots at the girl, the last one penetrating her heart. Miss Mitchell has not been arrested.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

А Нарру New Year to Mayor Thompson And the New City Government.

The inaugural address of Mayor Thompson is one of the very best that has been delivered in the city of day. Quincy. We do not recall any of the sixteen preceding ones which covered all the departments so completely. Mr. Thompson's prominence as a Representative in the Legislature and a member of the Ways and Means Committee, when Metropolitan park, water and sewer appropriations were under consideration, made him familiar with these great improvements, their cost and the plans for payment, and in his attend the New Year's dance given by address he speaks understandingly of Metropolltan affairs.

Relative to city finances, the summary is very complete, and shows that Wollaston give a New Year's reception Mayor Thompson realizes that Quincy to their parishioners and friends, at the is not in a condition to undertake num- rectory, this evening. erous or large improvements. The Mayor is alert to the fact that the tax levy must soon provide for maturing sewer debt, interest on sewer debt and maintenance; also for bridge assessments. He would like to see more paved thoroughfares and better streets, and deplores the opening of streets shortly after they are rebuilt. His efforts to get larger returns from

Has always been connected with the First Parish church of this city and is at present Superintendent of the Sunday School and is building up a large active school.

Mr. Johnson has been on the Board of Assessor since 1900, and comes well equipped for the position. Probably few men are as well acquainted with the entire city, and with his experience in real estate, having served as expert on a large number of State cases, the public can feel that the matter of values will receive due consideration. He resides with his wife and three bright boys at 1166 Hancock street.

The amendment to the ordinance concerning the Woodward Fund fixed the salary of the treasurer at $350, the clerk $50, and auditor $50.

The refusal of the Mayor to approve this order leaves the salary at $400 for the treasurer and $200 each for the clerk and auditor.

In returning this order the Mayor says: The proposed amendment does not improve the situation in any resays: The proposed amendment does spect. It is not a question as to value, but whether they should charge anyhing for the management of the fund. As long as we underpay these officers for their services we cannot expect them to give additional services gratuitously for the management of property in which the city has a beneficial interest. STREET DEPARTMENT.

Public streets, and sidewalks are good object lessons of thrift, and public spirit-or the reverse-of a community. Well built, and cared for streets, propstone Dowie of Zion City have arrived erly drained, add to the value of property, and to the convenience, and necessity of the public.

I think all will concede, we are mak ing progress slowly with our heavy traffic streets should continue to be paved as fast as our means will permit, first, however, making provision for due width, and surface drainage, with all streets broken into just as the work was completed, and left in a most unfinished in this manner. condition. We cannot afford this great cost, and the waste incidental to this condition of neglect.

The turning over of the Sewer department to the Commissioner of Public Works is a step in the right direction, removing one of the greatest evils to the good maintenance of our streets (illustrations of which have been numerous), and bringing back to the Commissioner, the charter. No license should be granted by the Commissioner to open a shall be left in as good condition as when the work was entered upon.

I have every reason to believe that during the current year we will be compelled to pay our portion of the construction and expense charges of the Fore River bridge between Quincy Point and North Weymouth, and the Hancock street bridge now being built over the tracks of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad at Atlantic.

The commissioners appointed by the superior court to determine the cost of the bridge at Atlantic and who shall carry out the work in question adjudged necessary by the county commissioners, have named the parties cation be made to the legislature to specially interested and the proborrow a further sum of money for the portion of the entire cost to be paid, and during the past year set out two sented, I enter upon this matter entirely and their report has been rendered to hundred chestnuts, but unless the setting unprejudiced. In regard to the street railway, it should be possible to obtain such concessions as will give our citizens more frequent service on all lines operated in our city, especially during the winter months when inclement weather practically makes use of street railways a necessity rather than a convenience.

City Clerk's Office, Dec. 30, 1904. THE Record of Births in any city or town is always more or less unsatisfactory, owing o the fact that the canvasser finds difficulty in getting the necessary information. Names and lates are frequently given incorrectly. The mportance of accuracy is shown in many cases court of law. While great pains are taken by his office to have the records correct, experience shows that it is necessary that parents themselves should lend their assistance. In fact, the law requires that parents shall give notice to the City Clerk of the birth of their children, and provides a penalty for neglect to give such notice for the space of 40 days.

It often happens that only children or ser vants are at home when the canvasser makes his call, and the answers to his questions are open to doubt. I therefore request all parents in whose household a birth has occurred in the year 1904, to place upon a paper or card the re-quired information, and keep it in a convenient lace until the canvasser appears.

The canvasser will begin on Jan. 2, 1905. HARRISON A. KEITH, City Clerk. Quincy, Dec. 27, 1904. 1-12t--p-2w

Some weeks ago Mr. Sidelinger pubicly declined a reelection, and since cision. When interviewed by the Daily faulted. Ledger today, he desired it distinctly understood that he was not a candidate for reelection; that he did not expect an election, and did not authorize the use of his name. The facts are, the duties of City Auditor of Quincy have ncreased to such proportions that they demand considerable time, more than he can conveniently devote to them in connection with his position in Boston. Mr. Sidelinger tells the Daily Ledger that the chances are that he will not accept the reelection, but he is unde-

RUSSIAN AMMUNITION.

More Used In One Day In Manchuris Than In Spanish-American War.

The following article on the amount of ammunition used by the Russians in the battle of Liaoyang is taken from "New Features of the War as Illustrated In the East," by Thomas F. Millard, in the January Scribner's:

The enormous expenditure of ammunition is one of the features of this war. The Russian soldier carries 120 rounds of rifle ammunition into battle, and this will seldom last through a single day's fighting if the troops become seriously engaged. At Liaoyang some Russian regiments expended more than 800 rounds per man in the course of the battle. As this computation was based on the strength of the regiments when they entered the fight and as many of is estimated that many soldiers must have fired as many as 1,500 rounds. In the Russian organization the supply of rifle ammunition per man, including the field and reserve parks and the supply carried in the flying artillery parks, is only 422 rounds for infantry and much less for mounted troops. The expenditure of artillery ammunition has been as excessive. At Liaoyang some Russian batteries fired more than 600 rounds per gun. Russian field artillery carries in its limbers and battery wagons only from 108 to 150 rounds, according to the character of the gun, while the total visible supply, including the divisional, flying and reserve parks, averages about 475 rounds per gun. These figures will give some idea of the strain put upon the supply departments during a great battle. More ammunition has been used in a single day in Manchuria than was required to fight the Spanish-American war. Besides the items of food and ammunition, the wastage of other forms of war material is enormous and constitutes an unprecedented drain upon logistical resources. The officers who direct this important branch of the art

When He Goes to College.

A rather amusing remark was madby a rising college man of some eleven years old, while his mother was drassing his small sister for the fancy dress ball, given in Atlantic last Thursday afternoon. The tiny maid was gowned to represent a fairy queen, with skirts knee-length and extending horizontally from her waist owing to the number of skirts underneath. With great disgust the lad eyed the proceedings, and when his sister walked away he informed his mother that when he went to college he would not take sister anywhere unless her skirts hung down like other girls and didn't stand out straight in that ridiculous fashion. The workings of the youthful mind are wonderful at leas than a dozen years of age.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

Previous to 1905 Quincy had eight Mayors, and it is a notable fact that under all, with one exception the debt of the city was increased. The exception was Mayor Hodges, who not only reduced the debt during his two years administration but he reduced it each year. A small reduction to be sure, yet nevertheless a reduction.

During the first five years, two under Mayor Porter and three under Mayor Fairbanks, a debt of over a llion dollars was accummulated, but er $700,000 of this was for the purase destroyed by fire.

The following summary show the amount of debt at the end of each year, and the Mayor that year:

haustion not only of ammunition, but of men. The remnant of the garrison left had been doing the work of heroes for five days and five nights, but yesterday they reached the limit of human endurance. In the casemates of the forts one saw everywhere faces black with starvation, exhaustion and nervestrain. You spoke to them, but they did not give answer, only staring dumbly.

"The lack of ammunition alone would not have suggested the seeking of terms. Scant ammunition had long been common in the fortress, and durase of the water works, and over ing the past month many of the forts 10,000 to replace the Willard school- had nothing with which to return the fire of the enemy.

"The Russians sat in the casemates firing not more than once to the 200 shots sent by the Japanese When the assault came they repulsed the enemy Doc. 31, 1904, (Bryant) $1,667,072.00 with bayonets. But the men them-1,741,628.00 selves, having existed for three months 1,650,840.35 on reduced rations, were so worn that 1,566,635.64 it is marvelous they stood the final 1,518,605.61 strain so long.

"Yesterday General Stoessel would still fight. His wound, which was received early in the siege, had been bothering him, but his determination to fight while one man stood had not 1,037,895.61 been diminished. 'But we cannot fight,' said his generals. 'Our men cannot move. They sleep standing. They cannot see the bayonets at their breasts. We can order, but they cannot obey.' "'Then you generals fight,' said

Stoessel, clenching his fists. "He seemed fanatical on the subject, but finally he was brought to see reason by the insistence of his subordinates. I am sure Port Arthur would have sought terms a month ago had it not been for Stoessel, who, with bull-$115,990.25; under one year of surrender and he meant to keep hi

The Japanese periodically assaulted and then, ir repulsed, they CORRECT PIANO TUNING AND calmly resumed their bombardments.

"We who came here today do not know the terms of surrender suggested by General Stoessel to General Nogi nor the answer to them. The general impression, however, is that Stoessel has proposed that the army shall go free and that he alone be made a prisoner. Even that concession seemed to wrench out the sturdy old man's heart.

"It is a simple story. Had the ammunition held out the fortress would have held out indefinitely. For months we held Port Arthur by bayonets alone, until flesh and blood could do no more. When a man fell there was none other to replace him. Thus the garrison was gradually worn down. Two hun-5000 men. The capture of that hill was the beginning of the end.

"The Japanese artillery was excellently served. They had 400 guns bear ing on 203-Meter hill. They advanced their trenches while the artillery was Evening 7 to 8, except Wednesday and Friday. shelling the Russians out with a shower of metal and then occupied the Russian positions.

"It cost the Japanese 80,000 men to take the fortress, while some say they have lost over 100,000. The number of our dead is not known even to the high officers.

"The fighting since August has been merciless. When Rihlung mountain was taken 500 men occupying a casemate were not able to emerge, so quickly came the rush of the Japanese. The Russians tried to emerge by the use of their bayonets in the face of machine gun fire. Thus every man diedtrying to resist machine guns with bayonets alone. The Japanese did not give them a chance to become prisoners, but the men would have preferred death anyway. Realize the end. "One peculiar incident of the siege was at Fort No. 3, where for three months the Japanese occupied one part of the fort, while the Russians occupied the other. They fought ceaselessly, assaulting each other and min-

The case of the widow must represent a soldier who was say 20 years old at the close of the war in 1783, who at the age of 60 or more married a young woman of 20, who must now be in the vicinity of 100 years old or over. This feature of the pension roll is hardly more remarkable than another—that one pensioned soldier of the war of 1812 still survives, and that 918 widows of soldiers in that war are still carried on the rolls. The surviving soldier must be considerably over 100 years of age, and it is evident that the veterans of that war were as much given in their old age to marrying young women as are the veterans of the great war following on nearly 50 years later.

The plan of the system differs materially from anything in the nature of block systems or safety devices in operation in the world, says a St. Paul dispatch to the Chicago Post. It departs from the old overlap idea used in many of the blocks of the country, and the mechanism makes it possible for an engineer to decide positively whether or not either of the two sections ahead of him is occupied by a train. Storage batteries, located at the foot of each pole of the block, furnish the power with which the arms are moved. It is said that the whole main line of the Great Western will be equipped with similar devices soon.

FALLEN FORTRESS

Conditions of Stoessel's Surrender Are Not Yet Known

CAMPAIGN IN MANCHURIA

Late Events Will Necessitate Change of Plans, but to What Extent the Russian Reverse Will Make For Restoration of Peace Is an Open Question

London, Jan. 3 .- Port Arthur, whose hills have for months run red with the blood of the bravest of two warlike nations, has at last succumbed to the fierce tenacity of the Japanese attack. General Stoessel, most stubborn in carrying out the will of his sovereign, has seen the advance of the besieging army gain in momentum and energy until to hold out longer would have been a crime against humanity. The conditions of the surrender are not yet known, but in all quarters it is anticipated that they are such as an honorable soldier may accept from a brave and victorious enemy.

At 9:45 o'clock last night the commissioners completed the signing of the capitulation agreement. Both armies had suspended hostilities five hours earlier. The city of Port Arthur will be occupied by the Japanese today.

No place in modern history has sustained and repelled such fierce attacks. No besieging army ever has thrown itself with greater persistence or more reckless bravery against positions of such strength. Port Arthur was the strongest fortress ever attacked. It had every device that modern ingenuity could suggest to add to its strength.

There was no possibility in the early days of the siege that the place could be taken by assault, yet the Japanese tried this method again and again. Given men, food and ammunition, Port Arthur was impregnable. Had it, like Sevastopol, an open line of communications, it never could have been taken.

The fall of 203-metre hill, North Keekwan, Rihlung, Sungshu, "H" fort, New Panlung and Wantai in quick succession clearly indicated that the garrison was losing its power of resistance. The dwindling of the number of the defenders made the proper manning of the extended line of defenses impossible. Stoessel could not concentrate a sufficient force at threatened points to meet the overwhelming forces of an enemy who had the choice of the point of assault. As the Japanese extended their right down the Kwang Tung peninsula on the west of the city, the Russians were unable to protect the lengthened line, and the end came. The fall of the fortress will have a direct influence on the campaign in Central Manchuria. Nogi's veteran army and hundreds of pieces of artillery will be released for co-operation with the Shakhe. The influence of this, however, will not be felt immediately, for Nogi's army will need rest, and the problem of transporting the men and guns northward will take time to solve. There are many who will hope that the opportunity which the fall of Port Arthur affords will be seized by Russia or Japan to make a move looking toward peace. Japan could do it at this moment without being open to the suggestion that she was afraid of the final outcome. It is too much to hope that Russia in the face of defeat, no matter how inevitable defeat in this case was, will initiate negotiations for a cessation of hostilities. But there appears to be no chance that Japan can inflict a final defeat to the Russian armies in the north, while it is equally certain that Russia cannot, no matter what the size of her armies may he, drive Japan out of Port Arthur or out of Korea so long as she holds command of the sea. The authorities at St. Petersburg, in the absence of direct official news from Stoessel that Pert Arthur has surrendered, have not permitted the news to become public. Emperor Nicholas is in the south of Russia and his ministers are for the time being in the dark as to what dispatches have been sent to him from the front.

Tokio is the scene of rejoicing, people of all ranks finding in the outcome compensation for all the sacrifice of life and money that was entailed in the 10 months' siege. The spirit of the Russians may be judged by the statement of the secretary of the embassy at London that the campaign will be renewed with fresh vigor in the spring, and that the nation will not be content to permit Port Arthur to remain in the hands of the Japanese.

Both in Paris and in London the opinion is that the squadron under vice-admiral Rojestvensky, which started from Libau for the far east three months ago, will have to retrace its way home, as adherence to the original plans would invite disaster without probability of effecting a junction with the warships at present in the harbor of Vladivostok.

That Japan may not be permitted to retain possession of Port Arthur without dispute is shown in the fact that aris newspapers are already reviving the claim made in 1901 that the holding of that position commanding the eastern seas by the Japanese would be a menace to European powers.

Early today two Russian torpedo launches arrived at Chefoo and there were then seven Japanese torpedo boat destroyers in the harbor. Later in the morning four of the destroyers departed.

WARSHIPS' VALUE

Battleships' Superiority Is Supreme Over All

Naval Department Made a Study of Achievements In the Far East and Makes Official Comment Thereon

s the supremacy of the battleship and but these conditions changed to hail how completely its superiority over all other types of war vessels, as has been demonstrated in the war in the far east, were badly handicapped. is told in an official statement issued at the navy department which is likely to arouse international interest because of its frankness and because it was high. prepared by a member of the general board of the navy of which Admiral Dewey is president, and represents the views of that board as well as of the secretary of the navy.

Although the Russian destroyers in Port Arthur numbered 24, the statement says not one has scored a hit thus far in the war, and that of the necessity. Heating a home through many torpedo boat attacks delivered by the Japanese "nearly all met with complete lack of success, although made, as usual, under the cover of darkness and against an enemy at anchor and whose position was known."

In the opinion of high officials of the government the sentiment which has gained some credence in this country to the effect that the value of battleships has been discredited by the results in the far east is one which will prove a menace unless it is corrected, and the department has adopted the somewhat unusual method of commenting officially on the achievements of the Russian and Japanese navies in the effort to correct this impression.

"Somewhat to the chagrin of students of the game of naval warfare," says the report, "this war has afforded no field for the discussion of cruisers. Vessels of all types were present in both fleet actions, but the attention of both sides appears to have been devoted exclusively to crippling each other's battleships.

"The overshadowing importance of the battleship is nowhere more appreciated than in Japan. Had they had at the outset 12, or even 10 battleships, instead of six, the Russian fleet would have been destroyed on Aug. 10. The supreme incentive to holding out at Port Arthur being thus removed, that ortress would probably have fallen the war correspondingly advanced and thousands of lives and millions of treasure saved.

"Threatened now by the Russian second Pacific fleet, it is safe to say that they would gladly recover at several times their cost the Hatsuse and the Yashima, for well do they know that the loss of the command of the sea would mean the end of the campaign in Manchuria. Likewise, gladly would the Russians buy back the Petropav lovsk, sunk in the same manner as the two Japanese-by mines skilfully planted by the enemy.

"In summing up the lessons of this or felicitously than was done by Lord Selborne, first lord of the British admiralty, in the following words: 'The lessons from the war in the far east are the importance of the personnel, the necessity for having a margin of strength and the fact that without battleships no power can hold, or wir command of the sea.'

Cities have to secure land from time to time for the widening of business thoroughfares; for public buildings, and ornamental grounds. Cities of ly laid out centre, which imparts confidence to the surroundings. It is within the reach of Quincy, at a reasonably small cost, to make its centre attractive; to have all thoroughfares leading from the same wide and attractive to commerce, to have Public Gardens at or near the centre which can be ornamented by private donations from time to ments of the future?

The old historic city of Quincy will surely rise to the occasion one day and have a superb statue in honor of her illustrious dead statesmen and orators. And as the years go will come others. Quincy is abundantly blessed with the raw material of statuary which will find its way into her Public Garden. The parks of the city though valuable will be little more than playgrounds until the city increases in population over 100,000. It is doubtful if they will ever e used for decorations.

It has been a cherished ambition of a number of the people of Quincy to erect here a memorial in granite to the imnortal bard, Robert Burns. This sentiment crystalized into resolution some two years ago. Clan McGregor appointed a committee of clansmen to take the initiative in establishing an association in Quincy with the above object. The same was duly organized with Francis Morrison as president and membership unlimited. Any one interested can become a member by application to Dr. McLennan, secretary

The proceeds from the annual celebration of the birth of Robert Burns, under the auspices of both Clan McGregor and Loyal Ladies will be applied wholly to the memorial fund. The respective committees of these orders will spare no pains in making the entertainment a success socially and financially.

20,000 PRISONERS

Terms of the Capitulation of Port Arthur

OFFICERS ARE PAROLED

Full Liberty After Promising to Take No Further Part In the War--Japs Take Possession of Fortress With Ships--Russians Must Show Plans of Forts

Tokio, Jan. 4 .- Under the terms of the capitulation of Port Arthur, the fortress was formally handed over to the Japanese yesterday. Today the prisoners to the number of 20,000 will march out, and as soon as arrangements can be made they will be sent to Japan. The officers, both civil and military, will be given their full liberty on giving a promise not to take any further part in the war. The military officers will wear their side arms. The privates and non-commissioned officers become prisoners of war.

THREE RECIPES.

The Way to Either Can, Jam or Preserve a Husband,

For this purpose select a nice, kind, amiable, industrious, generous man. The American variety is far better than the foreign kind. Prepare him by having him go through a long engagement, which effectually renders him easy to handle. Gently detach him from all of his old friends and acquaintances and remove any habits he may have. He is then ready to can, preserve or make jam, as you choose. To can, merely deprive him of his latchkey and throw a handful of mother-in-law in the house. Men corked up like this have been known to keep for years without spoiling, though when they are opened up, if kept too long, the signing of this compact and the to McKinley or Tarpley, my partners they are apt to be sour. To make jam, prepare as before, but shred all of his finer feelings by nagging and pound them into a pulp by complaints. To preserve a husband, put as much love into the heart as it will hold, add an ocean of sympathy, a world of tenderness, a pound of forbearance, a dram of patience and drop him into it until he is thoroughly coated over with sugar. Husbands should always be crystallized one at a time, never in pairs; neither should they ever be stood in hot water. This is where many women make mistakes.—Memphis Commer-

NOTICE TO PARENTS.

City Clerk's Office, Dec. 30, 1904. THE Record of Births in any city or town is A always more or less unsatisfactory, owing to the fact that the canvasser finds difficulty in getting the necessary information. Names and dates are frequently given incorrectly. The importance of accuracy is shown in many cases where there is a question of descent, or inheritance of property or collection of life investigation. ance of property, or collection of life insur-ance or pensions. The City Clerk's copy of the record is accepted as conclusive evidence in a court of law. While great pains are taken by his office to have the records correct, experience shows that it is necessary that parents them-selves should lend their assistance. In fact, the law requires that parents shall give notice to the City Clerk of the birth of their children, and provides a penalty for neglect to give such notice for the space of 40 days.

It often happens that only children or servants are at home when the canvasser makes his call, and the answers to his questions are open to doubt. I therefore request all parents in whose household a birth has occurred in the year 1904, to place upon a paper or card the required information, and keep it in a convenient place until the canvasser appears. The canvasser will begin on Jan. 2, 1905

Decisions Reached as to Standards of Comparison-Skeleton May Be Used In Describing Wounds In Miss Page's Body

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 5.-Edward Page, the father of Mabel Page, for whose murder Charles L. Tucker is being tried, was called to the stand in the superior court as the second witness for the prosecution. All eyes were directed towards Mr. Page as he entered the courtroom, and even the boyish appearing prisoner so far departed from his usual demeanor of apparent unconcern as to turn his head to watch the old man's progress from the door of the courtroom to the witness box. Mr. Page was sworn, but before he had begun his testimony the court was adjourned for the day out of respect to the late Chief Justice Albert Mason, whose funeral was held yesterday after-Tuesday's session was very brief. Although the hour set for the opening Leg Yearling, was 9:30 a. m., it was not until 11:05 that the proceedings began. Owing to a severe snowsform Judge Sherman Fresh Killed Fowl. was delayed in reaching the courtwearisome wait Tucker occupied his Tip Sirloin, house. During the protracted and seat in the iron cage. His gaze wandered about the courtroom and he ap- Smoked Shoulders, parently studied every detail of the mural decorations. His eyes occasionally sought the places occupied on the G. M. Potatoes. two previous days by his father, mother and brother, but he did not see any member of his family in the courtroom, all of them having been excluded by direction of the judges.

The proceedings occupied but an hour and 38 minutes, and were devoted chiefly to the examination of Francis H. Kendall, the surveyor who had made plans of the Page house, and a map of the territory adjacent to the scene of the crime. Tucker listened to the witness with interest and gazed earnestly at the map and plans that were hung on the wall near the jury box. Mr. Kendall's testimony was of a technical nature and was devoted chiefly to a staement of the distances separat ng certain points in Auburndale and Weston, with especial reference being paid to the contour of the country, the nature of the soil, and the location of buildings, trees, brooks, walls and District Attorney Sanderson and later torney Vakey, of counsel for the pris-

Edward Page was next called and sworn. At this point the jury was excused while counsel argued a question concerning the proposed introduction by the commonwealth at a later date of specimens of what the prosecution claims are specimens of the prisoner's handwriting to be used as standards of comparison. These specimens of handwriting consist of 100 or more sales slips alleged to have been filled and signed by the defendant when he was employed by a mercantile firm in

Counsel Vahey, for the prisoner argued that the prosecution must prove that the defendant filled out each and every one of the slips offered as standards of comparison, while Attorney General Parker contended that the fact that each salesman was obliged by the rules of the firm to make out his own slips left no room to doubt that the defendant was the author of the slips in question, which are now in the possession of the commonwealth.

The court finally ruled that it would not be necessary to prove the authorship of each of the slips, but that the prosecution must show positively that nobody else could have filled out or signed them. This was considered by Tuck-

Missing Metal Found in Roxbury Junk Shop.

John Roddy, an employe of the Fore River Ship Building Co., was arrested Wednesday by Inspector McKay, for the larceny of brass composition metal from the company.

On the same day George Brewster and Thomas F. Boackin, two furniture teamsters, were arrested by Boston Officers for Inspector McKay for the same offense.

The Fore River Co. has been missing 7c lb pieces of this metal, which is valued at thirty cents per pound, for some time. Inspector McKay was notified and at his request the Boston inspectors were detailed to watch junk shops to see if 15c lb they could find where the metal was

The metal was located in a junk shop in Roxbury, and upon information received the men were arrested. According to this junk dealer's story he paid eight cents per pound for the metal.

In event of the failure of George A. Sidelinger to qualify as City Auditor, to which office he was re-elected by the City Council, against his wishes, a dark-horse will enter the contest against ex-Mayor Hall and ex-Mayor Fairbanks.

But for the coup d'etat in favor of Mr. Sidelinger on Inauguration day it is said that ex-Mayor Fairbanks would have have been elected, as he had the necessary number of supporters. But some of these were anti-Hall men rather than friends of the Wollaston man, and they were quick to enter into the plans to defeat both Mr. Fairbanks and Mr.

Hardly had it become noised about that a dark horse might win out the election of City Auditor, when one appeared in the person of Warren W. Adams. Mr. Adams has not permitted the grass to grow under his feet since he entered the race for he has commenced a systematic campaign for the position. Several councilmen have already been approached in his behalf and it is claimed that four, at least, have promised him their support. Mr. Adams is an ex-Representative to the legislature and a few years ago was a fire marshal connected with the State department. Since Inauguration day, H. Walter Gray, the former City Treasurer has been mentioned for the position, but he has not yet decided to enter the field. Henry C. Rodgers is also suggested, and probably others.

It is a good office for an accountant, particularly, if he can perform the duties of the position in connection with his other business, as the salary from the city is $600 per year, and $200 addltional from the Woodward fund. In some years an allowance has also been paid for clerical assistance.

PACKERS IN CONSPIRACY

Have Merciless and Oppressive Control Over Production, Sale and Distribution of a Staple Commodity Necessary to Life

Washington, Jan. 5 .- The brief of the government in the case of Swift & Co. vs. the United States, known as the Beef Trust case, prepared by Attorney General Moody, has been presented to the supreme court of the United States. The brief is devoted principally to an argument to show that the packers are engaged in a conspiracy to monopolize interstate commerce in fresh meats. The attorney general says:

"It may be remarked that judges have differed as to the validity of aggregations of capital effected by some form of organic union between several rather than the voters themselves are smaller and competing corporations and economists are far from agreeing that such aggregations, within limitations, The Samar tribes in the Philippines are hurtful. Many Persons Injured In Great Fire at Berlin, N H

Berlin, N. H., Jan. 5 .- A fire that was fought from 9:15 e'clock last night until after 2 o'clock this morning destroyed Clement's Opera House block, the two Gagnon blocks, the Thorndike hotel, Brooks' drug store, three storehouses and a stable and threatened the entire business section of the city. The total loss is placed at $150,000.

During the fire many lodgers leaped from the fourth story of the Opera House block, sustaining in several instances broken limbs and other serious day. injuries. Mrs. Frank Wright, one of those who jumped, was picked up insensible and is in a dangerous condition, with a chance of her recovery. She missed the net which tad been frozen ground. Her husband, Frank Wright, is perhaps fatally hurt.

Japanese, Who Thought That begin in a few weeks. Struggle Would Be One to Bitter End--Japanese Official Circles Do Not Look For Early Conclusion of Peace

Our minute investigation was not finished until Tuesday night. The total medical supplies at Port Arthur. The end of January. Japanese are strenuously succoring the people. The capitulation committees are pushing their respective works."

Though the intimation that the Russians Russian garrison. were willing to surrender was known to the officers of the Japanese staff last Sunday afternoon, it was not generally known to the hundred thousand of the investing army until Monday.

The surrender of the fortress at the present time came as a surprise even to the Japanese, as the desperate determination and courage of the Russians, even in the last assaults, indicated that the struggle would be one to the bitter

The weight of opinion in Japanese official circles seems to be against a belief in the early conclusion of peace, and doubt is expressed that the fall of Port Arthur will materially affect the discussed the question with a press correspondent voiced the sentiment of the majority when he said:

"We are confronting a situation which continues to be purely military. The present problem is created by General Kuropatkin's army and the Russian second Pacific squadron. We are devoting all attention to them. We anticipate that the Russians will renew more determinedly than ever the effort to drive Field Marshal Oyama back and that they will strive to gain supremacy at sea. We are preparing to defeat both these objects. The situation makes talk of peace futile."

Stoessel's Despairing Message St. Petersburg, Jan. 5.-General Stoessel's last dispatch prior to the surrender of Port Arthur, dated Jan. 1, details the Japanese attack of Dec. 31

"We shall be obliged to capitulate but everything is in the hands of God. We have suffered fearful losses. Great sovereign, pardon us. We have done everything humanly possible. Judge us, but be merciful. Nearly 11 months of uninterrupted struggles have exhausted us. Only one quarter of the garrison is alive and of this number the majority are sick and, being obliged to act on the defensive without even shadows."

Forget Once In Awhile. The health of the body as well as of the mind depends upon forgetting. To let the memory of a wrong, of angry words, of petty meanness, linger and rankle in your memory will not only dissipate your mental energy, but it will react upon the body. The secretions will be diminished, digestion impaired, sleep disturbed and the general health suffer in consequence. Forgetting is a splendid mental calisthenic and a good medicine for the body.

Burglar Given Chase by Store Keeper.

Police.

Albert Pierson, a Granite street dealer n gents' furnishing goods, had quite an exciting chase for a burglar at midnight. Mr. Pierson had occasion to visit his store about midnight. As he opened the store door a man jumped out of a window and ran down Granite street. Mr. Pierson gave chase but lost sight of his man at Fort street.

Returning to his store he found that the thief had packed up a large bundle of goods to carry away.

The police were notified of what had HANCOCK HALL, . . QUINCY transpired and a description of the man whom Mr. Pierson had chased given. Officer Barry, who was in charge of the station, notified the officers on the routes to be on the look out for the man. Officer Stewart later arrested a man who answered the description but as he convinced the officers of his innocence "TWIXT LOVE and DUTY." he was released.

The police learned later that a strange thinking possibly that it may have been connected with the robbery a description was sent to the police of Boston and adjoining towns.

At 1.45 word was received from Station 11, Boston, that the team answering the description given had been held up by the officer at Neponset and the driver arrested. The man gave his name as Simon

Stone, and his residence as Milton place, Boston. In the man's clothing was a jimmy and a screw driver. Stone was turned over to the Quincy police. Mr. Pierson, who later saw the man, said he was not the party whom he chased. Stone denies that he had anything to do with the burglary. However, he was arraigned in court and was held in $1000 until next Thursday. Mr. Pierson says that the parties had filled two meal bags full of goods, and that there were twenty empty bags left on the floor ready to be filled. They also took $20 in money from the cash drawer. Officer Johnson reported that he saw the team in question on Gass place as early as 11.30. At that time the horse was feeding. He thought nothing strange of it however. It is believed by the police that the driver of the team was an accomplice, and was waiting to Tracks Buried.

The store keepers along Depot street shovelled the snow from the sidewalk onto the street railroad tracks. Then men went out on the roof of the block and shovelled off the snow also throwing it onto the railroad track. The result is that the tracks are buried beneath four feet of snow that has been thrown out there. These same people Solid Gold and Diamond Jewelry now expect the railroad to expend $50 to cart that snow off so that the cars can run up to the depot. But the track should not be on that side of street.

USE OF FRENCH WORDS. Practice That Does Not Help the English Language. Why do people persist in using Williams, as officer of the day: French words when there are good old English words to serve the purpose?

It is a habit that is growing daily. For instance, at dinner people give you "menu" instead of "bill of fare," though the items are such English dilles as boiled cod, roast beef and apple tart. One is accommodated with a serviette instead of a napkin, an English word, but originally of French origin, as is the Scotch word napery, used for household linen. When you enter a shop you are served with corsets instead of stays, costumes by a Saturday costumere instead of take the place dressmaker. "Blouses" take the place of shirts or waists, and hose are offered for stockings. The former word is, however, English. At the theater we have programmes instead of play 76 lb bills and matinees in place of afternoon performances. Toques are adjusted with as much ease as hats, and we eat in a restaurant as cheerfully as in a dining room. There are, of course, un translatable words which must be used, but our good old English language is rapidly becoming a hotch-150 lb potch of foreign words, while telegraphy is doing its best to oust all the crisp and racy Saxon speech. Whenever possible let us determine to use an English instead of a French word, both in literature and conversation .-London Graphic.

> Fines For Church Shirkers. After being dormant for some years the act (3 Jas. I. c. 4, 1606) which provided that any person absenting himself from his church on a Sunday without sufficient excuse should be fined twelvepence for each absence and imprisoned in default of distress on his goods until the fine was paid was revived in 1838. A report of the inspectors of prisons contains a list of eleven persons in Lancashire fined and imprisoned under the act between Feb. 12, 1839, and May 10, 1840. In one case a laborer was in prison for ten weeks funtil released by order of the home secretary) after being convicted in a penalty of 1 shilling, with 14 shillings costs, for having been absent from church a single Sunday. This act was repealed, so far as regards Roman Catholics, in 1844, and wholly in 1846. -London Chronicle.

TOBACCO SECRETS.

Furkish and Virginian Leafs Are Va-

The smoker, of course, can tell you which is which at the first whiff, but If you ask him what the original distinction is between the two he will tell you that one comes from Turkey and the other from the States.

He is wrong. You could grow Turksh and Virginia tobaccos in the same field, for they are merely two different varieties of the same plant. Turkish is the leaf of Nicotiana rustica, while Virginia is Nicotiana augustipolia. Of course the two are often blended by to-

Again, what constitutes the difference between "strong" and "mild" tobaccos? It is simple enough. The strong product is so manufactured that it burns slowly, the result being that the contained nicotine is distilled in an unaltered state. Mild tobaccos are those which burn well, and thus their contained nicotine is consumed or decomposed, with the result that a less narcotic smoke is formed.

We often hear cheap cigars spoken of as "cabbage leaves," and doubtless many people believe that these are actually adulterated with other substances than tobacco. Often in such a weed the outside wrapper is noticed to be patched with pale green, and this fact is held proof of the cabbage leaf libel. The piece of greenish leaf is real tobacco which has been plucked unripe or not properly cured. It is only to be found in thin, poor leaf .- London Ex-

While great pains are taken by his office to have the records correct, experience shows that it is necessary that parents themselves should lend their assistance. In fact the law requires that parents shall give notice to the City Clerk of the birth of their children, and provides a penalty for peoplet to give such and provides a penalty for neglect to give such notice for the space of 40 days. It often happens that only children or ser-

THE SURRENDERED ARMY

Force Handed Over to Japanese About 32,000, Exclusive of 15,000 or 16,000 Sick and Wounded--May Float Some Sunken Russian Vessels

London, Jan. 6 .- Special dispatches from Tokio say that the Port Arthur garrison was marshalled yesterday at Yahutsui, in accordance with the terms of the supplementary agreement.

The Standard's Port Arthur correbombardment. Carriages and rickshaws, he says, are moving about with vulsion, and in many cases every trace of the work has disappeared.

A report from General Nogi's headquarters largely increases the figures of the surrendered garrison. Reports received up to date are as follows:

Eight generals, four admirals, 57 col-

The volunteers are chiefly included in the list of non-combatants. One hundred saddle horses and 1870 draft horses were surrendered.

The Japanese naval officers are soon to examine the sunken Russian warships at Port Arthur, as they think blocked the drydock, before they sursteamers available for immediate use. All the other craft had been sunk. The work of clearing away the mines began as soon as the Russian charts provided for in the capitulation agreement were delivered to the Japanese. The disposition of the surrendered garrison has not been determined. The majority of the sick and wounded will be nursed at Port Arthur. The Japanese are hurrying supplies of medicines and foods to the scene, and with ing they hope to cure thousands of the ossible that Japan will arrange later

Father of Mabel Page Testifies In the Tucker Trial

Medical Examiner Gives Opinion That Knife Found In Defendant's Pocket Could Hgve Produced Miss Page's Wounds

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 6.—In a voice ward Page, the aged father of Mabel of his discovery of his daughter's death. served until 1892. In that year he was Charles L. Tucker, the Auburndale youth who is on trial for the murder of Miss Page, listened intently to the old man's narrative, never betraying the slightest sign of emotion.

Mr. Page's testimony had been awaited with interest, as it had been expected that his story of his experience on the day his daughter was killed would be one of the dramatic incidents of the trial. His bowed figure, trembling voice and tearful eves visibly affected many of the persons in the courtroom, but on the countenance of the prisoner there was no other expression than one of profound interest in the story of the witness.

As Mr. Page referred to the fact that when he left his home on the morning of March 31 his daughter bade him farewell "in her usual affectionate manner," his voice broke and he repressed a sob with difficulty and it was a moment or so before he could proceed with his testimony. The same thing happened when he described his return to his home and found his daughter dead on the floor of his room.

Under cross-examination his grief gave way to anger and when counsel work as proprietor of the Tribune sine for the prisoner asked him if his daughthe defeat of the Republican nations ter Mabel was a modest woman he ticket in 1892, but on three occasion straightened his bent form, threw back has accepted appointment to temporar his head, gazed at the attorney and re- positions of honorary character. He said that death was caused aiming to travel through life on his faby three stab wounds and that in all ther's name. He looks very much as probability Miss Page lived about two minutes after she had received the first of the four wounds on her body and that a superficial wound in her throat was indoubtedly inflicted during a struggle with her assailant.

The wounds that were found on the fingers were, in the opinion of the witness, caused by Miss Page grasping the sault was not the motive for the murder.

The government attempted to produce the three broken pieces of a knife blade found in the pocket of Tucker's coat at the time of his arrest, but as the defense objected, the point was argued in the absence of the jury. The third of the men's monthly When the jury returned, the pieces of body could have been produced by that knife. The waist and stock found on the body of Miss Page were also produced and shown the jury. Much of Dr. Mead's testimony was given with the aid of a part of a skeleton, the introduction of which caused quite a stir his father did at his age, having the

TWO OLD ... FOOLS

[Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure.] On the day that he was forty-five years old Moses Jackson went to the nearest village to buy a hoe. His wife had asked him to drop into the office of the Gazette and bring home a bundle of old papers for the pantry shelves. He found the editor alone and the paper about to suspend for the want of patronage. The editor noted the farmer's wrinkled face, bent back general talk said:

"Look here, Moses, you are an old fool and I am ditto. You are grubbing your life out for a mere living, and I am dead broke because the peo ple here don't appreciate brains. Let's go into partnership."

They sat and talked for an hour, and TAKEN on execution and will be sold at public auction on SATURDAY, the twenty first day of January, 1905, at 9 o'clock A. M., at my residence, No. 163 Franklin over the country and within a week over the country and within a w A. M., at my residence, No. 163 Frankin street, in Quincy, in said County, all the right, title and interest which John J. McCarty of Quincy had (not exempt by law from attachment or levy on execution) on the twenty-eighth day of October, 1904, at eight o'clock P. M. (being the time the same was attached on mesne process) in and to the following described sure cure for all kinds of skin diseases. The editor gave half a dozen false names and told a dozen lies in the

While he was busy at the spring his wife was busy at the house. Scores and scores of people were willing to pay 50 cents for a dinner, and before the rush was over scores and scores of others paid 50 cents apiece for the privilege of sleeping on clean straw in the barn. The analysis of the spring water pricked the bubble at last, and people ceased to come or send in orders. Moses went down to see the editor and figure with him. As they figured they chuckled. When they had reached the end of it the editor said: "Moses, our firm has taken in $2,000 in cash. Figure out the expense, and we divide $1,600. You still have your farm left, and I may tell you that the Gazette has put on 250 new subscribers and has entered upon a boom with woman about his house, but before they had time to ask questions the Ga zette came out with a two column article and explained all. The strange wo man was Mother Clark, the great locater of mines by means of the hazel rod the district, and, to her surprise, her hazel rod kept pointing to the Jackson farm. She had felt it her duty to stop and tell Moses that great wealth lay beneath the surface. It might be coal or it might be gold, but it was there necessity. Heating a home through Again there was a rush to the Jackagain at 50 cents apiece, and this time not only for the comfort but the health there were sleepers for the barn almost by the hundred. People wanted to prospect for that wealth, they wanted privileges, they wanted options, they wanted to go shares and work things most any old way for mutual profit, and the farm was torn up for the space of two months before the last digger got discouraged and quit. Then Moses went down to make a business call on the editor, and the editor said to him: "We haven't done quite as well as I hoped for, but there is no kick coming to us. We sold three options at $1, 000 each, and with the profits on meals and lodgers the figures run to about $10,000. The next week the Gazette stated that there was every reason to believe that the rod pointed to oil instead of minerals and that it hoped to soon chronicle a great discovery. The discovery was made in time for the next issue, and it was a corker. Oil had been found in such quantities that no one could doubt the existence of a big lake of it under the Jackson farm. There were some who doubted that oil had been found, but their doubts vanished as they reached the farm. There were the well, the bucket and the smell. Those who descended into the well came up covered with grease and convinced that petroleum was a big thing. That the coal men had failed was no reason why the oil men should not succeed. A dozen speculators wanted options before the first week was over, and every neighboring farmer who would sell or lease found a customer at his door. Leases and options were taken on the Jackson farm to the last acre, and when the papers had been made out and the money passed over the editor of the Gazette expressed his readiness to figure again with Moses.

"The firm of Moses Jackson & Co. will now divide up the sum of $22,-000," he said as he laid down his pencil. "We might have got more by hanging out, but we are no hogs. The man who knows when he has got a good thing is the man who succeeds. Incidentally I will add that I have had to hire a girl to book subscriptions, and I must now issue a double edition to provide for advertisers. Moses, you ought to have about $11,000 ready for the bank."

"A little more than that," replied Moses, "and we move into the best house in town next week."

"That is well. You are now a bloated capitalist and can walk around with your hands in your pockets. Never forget, however, that honesty is the best Established 1887. policy and that the road to success is through integrity." M. QUAD.

came Unmanageable

On Wednesday morning a big wave swept over the vessel, carrying away a portion of her deckload, her binnacles, and smashing the wheel. This rendered it impossible to steer the vessel and, tossed at the mercy of the sea, she began to leak. All hands were called to the pumps and a heroic attempt was made to keep the water from gaining upon them, but the cold was so intense that the crew were frostbitten and were soon forced to stop

Another sea smashed the skylights, filling the cabin with water. Mrs. Ryan was forced to take refuge in the uppermost bunk to escape drowning. The heavy seas not only flooded the vessel, but they also spoiled the ship's food and fresh water supply, while the vessel itself became one mass of ice from stem to stern.

With no fire, their food and water supply gone, the weather freezing cold and a raging sea in progress, the sufferings of those on the Ohio were terrible all through Wednesday night.

About 8 o'clock Thursday morning, the weather having moderated, a sail was sighted and a signal of distress was raised by the half frozen men or the Ohio and this was seen by the Roosevelt, which was returning from a Grand Banks fishing trip. The Roosevelt quickly bore down upon her and learning that the crew desired to be taken off at once began preparations for their rescue. Captain McHenry of the Roosevelt called for volunteers and every one of the 18 members of his crew responded.

A heavy sea was running, which made the attempted rescue a most perilous undertaking. Two dories, each containing two men, were sent off to the many times in danger of being capsized, the lifesavers succeeded in taking off the nine persons on the Ohio and safely landing them on their own vessel.

All were badly prostbitten, half frozen and half starved, but when once aboard the Roosevelt they were furnished with dry clotning and food and ance by their rescuers.

Captain McHenry decided to put a in a measure his speech. This it is believed can be done, as her cargo of lumber serves to keep her afloat and the wind is favorable for the undertaking.

Upon the arrival of the Roosevelt in for the night. Mrs. Ryan, who is but 24 years old and who has been married but a short time, was taking her first trip at sea with her husband.

OPENING LETTERS.

A Variety of Arguments Upon This Home Question.

A short time ago an argument was carried on in my presence that greatly astonished me. The question discussed was concerning the privilege of opening letters coming to the home regardless of the fact that they were addressed to some members of the family not present at the time. As I listened to the arguments I realized how tight a hold the desire of gratifying curiosity had procured upon us.

Some held that the opening of all letters was a privilege allowed parents alone. Others seemed to think that a letter was household property. A few declared that, as a rule, they did not believe in the indiscriminate opening of mail. Still, they felt that as an exception to this rule husbands and wives should consider it their prerogative to open mail addressed to each other.

After listening to the opinions brought forth I found that I stood alone in thinking that a letter should be opened only by the one to whom it is addressed. I felt that, although I might have some curiosity concerning the contents I would have no right to open that epistle even though I felt that I might never be accorded the privilege of reading it.

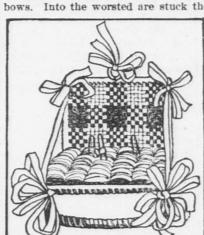

As far as parents are concerned I must say that I feel sure that a majority of children take great delight in showing their letters to their parents. We all know how happy it makes a child to receive a personal letter. How much greater is the delight when they are allowed to open and read it! If parents have the full confidence of their children I think they will not find them wanting in this little act of filial

I cannot understand why husbands and wives think they can lay aside the common courtesies of life in the home among them respect for each other's property. I hope I am not speaking too strong, but I think that where there is lack of trust there is frequently lack of love.-Brown Book.

Plaques of Plaster Paris.

Cut out a pretty picture, following the lines carefully, and lay it face downward upon a plate or platter the center of which suits the size of the picture. Mix a little plaster of paris with cold water to the consistency of cake dough, stirring constantly until all lumps are reduced. Then place carefully upon the picture, smoothly filling the center of the dish, but not displacing the picture. In twenty minutes the plaster will become hard enough to be readily removed, as one would remove a ple from a plate. Make little holes with a penknife where ribbons should be run through to hang the plaque. Choose ribbon to harmonize with the color in the picture and run through the holes, letting bows or rosettes appear on the face of the plaque. Tinted plaques may be made by using one-third alabastine Memphis, Jan. 7 .- W. J. Disinfecting the Clothing.

In every household should be set aside a small room (if this be impossible, then a large closet) for the purpose of disinfecting all street clothing. There are many disinfectants on the market, inexpensive and effective, that will not harm the most delicate fabric or coloring. A formaldehyde generator will be found entirely satisfactory for this purpose and well worth the trouble and expense. This exigency is doubly imperative regarding the clothing of housemaids. The places they visit are naturally unknown to the mistress of the house and beyond her jurisdiction, and much contagion conveyed on their clothing has entered our homes by this means.—Harper's Bazar.

Other Cities and Towns Forging Ahead of Us.

The opening part of the annual report of Supt. Parlin to the School Committee is an exhaustive summary of the cost of Quincy for a period of 25 years, together with other cities having 5000 school children. The Daily Ledger prints it in full.

It is the custom of land surveyors, especially in case of local attraction, to test the accuracy of their course and to guard against mistakes by taking "backsights." In imitation of their wisdom and caution it seems appropriate at the end of the third decade since the office of superintendent of schools was established in Quincy to take a brief backward view not only to see whence we have come and what was accomplished. but to consider the changed conditions and to discover the course of our pres-

The year 1875 marks the beginning of a new era in the history of the public schools of Quincy. In that year the schools were for the first time placed under expert supervision, Col. Francis W. Parker being employed as the executive agent of the School Committee. FRENCH CONSCRIPTS.

Marked by Bad Clothes and an Absence of Baggage. "They are a curious crowd," says a writer describing the conscripts of the French army, "these boys of twenty and of twenty-one, in various stages of sobriety, as they throng on to the platforms of the railway stations and, under the fire of gentle and superior sarcasm from the young men in uniform who have already done a year or two, climb into the third class cattle pens which are to take them to the threshold of their lives in barracks. The sons of wealthy men elbow the scourings of the street.

"All wear their worst clothes, except those who do not possess a second suit. The chief peculiarity about the whole of them is an entire absence of luggage. A young friend of by own was one of them. His luggage for the two days of his first visit to Paris consisted of a comb and an extremely aged toothbrush, and before leaving Paris he asked me to keep his overcoat for him till he returned. 'They will only spoil it, and it is a new one,' was his plea.

"I counted the valises of a whole train load of conscripts who accompanied my friend, and they numbered exactly four. "Those four will have their lives teased out of them tomorrow,' was the verdict of a private under arms upon the platform."

BOILING WATER.

Why a Redhot Poker Does Not Cause It to Hiss.

If a redhot poker be thrust into cold water it hisses and sputters; if into boiling water, there is no commotion. When in the first experiment cold water comes in contact with the hot iron there is a sudden and explosive generation of steam, which causes the liquid to be scattered with a hissing noise, consequent upon the bursting of innumerable bubbles. When, on the other hand, a poker is thrust into boiling water, which is already freely giving forth steam, the introduction of the hot iron by still further assisting steam production causes the poker to become at once surrounded by a sheath of vapor, which effectually prevents the water from coming

TREATING A SPRAIN.

Perfect Rest and Hot Fomentations

the First Requisites. The question of how to treat a sprain is often raised. Everybody understands the nature of a sprain; that wrenching of a joint whereby some of the ligaments (those very useful bands which unite the bones forming the joint) are violently stretched or per haps even ruptured. This kind of injury is rarely, except through unusual complications, dangerous in its nature, been on this committee. Mr. Freeman but it is certainly very painful and when of a serious nature may result in the permanent impairment of the joint, Such an injury, if at all severe, is immediately followed by marked swelling of the parts, and prompt attention should be given anticipating the surgeon's coming. The very first item in the treatment of a sprain is perfect rest of the limb until a doctor can be summoned. Reduce the swelling by applications of hot fomentations as hot as can be endured, changing about once in every three hours. If a piece of oilskin be not at hand use common newspaper. Wind it carefully outside the hot cloth. This will prevent the escape of the steam and prevent the cloth from cooling. A good way to save the hands from being scalded is to place the hot, dripping flannel in a towel, then, taking hold of each end of the towel, to wring it until the flannel is dry enough to apply.

THE WHITE CZAR.

Russia's Ruler Owes This Title to the Slip of a Pen.

The czar of Russia owes one of his titles to a slip of the pen. The Chinese character pronounced Hwang, meaning emperor, was originally compounded of two elements, meaning "oneself" and "ruler," by which it was intimated that an emperor or ruler of men should, before all things, be master of himself. In after ages, however, by the omission of a single stroke, this character assumed its present corrupted form, in which the component elements signify "white" and "ruler," white having taken the place of the original "oneself." Some years ago it was pointed out by a St. Petersburg correspondent of the czar," by which name the emperor of Russia is now known throughout the whole of Asia.-London Telegraph.

NOTICE TO PARENTS

City Clerk's Office, Dec. 30, 1904. FETHE Record of Births in any city or town is a slways more or less unsatisfactory, owing to the fact that the canvasser finds difficulty in getting the necessary information. Names and dates are frequently given incorrectly. The importance of accuracy is shown in many cases where there is a question of descent, or inheritance of property, or collection of life insurance or pensions. The City Clerk's copy of the secord is accepted as conclusive evidence in a court of law. While great pains are taken by shows that it is necessary that parents them-selves should lend their assistance. In fact, the law requires that parents shall give notice to the City Clerk of the birth of their children and provides a penalty for neglect to give such motice for the space of 10 days.

It often happens that only children or ser vants are at home when the canvasser makes his call, and the answers to his questions are open to doubt. I therefore request all parents in whose household a birth has occurred in the year 1904, to place upon a paper or card the required information, and keep it in a convenient place until the canvasser appears.

The canvasser will begin on Jan. 2, 1905 HARRISON A. KEITH, City Clerk. Quincy, Dec. 27, 1904. 1-12t--p-2w

One of these was the statement by Harold Page, the brother of the murdered woman, that he had been acquainted with Tucker for more than six years and that the latter had cailed twice at the Page home, the first time at the invitation of the witness.

The other feature was the statement of M. D. Ewell, a handwriting expert, that the person who wrote the address of "J. L. Morton, Charlestown, Mass.," written on a piece of paper found on the floor of Miss Page's room after the murder, was the same person who filled out and signed the sales slips, alleged by the government to have been made for a Boston firm of stationers.

The prisoner's lawyers made no effort to conceal the fact that they were pleased with the testimony of Harold Page. Mr. Edward Page, father of the victim, testified Thursday that he had never seen Tucker until the latter was arraigned in the district court at but Harold Page stated that he has since 1898 and that he had known him by sight a year previous to the time when their speaking acquaintance be-Tucker had called on him twice, and on the first occasion he had spent some time within the Page house. How the Humorist Figured In the Original Story of Jim Wolf's Tomcat as Related by Captain H. Lacy. Tramp Printer Who Sold a Skeleton and Celebrated.

Mountain Tribune, Westeliff, Colo., who was in Brookfield, Mo., recently for the first time since he went through in 1864 as postal clerk on the "Pony Express," as the Hannibal and St. Joe mail train was then known, was born in Hannibal in 1839 and was a playmate and later a fellow printer of Samuel Clemens, the famous humorist, though a few years younger, says a Brookfield (Mo.) correspondent of the Twain's' early chums Captain Lacy never saw the slightest indication of coming greatness in his friend.

"The worst trouble about Sam when he was a boy," said Captain Lacy, "was his laziness. He was a dreadful shirker. When the war came on and everybody was taking sides he joined Major Thomas A. Harris' Confederate regiment and was in a little fight at Florida, Monroe county, with Colonel U. S. Grant's command. Harris was licked, and Sam came home. He said he believed the Confeds were wrong, because the other fellows were the strongest.

"The first thing that called my attention to Sam as a writer while out west was his yarn about Jim Wolf's tomeat, which was published in a San Francisco paper. I recognized the inci dent and knew there was nobody out Washington, Jan. 7.-Brazil has there but Sam who could have told it. Jim was a printer, and he roomed with Sam, who he thought was the smartest boy that ever lived. One night the girls of the house gave a 'candy pull,' and a lot of sticky molasses candy was laid out on the back porch to cool before pulling. The young folks were raising high jinks downstairs, and Jim's tomcat was out on the back fence singing an accompaniment.

"Sam couldn't sleep, and he told Jim to get up and murder his cat. Jim would have committed suicide if Sam Charleston, Jan. 7.—Thomas Scan- had told him to, and without taking done, an Italian contractor, and three the trouble to put on his clothes he to Auburndale in the train. The thing gave way with a crash, and poor Jim was precipitated like a chunk out of a me teor on that redhot molasses candy He gave a shriek that brought all the 40 of his countrymen were kept by the boys and girls out on the porch, and the landlady kindly fetched a lamp. Jim was never a very pretty boy, but at that moment everybody thought he was the sweetest thing on earth. The candy hung to his naked legs and breast like barnacles to an ocean dere lict. It broke up the party, and everybody blamed Sam for it. Well, he touched up that yarn in a way that made it even funnier than it w then I knew that the careless, fun loving lad had struck his gait-that he was really good for something.

"A tramp printer named Snell blew into Hannibal one day and was given work on the paper. He was an uncommunicative sort of fellow, but a good worker and obedient. Sam decided to bring him out of his reserve and to do it borrowed a skeleton from a doctor's office and slipped it into the printer's bed. AMERICA'S FRIEND Y. M. C. A. CLASSES SHOTS EXCHANGED.

Cheers For Catherine of Russia at Japanese Meeting

Consul General Uchida Says It Does Not Mean End of War, but His Country Will Be Generous When Peace Does Come

New York, Jan. 9.-The fall of Port

Arthur was celebrated here at a mass meeting of Japanese residents of the former minister to Spain, and Alex- ton street any evening. ander Tison, both of whom spoke. because they were as generous in victory as they were brave in battle; and when he followed with the statement that during the war of the revolution Catherine of Russia came to the rescue of America with men and money, the entire audience burst into applause and ended the demonstration with cheers. In his address, General Woodford said in part: "I want to congratulate you on something higher than success in arms. In all the conduct of this great siege Japan has set an example to the nations and soldiers of the civilized world by the humane conduct of her armies. You have been as generous in victory as you were brave in TEACHER and TUNER of PIANO.

"It is difficult for some of you to understand why America watches the war with so much interest. For a century and a half this nation has been on terms of the greatest friendship toward Russia. Our independence is the result of a revolution from Great Britain. In the hour of the revolution Catherine of Russia was our friend. She lent us invaluable aid and when we needed it most.

"Our national existence was threatened by secession 40 years ago and was saved after four years of bloody warfare. In that hour of need and darkness Russia was again our friend.

"Japan, as the war has progressed, has loomed up in a certain sense, an older sister and a young sister. She and America are great friends. A little more than 51 years ago an American naval officer sailed into Yokohama. He was received by your people with every evidence of friendship. Through his instrumentality treaties were made etween Japan and America. America was thus able to introduce Japan to the modern world."

The meeting was presided over by S. Uchida, consul general of Japan. Addresses were made in their native tengue by 15 Japanese merchants and professional men, and Uchida, Woodford and Tison spoke in English.

"A few weeks ago," said Uchida, in opening the meeting, "the remnants of the Russian army were completely smashed when 203-Meter hill was taken, and now Port Arthur, the Gibraltar of the far east, has at last been taken by the undaunted bravery of our victorious army. Our country was forced to this war by the aggressiveness of the Russians. We Japanese are a peace-loving nation and we would not have entered upon this war if we had not been forced into it.

"We are quite willing to make peace if Russia is willing. From the press reports that have come from St. Petersburg it seems to me the Russian government, instead of making peace is determined to carry on the war. It is our turn to impose peace upon the Russian government by keeping up the fighting as long as the Russians want to carry on the war. The fall of Port Arthur does not necessarily mean the end of the war, but we all hope that it will bring Russia to meeting our terms of peace. We will be generous, not of peace. We will be generous, not selfish, in such an hour. "Our purpose in meeting here is to celebrate the great victory of Japanese arms by raising funds for the relief of the families of the brave soldiers and sailors who died during the siege of Port Arthur. We have no band of music here to celebrate the great victory. The victory is itself enough music to make us all happy. And then we have the harmonious music of the entire press of America chanting in chorus the bravery of our people in battle."

APPOINTMENTS.

Committees of City Council Will be Announced This Evening.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held this evening. The main object of the meeting is to Charles H. Hardwick heirs of est. to Olof hurry through the loan order for $400,000 in anticipaiton of taxes. This order will be reported upon by the special committee, and will probably be passed under suspension of the rules.

It is more than probable that there will be numerous petitions presented and orders offered.

It is not believed that Mayor Thompson will send in his appointments at this meeting.

With so many new members it is somewhat singular, but all of the chairmen of the standing committees of the City Council of 1904 were reelected with the exception of Sewers and Water Supply, Councilman Langelier. The chairmen of the other committee last year were: Finance, -Bass; Streets-Gassett; Fire Department, - Piper

NOTICE TO PARENTS.

City Clerk's Office, Dec. 30, 1904. THE Record of Births in any city or town i always more or less unsatisfactory, owing to the fact that the canvasser finds difficulty in getting the necessary information. Names and dates are frequently given incorrectly. The importance of accuracy is shown in many cases where there is a question of descent, or inheritance of property, or collection of life insurance or pensions. The City Clerk's copy of the record is accepted as conclusive evidence in a court of law. While great pains are taken by his office to have the records. his office to have the records or corners shows that it is necessive that parents themselves should lend their assistance. In fact, the law requires that parents shall give notice to the City Clerk of the birth of their children. and provides a penalty for neglect to give such notice for the space of 40 days.

It often happens that only children or servants are at home when the canvasser makes his call, and the answers to his questions are open to doubt. I therefore request all parents in year 1904, to place upon a paper or card the required information, and keep it in a convenient ment. DEAD ON SIDEWALK

Corpse of Vermont Man Frozen

In His Own Blood Winooski, Vt., Jan. 9 .- Louis Lamora was found dead upon the sidewalk in front of the tenement house where he lived, yesterday, frozen to the ice in a pool of his own blood. His tro brothers-in-law, Louis and Dennis Tranabley, have been arrested in connection with the affair.

Lamora, it is alleged, went home Saturday night badly intoxicated and ordered his wife and five children to eave the house. Fearing trouble, they fled to the home of a neighbor, where they spent the night. Nothing is known by the police of the exact movements of Lamora after this, but it is thought that he went to bed, as the bed clothes were disturbed.

What Tucker Trial Witness Says of Morton Address

THREE EXPERTS TESTIFY

All Agree That Writing on Scrap of Paper Found Near Miss Page's Body Agrees With That on Sales Slips Said to Have Been Made Out by Tucker

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 10.-Three bandwriting experts testified yesterday at the trial of Charles L. Tucker, charged with the murder of Miss Mabel Page, that, in their opinions, the person who filled out certain sales slips, alleged by the prosecution to have been n:ade out by the prisoner, wrote the address of "J. L. Morton, Charlestown, Mass.," which was on a piece of paper found beside the body of the murdered

The greater part of the proceedings seemed to weary everyone in the courtroom, with the possible exception of the attorneys conducting the direct and ross-examination. The prisoner made o attempt to conceal the fact that he was bored; the spectators yawned frequently and the jurymen shifted uneasily in their seats.

The three experts who testified regarding the handwriting of the disputed address as compared with the sales slips, which have been entered as standards of comparison, were Professor Marshall D. Ewell of Chicago Charles French of this city and David N. Carvalho of New York. Both Professor Ewell and Mr. Carvalho testified at the Dr. Kennedy and Roland Molineux murder trials in New York, in the latter case being a rayed on opposite sides. Professor Ewell finished his testimony in the afternoon, after having occupied the stand during court sessions since Friday afternoon.

Mr. French went further in his deductions than did Professor Ewell, describing to the jury the state of mind of the author of the disputed address at the time it was written. "This writing shows,' said the witness, "that at the time the author was laboring under nervous pressure; he was evidently in haste, and did not exactly know what to write or how to write it."

The direct and cross-examination of French occupied the greater part of the day, and it was not until nearly 3 o'clock that Carvalho took the stand. There was a great deal of interest in Carvalho's testimony and for the first time since the handwriting experts were called the witness had the attention of all in the courtroom. Witness detailed his methods of studying disputed handwriting. He said that in making investigations of certain standards he looked for eccentricities.

"If the letter 'a' is written correctly in 20 different places," he said, "it does not follow that the 20 'a's' were written by the same person. On the other hand, if there is a peculiar, distinguishing feature, or a combination of peculiar features appearing in a number of 'a's' it is fair to assume that one person wrote them."

Mr. Carvalho, in concluding his direct testimony, said that he was of the opinion that the same person who wrote the standards also wrote the Morton address. He said further that he had examined the writing on a postal card, which will be introduced later, and that a portion of this writing was identical with the writing on the standards and on the disputed address. This postal card, the prosecution alleges, was found in a pocket of Tucker's overcoat on the night he was arrested. Mr. Carvalho, in order to illustrate his testimony, had prepared a series of photographic reproductions of the standards and the disputed writing. These were arranged in a composite form. In one column appeared a letter taken from the disputed address and in an opposite column were corresponding letters taken from the standards. In addition to this Carvalho had clipped from the photographic reproductions of the standards sufficient letters to make | 162 Granite Street, the address "J. L. Morton, Charlestown. Mass." These he pieced together, and, so far as possible, followed the allignment of the disputed address and then photographed the result.

This composite photograph was shown to the jury after Attorney Vahey, of counsel for the prisoner, had made a spirited objection. The court, however, overruled the objection, Judge Sheldon saying that for purposes of illustration the composite photograph was nothing more than a chart and was no more incompetent than would be blackboard representations.

When court adjourned Carvalho was being cross-examined by Vahey. He said that the handwriting in the disputed address was disguised, but did not believe that the disguise was intentional. The two other experts testified that the disputed handwriting was in a disguised hand, and was of the opinion that it was disguised intentionally.

The surprise in the expert testimony has been the rapidity with which it has been presented. When Carvalho concludes his testimony there will remain only one handwriting expert to he called by the prosecution.

A Valuable Flute That Went to Sea and Came Back.

a passenger on Wednesday morning of last week on one of the trains to Boston which was held up for some time at South Boston because of the storm. He carried his favorite instrument, the flute, and while walking forward from car to car, he had the misfortune when over Fort Point channel, to have the flute knocked from bis bands, and it fell into the water and disappeared.

It was a flute valued at $100 and Mr. Hurt did everything possible to recover t. He consulted railroad and harbor officials and also a diver, and advertised to pay a liberal reward.

Several days went by and he gave up the favorite instrument as lost, and purchased another. This week a South Boston man walked into his office with the flute. He said his young son had found it in the ice near Swett street while gathering drift wood, a mile or more from the point where it was lost. It was damaged somewhat, but Mr. Hunt was glad to get it back and gave the man $20.

NOTICE TO PARENTS.

City Clerk's Office, Dec. 30, 1904. THE Record of Births in any city or town is dates are frequently given incorrectly. The importance of accuracy is shown in many cases where there is a question of descent, or inheritance of property, or collection of life insur-ance or pensions. The City Clerk's copy of the record is accepted as conclusive evidence in a court of law. While great pains are taken by his office to have the records correct, experience shows that it is necessary that parents them-selves should lend their assistance. In fact, the law requires that parents shall give notice to the City Clerk of the birth of their children, and provides a penalty for neglect to give such notice for the space of 40 days.

It often happens that only children or servants are at home when the canvasser makes his call, and the answers to his questions are open to doubt. I therefore request all parents in whose household a birth has occurred in the year 1904, to place upon a paper or card the required information, and keep it in a convenient place util the canvasser appears. place until the canvasser appears.

The canvasser will begin on Jan. 2, 1905.

Fisherman's Body Found In His Isolated Hut

HIS HEAD BATTERED IN

Bloodstains on Walls as High as gle With Murderer--Victim Had Displayed His Savings

Ellsworth, Me., Jan. 10 .- Evidences of murder, with robbery as the probable motive, developed with the discovery of the body of William W. Robbins, a fisherman, in an isolated hut ing night. three miles from Deer Isle and where he had long lived alone. The head was crushed in and the body covered with blood. The authorities are investigating and an inquest will be held.

Robbins, who was 46 years of age, had few callers, his nearest neighbor, J. E. Eaton, living a quarter of a mile from the Mountainville postoffice. From Eaton's home a light at Robbins' place was usually seen at night, and when this light was missed for several known until confided to neighbors. nights in succession it occurred to Eaton that his neighbor might be ill, and he sent his son to Robbins' home to in vestigate. Looking into a window of the hut, the boy saw the body of the fisherman lying in a pool of blood on the floor within. Believing it to be a licted by him, was brought into court case of suicide he so reported the matter to Judge Spofford at Deer Isle.

Judge Spofford, accompanied by Dr. Wasgatt and George L. Beck, began an The woman was found nearly unconexamination. They found the only entrance unlocked. The kitchen, one of three rooms of which the structure consisted, plainly revealed the fierce struggle Robbins must have had with his assailant. Bloodstains were upon the door and walls as high as the ceil ing and all over the furniture. The clothing was saturated with it.

The man's head was beaten in and cut almost beyond recognition. The stock of a gun which the murderer undoubtedly used was found near the body and its broken barrel was in a corper of the room. The broken end of the barrel was matted with blood and hair. Dr. Wasgatt gave it as his opinion that Robbins had been dead nearly a

Every fact indicated that robbery was the motive for the crime. Robbins was known to have had considerable money usually and he frequently showed it. In fact, it is believed his fondness for displaying money was responsible for his death.

A DANGEROUS PERSON

Young Desperado Whose Capture is Deemed Imperative

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 10.-Emulatdos, a youth of 20 years, armed with a shotgun, a repeating rifle and a bowie knife, has succeeded in terrorizing Worcester county and attracted to himself the attention of the state and county police, who have traced and followed him across the New Hampshire line. While the officers believe that he is a product of sensational litera-Ceiling Indicate Fierce Strug- ture, or possibly demented, they have determined that his early capture is imperative.

Review and Inspection of : quadrons at Hampton Roads

Norfolk, Jan. 10.-Headed by the ing the example of dime novel brava- first-class battleship Kearsarge, flying the pennant of Rear Admiral Barker, 18 warships of the United States navy are on their way down the coast to winter maneuvering grounds after having been inspected and reviewed in Hampton Roads by Secretary Morton and Admiral Dewey. The fleet, made up of the battleship, coast and Caribbean squadrons, and the second flotilla of torpedo boat destroyers, is one of the most powerful ever gathered in Hampton Roads under the American flag and the spectacle of the review and inspection was wit nessed by thousands of people.

There was not a cloud to cast shadow over the roads when the dispatch boat Dolphin, carrying the secretary and admiral of the navy, arrived and was greeted by a 17-gun salute from the land batteries of Fortress Munroe and the flagships of the three squadrons. The inspection consisted of the Dolphin steaming down the line of ships between the battleship and coast squadrons, returning to take her station at the head of the columns between the Kearsarge and Texas. When she had dropped anchor Rear Admirals Barker, Sands and Sigsbee made official calls on the secretary of the navy and Admiral Dewey. They were followed by the commandant of Fortress Munroe.

Famous Statuary in a Collar New York, Jan. 10 .- Biondi, the Italian sculptor, failed in obtaining judgment on the pleadings in the supreme court in his suit to compel the trustees of the Metropolitan Museum of Art to carry out a contract made to exhibit his group, "The Saturnalia," in the institution for a year. Owing to the objections of New York sculptors the group, after having been in the east wing of the museum for a short time, was placed in the cellar, where it has since remained. The suit must now be tried before a jury.

The Bush Guinea

People on hearing of some strange element the story teller can make us of. Per contra, there are incidents tha ticed, but would be seized upon at once by the writer of fiction.

A long while ago, when Bristol, Eng. land, was growing rich with the profits of the West India trade, a stranger set tled in the town, taking lodgings near a famous old inn called the Bush. One day soon after his arrival in Bristol about the noon hour, he entered the coffee room of the Bush, seated him self at a table near a cheerful fire-for it was late in the autumn-and called for a glass of brandy and water. "Would you like to see the London paper, sir?" asked the landlord, hand

ing him the sheet. "Thank you," said the stranger.

Now, the act of the host was notice able from the fact that the stranger ore about him no evidence of prosper ity or that he would make a custome for the inn worth cultivating. His clothes were seedy, his body was lean, and he was bent over in a confirmed stoop. He read the paper through, paid sixpence for his brandy and went out The next day he came again at the same hour, called for a sixpenny worth of brandy, read the paper and departed. He never gave a waiter a fee, nevfestly a gentleman in very poor circum-

Christmas came without the "poo gentleman" even having called for anything to eat in the house, and Weeks made up his mind that his guest should have one good square meal free of expense. The day before Christmas, as the gentleman was departing, the landlord stepped up to him and said:

thanks and went out, neither accept ing nor declining the invitation. The landlord feared that, though he had put the case as delicately as possible, he had wounded his feelings, placing himself in the attitude of reflecting on his guest's parsimony. His feelings were relieved, however, by the gentle man appearing the next day punctually at 1 o'clock in the same seedy garments he had hitherto worn. Seating himself at the table, he partook of a dinner with the apparent relish of one to whom a square meal was a novelty, the hour until 4.55 P. M., then every 10 and 40 not failing to do justice to the rare ale for which the inn was noted far and P. M. wide. After he had eaten his fill the landlord handed him his paper, which he read till he had exhausted every and 10.10 P. M. word, then rose to leave. Weeks, who had enjoyed the satisfaction his beneficiary had shown in the one meal he had taken in the Bush, stepped up to him and helped him to put on his coat. To cap the climax of his generosity the kindly landlord slipped a Christmas gift of a guinea into the

"poor gentleman's" hand. The recipient looked at the gold piece, then at the landlord, sighed; something like a smile hovered for a moment about his lips; then, buttoning up his coat, he departed. That was the last time the "poor gen tleman" was seen at the Bush. Whether his absence was that after such kindness he was unwilling to trespass

New Bill for Explosives.

Representative Cole of Andover has filed two bills with the clerk of the House looking to move rigid regulation of the keeping and selling of explosives. One of the bills removes the powers and duties heretofore conferred upon cities and towns regulating the keeping, storage, use, manufacturer, sale, handling and transportation of all kinds of explosives.

Mr. McNary and his colleagues in the Boston delegation have been met with the charge that the contemplated improvement was not needed by commerce, but was intended primarily, if not solely, for the benefit of the Fore River Ship and Engine Building Company of Quincy.

Friends of the Fore river project deny that it is intended solely to benefit the company.

Unity Club.

Three papers will be given at the Unity Club, Friday evening. The subject is "American Humorists," and Mrs. Charles E. Finch will read a paper upon "Oliver Wendell Holmes," Mr. F. H. Bishop upon "Mark Twain," and Mr. W. E. Simmons upon "Artemas Ward." Such a programme should ensure a good audience.

Not Badly Injured, But. Word was received at the police station Monday night that a man had fallen off the embankment at the new Atlantic bridge. The ambulance was sent down and the man brought to the station. He proved to be James Sproule. Fortunately he was but little injured. He was locked up for drunkenness.

The First Appearance Of the Brass Band

T was the first public appearance of the newly organized brass band in a small country town. The occasion was a political demonstration, and the brass band, at the head of the grand procession, was covering itself with glory. Suddenly the bass drum came to a dead stop and maintained a grim silence for some little distance. When the procession made a temporary halt the leader of the band sought out the man with the big drum and indignantly demanded why he had spoiled the effect of their performance in one of its most telling passages.

"Do yer see that 'ere house over there?" responded the man in a low, confidential tone, pointing to an old farmhouse a little way back. "Yes," growled the exasperated lead-

"How was that?" the caller inquired with a reasonable show of interest. "Why, whenever I want to humiliate him I bring out some of his old love letters and read them to him. He tries to grin over them, but I can see they make him squirm. The other day he said he wished he had some of my love letters to read in return. 'It's lucky they were all destroyed in that unfortunate fire you told me about,' said I.

'There was something I didn't tell you, said he. 'What was that?' I asked. And what do you suppose he said?" "I'm sure I can't guess," the caller replied.

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 11.-Expecting that Amy Roberts, the servant in the Page family, would be called to the witness stand, hundreds of men and women beseiged the East Cambridge court house yesterday in an attempt HENRY TURNER BAILEY to gain admission to the room in which Charles L. Tucker of Auburndale is being tried for the murder of Miss Mabel Page, who was stabbed to death at her father's home in Weston on March 31, 1904. Those who were fortunate enough to gain admittance were disappointed because Miss Roberts was not called, but all breathed a sigh of relief when the last of the handwriting experts for the prosecution finished his

All the persons who tes-Shawmut Park, tified that they were in the house after the murder was examined in regard to Blue Hill Park, the time indicated by the tall clock. It was brought out that soon after 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the murder persons in the house noticed that the clock had stopped. Mr. Page then set the clock. It was also brought out that on the day of the funeral the clock was several minutes slow. Edward Page, the father of the murdered woman, testified last week that the clock lost one or two minutes every day, and that on account of some defect in the mechanism, the weights frequently got tangled, thus causing the timeplece to stop. It is believed the prosecution intends to show that the murderer of Miss Page had more time in which to do his work than is generally

Another feature of the testimony was the rapidity with which disposition was made of the handwriting experts for the prosecution. David Carvalho, the New York expert who was on the stand when court adjourned Monday, finished his testimony. He was followed by William J. Kingsley, another New York stand but a few moments, and by agreement between counsel he was not subjected to a cross-examination. He agreed with the other experts that the author of the "J. L. Morton" address, which was found near Miss Page's body, was the same person who filled out certain sales slips, which, the prosecution contends, were made out by 1479 Hancock Street. Tucker.

At the side of Governor Adams stood the athletic form of retiring Governor Peabody, who today begun what will be a bitter contest for the governorship.

Arm-in-arm Governor Peabody and Governor-elect Adams entered the capitol, which was packed by senators, representatives and visitors. Lieutenant Governor Haggott, presiding over the joint session of the legislature, greeted both men with a handshake as they stepped upon the ros trum. Chief Justice Gabbert stepped forward and in a few seconds the oath was taken and Alva Adams became REAL ESTATE and INSURANCE, governor of Colorado.

Governor Adams in his inaugura

address said: "During the last two years Colorado has had many incidents to regret, many deeds to deplore, but much of our evil fame is due more to our own exaggera tions than to facts. The truth has been bad enough without partisan color. Lies need no press agent. It is not true that half the voters of Colorado are dynamiters and anarchists, nor is it true that the other half are shylocks and oppressors. We cannot complain if the world takes us at our own estimate. Hereafter when we paint our own picture let us use a brush that will not hide all our virtues and intensify our faults.

PROVISIONAL PEACE

Russian Admiral's Prediction as to Events In the Far East

Paris, Jan. 11 .- Vice Admiral Doubassoff, the Russian member of the North sea commission, is quoted by The Echo De Paris as having stated in an interview that he had submitted to Emperor Nicholas a program for a reorganization of the navy, which is absolutely indispensable for success in the war against Japan. Twenty months will be necessary for its execution.

Admiral Doubassoff thought the prosof the general synod of the Lutheran | pect for Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's squadron was hopeless. He unhesitatingly declared that he considered a provisional peace would shortly be probable, Japan retaining Port Arthur and other territories which she has occu-The annual report of the railroad pied. The Czar in a Quandary

St. Petersburg, Jan. 11.—Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky, minister of the interior, has informed the czar of his desire to be relieved of the office, because the imperial reform program does not go far enough to meet his views, but the emperor so far has persuaded him to remain in the ministry. The prince's retirement soon, however, is regarded as certain, and M. Witte apparently is equally certain of becoming the Bismarck of Russia, despite the fact that he is cordially hated as well as feared

Employers Took Initiative

Philadelphia, Jan. 11 .- A controversy which may result in a general strike or lockout has been precipitated over an attempt to renew agreements between the American Bridge company and local union No. 13 of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. Several demands were insisted upon by the union and when terms could not be agreed on the bridge company paid off the men. The employes had decided to strike if the terms were not accepted.

Consequently the wreck occurred, which caused the death of two persons and the injury of a number of

Chadwick Gems Located

Cleveland, Jan. 11 .- Officials of the customs service have succeeded in locating more than $50,000 worth of diamonds and jewels owned by Mrs. Chadwick, upon which it is declared no duty was paid when they were brought into this country from Europe. Most of these valuables, it is stated, are in the hands of persons in this city, who hold them as security for loans made to Mrs. Chadwick.

Schooners Wrecked In Gale

St. Johns, Jan. 11.-The Boston schooner Landseer was sunk in the middle arm of Bay of Islands, where she was loaded with herring. A fierce gale drove an ice floe against her. Schooner Robert Mason was sunk at St. Pierre in the same gale. Schooner Albion was driven ashore at St. Josephs, and it is likely that she will be a total loss. The crews of all the vessels are safe.

Subway Trains In Collision

New York, Jan. 11 .- A Broadway train in the subway hit a Lenox avenue train as it was standing on the down town track of the subway station at Worth and Elm streets early this morning. Nearly everyone in both trains was thrown down by the collision. A dozen or more persons were hurt by the shock and the flying glass, but no one was seriously injured.

They left the city at 5 o'clock, reaching the lumber camp after dark. They went to a stable and found their man. Deputy Sheriff Rice stepped up to the oddly dressed young man and said: "You are under arrest."

The young fellow hesitated a moment and then replied: "Yes, I guess I am the much-wanted fellow."

He did not offer any resistance and was driven to Bellows Falls with the officers. On the way he admitted being in Petersham and when asked what he did at the home of Mrs. Ward, he replied, "Well, I don't know; I suppose I was foolish.'

He is now in the Bellows Falls lockup. He says he is willing to go to Massachusetts without extradition papers, He will be brought to Athol, Mass., where he will be arraigned in court.

A CONTRAST.

In marked contrast is the situation in Hyde Park. Today's Post says: The Selectmen of the town last evening were informed by the chairman of the board, Edwin C. Jenney, that the town Henry Billings; bond, $75,000. was better off financially by nearly $100,000 than was generally known. Politics led to the discovery. Some of the Selectmen were up for re-election.

and some of the usual animosities had developed. The tax rate has been called high, and in an endeavor to see if it could $2000.

not be reduced next year, Mr. Jenney made the discovery. The last report of the collector of taxes shows $100,000 is due the town in In attempting to see how much of the unpaid taxes were really a cold asset,

Mr. Jenny found that there was a considerable amount of unexpended balance for appropriations each year for a long series of years.

After working on the annual reports of the treasurer for some time he called $1,000. Special prices for Thursday at the in an expert accountant to ascertain the actual amount.

It is the impression that these unexpended balances have been used in place of many unpaid taxes, which, however, remain valuable assets of the town. It is believed that as much as 15 years back the unexpended balances

There was no way of ascertaining the going over each year's report of the of Elias A. Perkins late of Quincy, for $15 -The steamer Providence, as she nears treasurer, which showed the balances 841.30.

Mr. Bailey to Lecture. The Quincy Teachers' Association announces a stereopticon lecture on 'Central Shrines," by Henry Turner Bailey, former agent of the State Board of Education, in High School hall, Thursday evening, January 19.

Mr. Baily is too well known to need any introduction to the people of this vicinity. All who have ever heard him will bear testimony to his charming PAINTER. personality and his remarkable ability to entertain, instruct and inspire. Miss Arnold, president of Simmons college, says to him, "Whatever his theme, he holds and charms his audience."

Mr Bailey says of this lecture: "All the great galleries of Europe have one or more works of art of supreme importance. This lecture is an attempt to bring these priceless treasures of the Vatican, The Uffizi, The Academy of Venice, The Louvre, and the National Gallery of London before an audience in an interesting and helpful way."

Mr. Bailey has seen the originals and made a critical study of them. The opportunity to see copies of these great art treasures through the eyes of such a master of interpretation is a rare selves of it should miss.

THE MOOD OF MIGHT.

There Is a Peculiar Potency In Belief

In One's Own Power. Achievement is less a matter of natural ability and external circumstance than of the habitual mental attitude. Success, happiness and accomplishment of all kinds are born of confidence, buoyancy and faith. Discontent, self distrust and hesitancy are all cankers, eating into every part of life and destroying force and perfection at every Everything in the package. Simply add hot

There is a peculiar potency in belief in one's own power. This need have no element of egotism in it, only a teadfast trust in oneself. Yet even hildish self conceit is better than yeak depreciation of self and the palsled muscle resulting. To believe in one's own success, to think and act always with confident assurance that it is possible to do anything and all things that one desires to do-such an attitude buoys up the spirit, sends the currents of energy and skill pulsing through the body and makes the maximum of accomplishment possible. There is nothing of this nature that will make hard work unnecessary. But hard work, vivified by the electric current of faith and triumphant confidence, will be multiplied in effect as if by magic. The human mechanism in all its intricacies and potencies is operated by a mental and spiritual dynamo the essence of which is faith, confidence and love. Why let life be operated at the minimum when deliberate, persistent effort can awaken the forces which will make each one the meant to be?-Rocky Mountain News.

THE CRIMINAL SQUIRREL.

He Is a Thief and a Murderer and Forest Destroyer. I wish to take away for all time the character of the squirrel. He is a thief and a murderer. Admired by ignorant city people and by journalists, he devotes his life to eating the eggs and killing the young of harmless and useful birds, which, if permitted to live and increase, would protect the forests from harmful insects. By killing these birds the squirrel takes rank as a forest destroyer. Moreover, the red squirrel is not the only sinner. In my opinion the gray is almost, if not quite, as bad. I have killed many squirrels caught in the act of eating eggs of young birds. Any bird that selects a nesting place which is also adapted to the use of squirrels is almost certain to be ejected. When a forest has been de stroyed by fires, lumbermen or insects, head each day would be a low estimate. Yet even this would make 18,-250 in a year. And seeds are not the only thing. In winter the ground is often strewn with twigs that have been stripped of buds by squirrels. The trees attacked are generally situated at the border of a dense forest and would, if left alone, yield the greatest seed crop. A single squirrel thus destroys in one day thousands of seeds in the germ. In Montana I have seen the grays rob birds' nests.-Country

Bee Hunting In Adirondacks. There is a charm about bee hunting peculiar to this particular spot, and it can be enjoyed wherever bees locate There were flowers about the camp, over which we had often noticed honeybees hovering, and the guide said he had been watching their maneuvers and it was about time to give them a chase. Our outfit was very simple, consisting of a box about four inches square, divided into two parts by an ordinary slide, the lower compartment containing a piece of bread or honeycomb saturated with a sirup made of sugar and water boiled. The slide was pushed into place and the decoy was ready for the bee family. It is easy to trap a honeybee if one only knows how.-Leslie's Weekly. A Thoughtful Empress. One evening Catherine II. of Russia had dined in one town and was to return to her palace in another some miles distant. These journeys were made with much ceremony and magnificence. The great sleighs were ready to start for home. Catherine sat alone in the imperial sleigh. She inquired if the drivers and the footmen had had dinner. Receiving a negative reply, she at once left her sleigh. "They have as much need of dinner as we," she said to her party. And she waited patiently until the servants had dined.

DEFENDANTKNEW MABEL

Eervant Testifies That They Were Together In Page Home For About Ten Minutes on One Occasion -- Detectives Testify

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 12 .- One of the most interesting pieces of testimony yet offered by the prosecution in the trial of Charles L. Tucker of Auburndale, who is charged with the murder of Mabel Page, came yesterday when Amy Roberts, a servant in the Page household, stated that a scarf pin which had been found in the defendant's overcoat pocket was the property of Miss Page and was in a pin cushion on her bureau on the day before the murder. The witness was positive that the pin taken from Tucker's pocket was the pin that belonged to Miss Page, inasmuch as the design was exactly the same and there were two peculiar bends in the shaft of the pin, one in about the middle of the shaft and the other near the point.

the day Tucker called at the Page house to see Harold Page, the brother of the murdered woman, he talked with Mabel Page. Miss Page and he, the witness said, were together in the living room of the Page home for about 10 minutes. Harold Page had previously testified that Tucker had called at the Page house to see about buying a dog; that Tucker saw Mabel Page on that occasion, and that afterwards Mabel had asked her brother the name of the caller. Harold Page was not able to tell, however, whether Mabel and Tucker had talked with each other. Miss Roberts' testimony indicated that Tucker and Mabel had conversed and, the prosecution claims, established the contention that Tucker was known by the murdered woman.

Evidence regarding the amount of money in Miss Page's purse before the murder was also given by Miss Roberts. noticed that at the time Mabel held in her hand a $10 bill and some other bills, the number and denomination of which she could not tell. Miss Roberts saved towards erecting a monument

RIVAL MILK CONCERNS

They Get Into a Tangle Which Courts May Have to Unravel Boston, Jan. 12 .-- At the annual meeting of the New England Milk Producers' association here a vote was passed to dissolve the organization, but the minority of the members do not regard this action as legal and it is possible that the courts may be appealed to. The majority are members of a recently organized rival organization, the Boston Co-Operative Milk Pro-Miss Roberts also testified that on ducers' company.

President Bullard was chairman of the meeting, which was most exciting throughout. The meeting lost its harmony as soon as Secretary Hunter, who is now manager of the rival organization, refused to serve as secretary or to make any report. After an hour's discussion, Luther Robbins was appointed secretary pro tem.

It appeared then that the members who were really desirous that the old organization should continue were in the minority. These delegates insisted that all who wished to vote should gates were in possession of these, or,

A LOSS OF $200,000

Academy of Music and Stores

Burned at Chelsea, Mass Chelsea, Mass., Jan. 12 .- A loss estimated at $200,000, caused by a fire that broke out at 12:15 o'clock this morning on the stage of the Academy of Music hall, gutted that building and the Savoy hotel, adjoining; badly damaged the Park hotel, and burned three small wooden buildings.

Three men, two of them firemen, were caught by falling walls, and Harry Giggey, a hoseman, was probably fatally injured. He was picked up unconscious and removed to a hospital. Both legs were fractured, and he probably sustained internal injuries. The Academy of Music was a handsome four-story structure of brick and stone, owned by Reuben Bloomfield company. The first floor was occupied by stores. There were many narrow escapes, a dozen families being removed with much difficulty from the top floor of a tenement block, which was in danger of destruction. The fire was discovered by the attendants at a Knights of Columbus meeting, who saw the blaze from their hall, across the street. These men, after giving the alarm, helped the tenement families to safety. The guests of the two hotels were forced into the street, many of them in scanty attire, but none was injured.

man pleased the club men better. Music of a high order was furnished during the reception and dinner, under the direction of A. H. Handley, and was enthusiastically applauded.

The program was as follows: March, "Uncle Sammy," Overture, " Lustpiel," Kela Bela Waltz. " Folle Ivresse," Selection, "Woodland," Popular Melange Grand Fantasia, "America,"

POST PRANDIAL.

Commodore Sheppard opened the posprandial exercises, by welcoming members and guests, and regretting that it was usually stormy on the date of the annual dinner.

Sumner H. Foster, the vice president of the Massachusetts Yacht Racing Association, was first introduced, and spoke at length on yachting in general, particularly the rules governing racing, and the efforts of the New York club to get a rule whereby cruising yachts will have some chance. He thought Massachusetts yachtsmen were fortunate in having an association which could make uniform rules, arrange dates which would not conflict, etc.

Mr. Foster's personal experiences as a yachtsman were interesting, and also his knowledge relative to fishing in Canadian waters, the seizure of yachts, etc. Those assembled also endorsed his statement that it was good fellowship which added greatly to the sport of the yachtsmen. [Applause.]

Ex-Commodore John T. Cavanagh of the Quincy Yacht club related some of his unpublished experiences as a yachtsman, covering a period of twenty years, in all kinds and sizes of boats. How the life boat was launched to rescue him on his first attempt. How he was caught in a fog one afternoon and sailed all night only to bring up at the same spot. How he once attempted to bring round the float at Houghs Neck, but instead went to Hull. His most thrilling experience was the recapture of his yacht from some Filipinos who held it for ranson.

Off Bridgeport, he said, he was rescued by a clergyman, who was yachting. Not only was his Salted Almonds launch towed in, but one of his crew who was injured was taken in at the clergyman's home. The clergyman was very kind during his stay of a few days, and refused recompense, but Mr. Tilley agreed to fasnish chance: light for the new church and has done so, and is enthusiastic over the clergyman.

Walked from Dedham.

The young lady found asleep in the Wollaston depot, Wednesday evening, proved to be the 20-year old daughter of Don Gleason Hill of Dedham. Miss Hill left her home early that morning and when she did not return at noon the family became alarmed and search was instituted. No trace of her was found until word was received from the Quincy police that she was in Quincy. Miss Hill was found asleep in the Wollaston depot about 8.30 that night. She was awakened and taken to a restaurant and after being given a supper was sent to the police station. Here was learned who she was and her friends notified. She must have walked ten miles or more. She was an inmate of

An interesting talk was given Thursday at the hall of the Wollaston Yacht club, by J. J. Feeley, the subject being a description of the lighthouses and other aids to navigation along the coast, with other things of interest to yachtsmen. A fine series of pictures was shown on the screen by Dr. Brayton beginning with a Norseman's Galley and ending with the modern racing yachts. The entertainment was enjoyed by a large number of the club members and their friends.

GENERAL EXODUS BEGUN

Commissioner McAdoo Has No Knowledge of Anyone Interfering With Police Officials In Performance of Their Duties

New York, Jan. 13 .- Following District Attorney Jerome's raid on the gambling house of "Honest John" Kelly, Jerome secured a statement, similar to that made by Kelly, from "Lou" Ludlam, which resulted in the seizure of a quantity of gambling apparatus in a house which Ludlam admitted had been conducted by him.

The two raids, followed by the report that Jerome was prepared to carry on an unrelenting warfare on gambling, created a general panic among gamblers, especially in the Tenderloin district, and during yesterday vanloads of gambling furniture were removed from reputed gambling houses and hurried across the ferries to Jersey City for security. Last night, with the exception of a few small and obscure places, not a gambling house in the city was doing business.

The Ludlam statement was obtained under the Dowling law, which exempts the gamblers from punishment when under the Dowling law, which exempts the gamblers from punishment when they give evidence against themselves. It was reported that District Attorney Jerome has issued subpoenas for several other gamblers and a mysterious man spoken of as "the man higher up," or "the real captain of the Tenderloin," who is alleged to have collected money from gamblers and to have induced the police to allow the gamblers to do business undisturbed.

"There is no power in New York city, nor anywhere else, for that matter which can be used at police headquar ters to the detriment of any police offimissioner McAdoo in a statement, in which he discusses recent gambling raids in the Tenderloin precinc; which have been made by order of Jerome.

BULKELEY WINS

Will Succeed Hawley as Senator

From the Nutmeg State Hartford, Jan. 13.-By a vote larger even than had been claimed by his supporters, ex-Governor Morgan G. Bulkeley was chosen as the nominee of the Republicans of the Connecticut general assembly for United States senator to succeed Joseph R. Hawley, who, on account of ill-health, is unable to serve longer as a senator. Mr. Bulkeley on the first ballot received 154 of the 244 votes cast, his nearest competitor, Samuel Fessenden, having 73. while 9 votes were thrown for Congressman Hill and 8 for former Governor McLean. The nomination was made unanimous on motion of Fes-

A BRAVE TOREADOR.

One of the Most Thrilling Incidents of the Bull Ring.

The famous Spanish toreador Re verte figured in one of the most thrilling incidents ever witnessed in the arena. It was at Bayonne. After disposing of two bulls Reverte had twice plunged his sword into a third of great strength and ferocity, and as the beast continued careering wildly the spectators began to hiss Reverte for bungling. Wounded to the very quick of his pride, the Spaniard shouted, "The bull is slain!" and, throwing aside his sword, sank on one knee with folded arms in the middle of the ring. He was right, but he had not allowed for the margin of accident. The wounded beast charged full upon him, but the matadore, splendid to the last, knelt motionless as a statue, while the spec tators held their breath in horrifled suspense. Reaching his victim, the bull literally bounded at him, and as he sprang he sank in death, with his last effort giving one fearful lunge of the head that drove a horn into the thigh of the kneeling man and laid bare the bone from the knee to the joint. Still Reverte never flinched, but remained kneeling exultant in victory, but calmly contemptuous of applause, till he was carried away to heal him of his

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde, or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character; far from it. The disposition of the average baldheaded man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A germ causes baldness. Prof. Sabouraud, of Paris, France, in-nocculated a rabbit with Dandruff germs, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 13.-The trial of Charles L. Tucker, charged with the two interesting features yesterday. These were brought out in the testimony of Chief of Police Shaw of the Massachusetts district police and Henry C. Bourne, Tucker's friend and companion on the day of the murder. The testimony of each related to important exhibits presented in the case by the government, the blood-stained trousers worn by Tucker on the day of the murder and the stickpin found in a pocket of his overcoat after his arrest. To the testimony of Chief Shaw paricular attention was paid for the reason that it was he who closely quesnurder and subsequently placed him under arrest. On the direct examination by District Attorney Sanderson, went to Tucker's house until he placed him frankly of his movements on March | statement just issued. 31, the day of the murder. Upon the witness expressing a desire to closely examine the trousers worn by the defendant, Tucker, as he removed the garments for inspection, volunteered the information as to how they became blood-stained.

In response to a question by the chief as to why he destroyed his hunting knife Tucker replied that he feared the  rime would be fastened upon him were the officers to search him and find the knife. Chief Shaw then told Tucker he considered him guilty of the murder of Miss Page and felt certain ne knew how he did it. Tucker denied having been at the Page home on that day, but Shaw considered the evidence in his possession was strong enough to hold the man and he formally charged him with the murder.

The pin found in Tucker's coat after his arrest and alleged to have belonged to Miss Page furnished the second sensation of the day. Henry Bourne, who testified that he had known Tucker all his life, when shown the pin said that he had seen Tucker wear a pin of that design while he was employed at Robertson's boat house in 1902.

District Attorney Sanderson, on redirect examination, showed the witness a class pin and asked him if that was erty of Miss Page.

"I don't know; I think it is smaller." The witness added that the pin shown him was very similar to the one worn that they were the same.

Cilley testified that it was about 12:45 when he saw Tucker near the Riverside yard. Both witnesses stated that Tucker was neatly dressed and appeared to be in no great haste at the ime they saw him.

During the cross-examination of Miss Fitzgerald, the stenographer of Chief Tarbox of the Newton police, Mr. Vahey brought out the fact that the woman remained away from the Waltham hearing to avoid being summoned as a witness. Her answer to Vahey's question on this subject was ker, but the witness had replied before the prosecuting attorney could stop her. No request was made to the stricken from the records. Counsel for tions. the defense appeared pleased at the answer given, and their faces were wreathed in smiles when the witness stepped down from the stand.

Fall River Unions to Consider New Proposition

It May Be Increased So as to Allow Absolute Control of Strikers' Interests--Governor Douglas Takes a Hand

Fall River, Mass., Jan. 13 .- Although the movement fathered by Governor Douglas and looking to a settlement of the strike which, involving 26,000 cotton mill operatives, has been attended with suffering on the part of the operatives and pecuniary loss to the manuits continuance, was without definite result yesterday, hope of a settlement is renewed.

The secretaries of the different unions last evening issued a call for meetings of the unions tonight, when the question of conferring upon the Textile council the power to deal directly with any proposition in the interests of a settlement and without be pies through superior work by Lyons. | ll.g obliged to refer any action taken The Weymouth boys won the last two back to their unions for endorsement

Up to this time the Textile council has not been free to act determinately, and it is proposed now to place the members in absolute control of the situation so far as the strikers are con-

In the meantime the investigation by a representative of the governor will be continued, and it is said that the governor has already secured valuable 242 information on the matter. 234

Yesterday afternoon's meeting was arranged by telephone from Boston by Herbert P. Drake, at the solicitation of Governor Douglas, with whom he has long been associated in business at The Holbrook team journeyed to East Brockton. Drake communicated with Weymouth and for two games it was Mayor Coughlin and made an appointclose, the home team taking the first by ment to meet the labor secretaries at s pins. Iowa Man's Advice For Visitors to the Isthmus of Panama. James L. Loring of Dallas Center, Ia., recently wrote to the state board of health to call attention to the fact that a warning to the Iowa people who go to the isthmus of Panama not to mix the native drink with fruit would be a wise and humane thing for the board to promulgate, says the Des Moines Register and Leader.

Mr. Loring knows something of the equatorial regions, though his knowledge of the native liquors in that section has been gained wholly by observation and not by participating in the riots which they are guaranteed to engender.

"I went into a port down there one time in a ship with twenty-six men in the crew," he says to the board of health in his letter. "As soon as the anchor was down we were surrounded with boats from which fruits of all kinds were sold, and of course this sugar cane rum. Mosquitoes had nothing to do with us, but within a week facturers during nearly six months of sixteen of our crew had gone ashore sick with yellow fever. Several ships lost every soul on board.

"One day I asked the city physician what caused such a great loss of life. He sliced a pineapple, put a slice in a saucer and poured from a bottle a lot of that sugar cane distillation on the pineapple. In a short time the delicate yellow fruit was as black as my hat. 'There's your yellow fever,' said the doctor, 'and that is what kills your

"The liquor and fruit do not agree. Those of us who never drank the stuff had no trouble.

"So I say that just so long as men eat fruit and drink the sugar cane distillation just so long you may be sure that killing mosquitoes is not going to create sanitation."

HENRY WATTERSON'S MORAL

Do Not Always Trust to First Impressions," Wrote the Kentuckian. The first of the letters from Europe written by Henry Watterson, the well known Kentucky editor, was recently received at Louisville, and he takes ocasion to say something nice about a Mr. and Mrs. Mahoney, whom he and Mrs. Watterson met while abroad on their bridal tour years ago, says the New York Press. The two couples became very friendly. The Mahoneys entertained Mr. and Mrs. Watterson lavishly. In writing about them in the present letter he says:

"They took us to Paris and settled there. The succeeding six months they became all in all to us. At the end they wanted to adopt us. If I had known, as I knew later, that there was quite half a million, maybe- Anyhow, failing of us, they did finally adopt a German child, who grew up to womanhood, inherited the fortune and married a gentleman since eminent in public life. > New Paris Dramatic School. It is announced that M. Beaulieu is about to found in Paris a free conservatoire to be called l'Ecole Dramatique Independants, says the London Telegraph's Paris correspondent. At this establishment aspiring players are not to work by imitation, or, in other words, they are not to be called upon to copy great actors and actresses. They will have to study the plays carefully and then to take their own line interpretation. The students of this new dramatic college are likewise to be taught how to stage plays and after a certain course of training will be called upon to pass examinations. Those who get through the ordeal will be engaged by M. Beaulieu for his People's theater and will be allowed shares in the profits of the house, just like the societaires of the Comedie Francaise at their famous establishment.

New Superintendent.

After faithful service of twelve years, A. D. Albee declined a reelection on Wednesday evening, at the annual meeting of the Wollaston Baptist Sunday School. The decision was received with regret, and a vote of thanks extended. The election resulted in the choice of the following officers.

Superintendent, -J. Arthur Sparrow. Assistant Superintendent, - Harry Burgess.

Secretary and Treasurer, -0. A. Blais-

Librarian, -Howard Battison. Superintendent of Home Department, -Mrs. A. D. Albee. Superintendent of Primary Department, -Mrs. C. B. Hill.

Auditor, -George A. Brown. Musical Director, -A. D. Albee. A supper by the junior Christian Endeavor Society was served previous to the meeting.

Swedish Lutherans.

The annual meeting of the Swedish Lutheran church was held Thursday feet foremost, and others were down evening. Reports of the various officers were received, the treasurer's report showed that during the year, the sum of $800 of the church indebtedness had been paid. There were some outstand- lined. ing bills for running expenses during the year, and a committee was appointed to raise the necessary funds to pay them. These officers were elected:

Deacons, -August Viden and Edward Ekblom.

Trustees, -Axel Nordin, Neil Carlson and Theodore Sahlsten. Janitor, -August Johnson. Organist, -Emma Witen.

Jerome's Activity Causing Many to Pack Their Trunks

POLICE JOIN IN CRUSADE

Three Poolrooms and a Gambling House Raided by McAdoo's Men-Saloon Booths and Partitions Must Be Removed

New York, Jan. 14.-Frightened by the activity of District Attorney Jerome, who has announced that he intends, if possible, to suppress gam-2:15 bling in this city, hundreds of card sharps are making active preparations to depart from New York and seek new fields. Many of them plan to go to Hot Springs, Ark., and others will visit the leading winter resorts of the south and west. The gamblers were given a staggering blow by Jerome when he announced that every keeper of a gambling house in New York will be summoned to appear before him to tell what he knows about the business.

To add to their fright, Police Commissioner McAdoo last evening joined in the crusade to eradicate the gambling evil and sent his secretary with police officials to raid an alleged poolroom and gambling house in lower Sixth avenue. The police made five prisoners and took the names of nearly 100 persons found in the place. The police say that in addition to betting an the races, several other games of chance were played there.

To get to the rooms the police had to smash in three doors. The occupants made a rush for windows and doors. but quieted down when they saw every avenue of escape cut off. After the entry of the police, while Inspector Titus was standing near a window, a beer glass was hurled through the window and narrowly missed the inspector's head.

Later another alleged poolroom in Manhattan and one in Brooklyn were raided and 12 more arrests were made. Police headquarters took on an appearance of activity indicating exciting developments late yesterday afternoon. The entire staff of policemen was kept on duty until 5 o'clock, instead of leaving at 4, as has been the rule, and notification was given that 5 o'clock will close the working day in the future. McAdoo had conferences with several police inspectors and captains, but declined to say whether or not the conferences and the unusual activity in police circles presaged a series of raids on lines mapped out by the district attorney. The saloonkeepers in the business district are fighting the order to remove all booths and partitions from their saloons. Magistrate Ommen had 37 saloonkeepers in the Tenderloin in his court yesterday and they expressed a willingness to remove all partitions, part of them displaying photographs showing that they had already complied with his ruling. Magistrate Barlow, sitting in the Yorkville court, in order to better enable himself to give judgment in the cases that have been brought up before him, adjourned all the hearings until he could make a personal inspection of the saloons included in the charges, and determine for himself just how far the statute was being violated. He personally visited 10 saloons and made diagrams of the interior of each establishment, taking note of the arrangement of the bar, the tables and all existing booths, partitions and enclosed back rooms, these latter features being those which, it is claimed, are in violation of the law.

It was a hard day for the men who follow the races through the poolrooms. Those who have been accustomed to bet in person found the regular rooms closed to them and the only way the poolroom men would accept bets was over the telephone. Even this method was surrounded with every safeguard.

WARNING TO HAYTI

Must Annul Sentence of American or Take Cousequences Port Au Prince, Hayti, Jan. 14 .- Mr.

Powell, the American minister, has informed the government of Hayti that the United States government refuses to recognize the validity of the sentence in contumacy to 15 years at hard labor pronounced by the Haytien court against Jaeger Huber, an American citizen, for alleged complicity in bond frauds charged against the administration of former President Sam and officers of the Bank of Hayti. The United States demands the annulment of the sentence, under pain of energetic intervention. The demand has caused much excitement here.

In accordance with the verdict of the jury in the trial of former President Sam and others, accused with fraudulent issue of bonds of the republic of Hayti in 1902, sentence had been rassed on several of the defendants in contumacy, those defendants having left the country and not appearing for trial. The alleged fraud was in connection with a plan of the Sam administration for consolidating the debt of the republic, for which purpose it was proposed to issue bonds to the amount of $6,000,000, with an additional $213,282 to be paid to the Bank of Hayti for financing the operation.

Before the refunding scheme was consummated the administration of President Sam was overthrown, and Fresident Nord caused the arrest of 33 persons, including members of the Sam cabinet, officers of the Bank of Hayti and others, on charges of conspiracy and the fraudulent issue of from $200,-000 to $850,000 of bonds. When the trial began on Nov. 28, 1904, there were only 13 of the defendants present, the others having fled the country.

Conspiracy is Charged

Cleveland, Jan. 14.-In a cross petition filed in the common pleas court by Attorney Johnson, it is averred that the 14 men who promoted the Miami and Erie Canal Transportation company deliberately entered into a conspiracy to defraud those who later purchased the stocks and bonds of the company and that they cleared fully $140,000. He asks that a judgment and that the promoters be required to liquidate the judgment forthwith so that the indebtedness of the company can be paid off.

The Fashionable Girl --- As a Wife =

By Mrs. FRANK LESLIE

F a fashionable girl marries a poor man she has a great deal both to learn AND TO UNLEARN, and her capacity for these two lessons will be the measure of her ability to become a good wife.

But suppose such a girl marries a rich man? We all know, especially in this country, that money alone will not make a comfortable home; it will hire servants, sometimes at tremendous wages, but the air of this free country is fatal to servitude, and the man or maid who while at home in the old country was the very incarnation of obedience, respectfulness and content only requires a few months in one of our cities, with the advantage of reading the papers before they reach the hands of the family and of listening to the lessons of their compatriots who have been here a little longer, before imbibing the principles of liberty and equality to such an extent that unless the heads of the house are well able to hold their own position they speedily lose it AND BECOME THE SERV-ANTS rather than the rulers.

OUR SOCIETY GIRL IS NOT BY POSITION AND EDUCATION FITTED TO BECOME THE WIFE EITHER OF A POOR MAN OR OF

Is she, then, never to be a successful wife? Are both poor men and rich men warned off from trying to appropriate her delicate loveliness and dainty grace to the embellishment of that home for which EVERY MAN longs in his inmost heart?

Nay, the case is not quite as bad as this for our dear society rosebuds and half opened blossoms. There is a teacher who can in quite a short course of most delightful lessons teach THE MOST IN-EXPERIENCED GIRL, whether she be city bred and luxurious or whether she be country bred and unsophisticated, to lay aside all her previous habits and to acquire a complete new set, to take up the most tedious and distasteful tasks and find them charming, to like the things she supposed she should abhor and to grow careless of what had been her very breath of life.

His terms are high, to be sure, this wonderful teacher of ours. He demands even more than Shylock with his pound of flesh, for he for $2,990,000 be rendered against them is not satisfied WITH LESS THAN THE WHOLE BEING of his pupil-her heart, her brain, her hands, her feet, her will and her obedience-in fact, all that makes her HERSELF.

THE TEACHER'S NAME IS LOVE-DEAR, OLD, YET EVER YOUNG, DAN CUPID, WHO HAS BEEN AT WORK AMONG US FROM THE DAY WHEN THIS WEARY OLD WORLD WAS AS FRESH AND YOUNG AS THE DEBUTANTE OF YESTERDAY.

The Best Method of Voice Preservation Quincy, Dec. 19, 1904.

By ADELINA PATTI (Baroness Cederstrom)

EOPLE who cultivate the voice have widely different ideas on what constitutes the best method of its preservation. If I gave lessons I should cultivate THE MIDDLE NOTES, and the voice of the singer would be good at the New York, Jan. 14.—Henry Phipps, age of a hundred. The whole harm to a voice comes in pushing it up and down, in trying to add extra notes to its compass.

By PAT SHEEDY, Gambler and Art Connoisseur

AWSON is giving us some straight dope. HE IS TELLING THE EXACT TRUTH as I have seen it all my life. These men that Lawson exposes are all gorillas, worse gorillas than men like myself. I've found out that all men with great amounts of money usually act the same way. They are always READY TO BUY anything they want. They buy for less and sell for more and create and fix the markets for their purposes.

They call it business and high finance, but PAT SHEEDY LLS IT CHEATING, cheating, cheating. Hurrah for Lawson, say I. He is educating the people to some truths they should know. I have known them all my life, but lots of folks have not known them before. The outcome will be that the people will hesitate to invest in gold bricks and refuse to be milked.

Now we are certain that As the train drew into the Dover street the fort is sacred and will never be taken, even though the Japs send a million men against it."

A picturesque word painting of the fight to the northwest of the town in mid-August is given by Private Zelenoff:

"The Japs at one place rushed our trenches by night, never uttering a taining jewelry valued at more than word until they were among us. They looked like giants in the darkness, and when one jumped at me I was more afraid of his weight than of his bayonet. However, I followed out Captain F's advice and held my bayonet firm. How harmless and at the same time how terrible shell fire is is shown by the following extract from a letter written by a Sergeant Semionoff:

"All Aug. 6 the Japs bombarded the forts and the town. About two men were killed in the forts and not one in the town, though about a hundred shells fell in the most crowded places. But the next day, when every one was laughing at the shells and offering to catch them, one burst in a shop where seven sick men lay. I was passing and, seeing the explosion, ran up. GOOD AFTERNOON.

We are glad to see that the principle of arbitration in labor disputes has at last received official recognition in the granite industry of Quincy, the committee of the Manufacturers' Association having proposed to the committee of the Granite Cutters' Union to refer any and all questions upon which the two committees cannot agree to outside arbitration, no strike or lockout to occur pending the settlement.

It is to be hoped that the proposition may be promptly agreed to by the granite cutters and thus avoid the strikes and lockouts which in the past have proved so disastrous to the business interests of all the people of Quincy.

In view of the long stike at Fall River, which proved so detrimental to that city, it is a welcome sign that our Granite Manufacturers have been willing to offer arbitration at the very start, so that their employes may keep at work pending a final adjustment of differences between the two organi-

Did you ever hear of a wagon that could make fog? There is such a wagon, and it is used in California. Great fruit orchards there would be almost spoiled by a heavy frost. So when the trees are in bloom and there is danger of a frost the fog wagon is driven through the orchards. The fog machine is a big wagon with a grate in the bottom, where tar is kept burning. Above this there is a tank of wet straw and water. The heat from the burning tar passes through the straw, and a great fog rises and protects the trees from

It is the story of an imperious, impetuous, frank and bewitching girl, who is quite a chip of the old block in being as obstinate as her dad-who rages at her for the fixity of purpose which she inherited from him. She desires to marry a poor young gentleman, but is constrained by her father's forbiddance. How she manoeuvres to bring about a happy conclusion to her romance is the story of the

Dentist Testifies That In His Opinion Impressions Were Made by Tucker's Teeth--Defendant Weary of Proceedings

Cambridge, Mass., Jan 14.-Bloodstained exhibits, including the clothing on the day that Mabel Page was murdered, and the knife with which the prosecution claims the killing was done, figured yesterday in the trial of Charles L. Tucker, accused of the crime.

Professor E. S. Wood of Harvard university, an expert blood analyst, was the principal witness. He testified that human blood had been found on Tucker's overcoat and trousers as well as on the bnife with which the wounds on Miss Page's body could, he said, have been made. Arterial blood was found on the overcoat and knife only. A plaster cast of Tucker's teeth was introduced, and the dentist by whom it perience with a municipal lighting plant was made testified that the cast coin- was described by E. B. This sum covered the enby Tucker, but with the exception of the tire cost of the lights, including mainstains found on the trousers and overcoat, Professor Wood considered them of such little importance that they could be eliminated from consideration in the present case.

Upon the knife blade which has been a prominent exhibit in the case and which was taken from Tucker's home previous to his arrest, Professor Wood testified that he found evidences of human blood. He could find no trace of blood of any kind, however, upon the sheath of the knife As a result of his examinations and measurements of the knife and the clothing worn by Mabel Page at the time of her death, Professor Wood found that the knife in evidence could have made all the wounds in-

Another witness whose testimony is considered to be of importance, and who was called during the day's session, was Dr. John W. Pomfret, a dentist. Council Full Power to Effect a Settlement -- Committee From Manufacturers Clothed With Similar Au hority

Fall River, Mass., Jan. 14.-The preliminary steps taken by Governor Douglas to bring about an end of the textile strike in this city bave met with success. At meetings held here last night both manufacturers and operatives chose committees to represent them at a conference to be held at the state house in Boston today and delegated to them complete power to effect a settlement of the strike.

The striking operatives will be represented by President Golden and Secretary Hibbert of the United Textile Workers of America, and two delegates from each of the five unions, and the Manufacturers' association will be represented by five of their number.

It is understood that one of the essential agreements to the proposed conference imposed by Governor Douglas was that the representatives of both sides must come to the state house empowered to accept the proposition to be submitted. An adoption of this proviso caused a radical departure from the custom of the unions, where each has formerly retained the right to overthrow any action of the Textile coun-This power was, however, voted last night by all the unions.

Tinting Dress Goods.

A secret worth knowing is how to tint laces, chiffons, silk or crocheted buttons, feathers, slippers, gloves, etc., to a gown shade. The process is vouched for by the National Dressmakers' paints in tubes and gasoline. The gasoline is placed in a porcelain bowl and the paint is dissolved in it. The work and eager. Charming Old Chairs.

Among the most fascinating chairs to be found in the shops are the English easy chairs, after both Chippendale and Hepplewhite models. The backs are high and square, the wings-or ears, as they are sometimes calledform a tempting resting place for the head, and the hospitable upholstered arms complete a delightful whole. Most of these are entirely covered with chintz or rep, a deep flounce reaching to the floor, but many of them have a base and feet of mahogany or walnut.

Children and Promises.

Many a woman who would not think of lightly breaking a promise made to a grownup person is utterly careless about keeping her word with her children. She promises whatever is convenient at the moment and apparently thinks that the breaking or keeping of those promises is a matter in which she can please herself and that her children have no right to consider themselves aggrieved if she does not do so. -Woman's Life.

Teach Girls to Work.

Every daughter, no matter in what class she is born, ought to be taught all household duties to make her capable of household command. Marriage is too generally looked upon as woman's sole profession. Every girl should be taught an industry of some sort, according to the bent of her inclinations, which will render her independent of matrimony.-Violet Tweed-

DISCRIMINATING LADIES.

Enjoy Using Herpicide on Account of Its Distinctiveness.

The ladies who have used Newbro's Herpicide speak of it in the highest terms, for its quick effect in cleansing the scalp of dandruff and also for its excellence as a general hair-dressing. It makes the scalp feel fresh and it allays that itching which dandruff will cause. Newbro's Herpicide effectively, cures dandruff, as it destroys the germ that causes it. The same germ causes hair to fall out, and later baldness; in killing it, Herpicide stops falling hair and prevents baldness. It is also an ideal hair dressing, for it lends an aristocratic charm to the hair that is quite distinctive. by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

THE BEGGAR TRUST.

Scheme That For a Time Was Success In New York.

Several years ago a one legged youth named Kempton, who had left a comfortable home to engage deliberately in begging, conceived the idea of organizing a community of interest among panhandlers in the Park row district, in New York. He picked out strategic spots throughout the city and selected a man to beg in each. These men were always particularly well adapted to their posts-a blink (blind man) here, a crust thrower there, a maimed youth somewhere else. In order that the beggars might not be molested by the poice a lookout was appointed for each, and in order that the syndicate's interests might be conserved Kempton employed roundsmen to observe how faithfully the beggars attended to business and to collect hourly the earnings of each. In case of arrest each member of the band was assured of legal representation, to be paid for out of the earnings of the pool.

The scheme thrived for many months and at one time there were thirty men in the combination, which became a close corporation of profit and power. There is no knowing to what extent it might have expanded nor how influential it might have become at last had not the nature of the organization given it undue prominence and caused it to fall directly under the ban of the mendicant squad. One by one the members were captured and sent to the island, and in the end the gang was broken up.-Theodore Waters in Everybody's Magazine.

AN ASPHALT LAKE.

The Way the Stuff Is Mined and Prepared For Market.

The largest South American asphalt lake, in Venezuela, consists of a dark brownish deposit of semifluid and semisolid substance surrounded by banks from three to six feet high. In the center of this lake is a continual ejection of hot fluid asphalt, accompanied by large bubbles of gas.

The dark skinned workmen excavate it in pieces weighing in the neighborhood of twenty-five pounds, sections forty feet in area and about four feet deep being worked at one time. As quickly as freed from its surroundings it is placed in large tubs, resting upon small flat topped tram cars operated upon a narrow gauge road. The entire surface is constantly moving, thus ne cessitating a continual relaying of the tracks. The freshly excavated asphalt is conveved to the shore, where the tubs are veyed to the shore, where the tubs are lifted by hydraulic power to an aerial TO LET—Nice Front and Middle Room, both well heated, with or without board. tramway, by which it is conveyed to the large wharf situated on the Guanero river, about five miles distant from the lake. Here it is weighed and dumped into vessels which convey it to the foreign lands.

Upon its arrival at a factory it is heated until the water is expelled and the earthy material cast to the bottom of the large vats, and it is poured through a sieve into barrels, where it solidifies. It is then ready for commerce.-New York Tribune.

Virtue's Quick Reward.

"Nothing ever better illustrated to me," remarked the doctor, "the old adage, 'Virtue is its own reward,' than an experience I had the other day. Called for the first time to a patient who was desperately ill in addition to being penniless, I gave her $5 with which to purchase the necessities of life. The next morning I received a note from her not to call again. Later I learned she had called in a homeopathic physician, to whom she paid a fee of $2 and with the remainder of my charitable contribution she paid a monthly installment on a phonograph.' -New York Press.

What the Hand Symbolizes.

Look where we will we find the hand in time and history, working, building, inventing, bringing civilization out of barbarism. The hand symbolizes power and the excellence of work. The mechanic's hand, that minister of elemental forces, the hand that hews, saws, cuts, builds, is useful in the world equally with the delicate hand that paints a wild flower or molds a Grecian urn or the hand of a statesman that writes a law. The eye cannot say to the hand, "I have no need of thee." Blessed be the hand! Thrice blessed be the hands that work! -Helen Keller in Century.

Anecdote of Lewis Carroll. Canon Liddon wrote this in his diary concerning an incident of a holiday tour he took with his friend, Charles L. Dodgson, better known as Lewis Carroll: "Dodgson was overcome by the beauty of Cologne cathedral. I found him leaning against the rails of the choir and sobbing like a child. When the verger came to show us over the chapels he got out of the way. He said that he could not bear the harsh voice of the man in the presence of so much beauty."

Just Debts. "And what were the provisions of your uncle's will?" "That I should have all he left after the payment of his just debts." "Ah, very good of the old man, wasn't it? What did he leave?" "Just debts."-Chicago Record-Her-

Intention to Establish Alibi For the Prisoner

OWNERSHIP OF STICKPIN

Claim That It Was Given to Defendant by His Wife--Bloodspots Will Be Satisfactorily Explained-Outline of Structure Built Up by Government

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 16 .- The third week of the trial of Charles L. Tucker, cnarged with the murder of Mabel Page, begun today with the presentation of the case of the defense. Since the trial opened on Jan. 2 there have been 12 sessions of the court. The first two days were occupied with the to the scene of the crime, and the outline of the prosecution's case. Ten days have been given over to the presentation of the prosecution's evidence. It is understood that the counsel for the defense intend to establish an alibi for the prisoner, showing that he was not within a quarter of a mile of the Page house on the day of the murder; prove that the pin of Canadian design possession more than two years and and 84 inclusive are represented. was given to him by his wife; that the blood on his coat will be satisfactorily explained, and that his supply of money after the murder will also be

Four handwriting experts have been summoned by the defense to give testimony to show that Tucker did not write the disputed address. It has not yet been decided whether the prisoner will take the stand in his own defense A great many witnesses have been summoned by the defense.

During its presentation of the case the commonwealth has attempted to establish robbery as a motive and to prove that the prisoner's own statements regarding his movements on the day of the murder were untrue.

The government introduced evidence intended to show that Tucker was at the Page house at the time the murder was committed, this claim being based on the testimony of four handwriting experts who have declared that an address written on a piece of paper found near the woman's body was in the handwriting of the prisoner. The prosecution also has introduced evidence to show that Tucker was in need f money before the time of the tragedy and had a plentiful supply of money immediately afterwards.

A knife found in the prisoner's pocket is alleged to exactly fit the wounds in Miss Page's body and garments, and blood stains were found upon the knife and upon the overcoat which Tucker told the police he wore on the day of the murder. A pin of Canadian design, found in the prisoner's clothes, was identified by Amy Roberts, a servant in the Page household, as the property of the murdered woman. Miss Roberts said that this pin was on Miss Page's bureau on the day before the murder, but was missing afterwards.

While the trial has been in progress the courthouse corridors have been thronged with hundreds of persons seeking admittance to the courtroom By far the greater part of these people are women. Hundreds are turned away

Two Men Killed by Fire

Rockland, Me., Jan. 16 .- Two men perished in a fire that destroyed the Harbor Granite company's boarding house at Vinalhaven. The men who lost their lives were Frederick Leighton and an unknown Finlander, both granite workers. The flames started from some unknown cause in an attic of the building and spread so quickly that over 20 workmen who were asleep in the house did not have time to dress before leaving the building.

The sub-committee of the House committee on public buildings and grounds, having charge of all New England proof Maine is chairman, has reported to the full committee, says a Washington dispatch to the Herald. Among the propositions of particular interest that were favorably reported by the subcommittee was that contained in Representative McNary's bill providing for a new public building, at Quincy, Mass. One hundred thousand dollars is the amount recommended to the full committee to carry out its provisions. It is understood that other buildings n New England were indorsed by the sub-committee also. It is expected that Chairman Gillett will call a meeting of the committee some time next week, to begin the work of preparing an omnious bill. Nobody knows whether such a measure will be allowed to pass by the Republican leaders, but the public building committee wants to be ready in case it gets a chance.

LARGE QUANTITY TRACED

Innocent Persons Into Whose Hands Much of It Has Fallen Being Notified That Their Claim Is to Be Protested

Cleveland, Jan. 16.-The Plain Dealer says: Investigation into the charge that Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick smuggled large quantities of diamonds gems and other precious stones into this country has developed the fact that the woman dealt in precious stones to an almost fabulous extent.

In order to make a case on the charge of smuggling it was found necessary for the government authorities to trace all the deals for diamonds and jewelry made by Mrs. Chadwick, both 1387 Hancock Street, in this country and Europe. The statement has been made by Collector of Customs Leach that considerably more than $250,000 worth of jewelry and precious stones handled by Mrs. Chadwick has been traced and positively located. It is added that this great amount of jewelry has been uncovered, with the investigation still incomplete. Of this amount the government is directly interested in about one-

The works on 203-Metre hill were not permanent, and the trenches there were similar to those used by the Boers during the South African war. It seems that the Russians had no general electrical scheme or moveable engines or dynamos for searchlights.

"Russian naval officers say that it is impossible yet to ascertain whether the Japanese fire or the opening of seacocks sank the ships in the harbor. The hospitals are fairly well kept and are still used for the wounded and for prisoners.

"I understand that up to the time of the capitulation the garrison at Port Arthur received only special allowances, but that before the surrender General Stoessel paid off the .men. and Crafts Movement." Found Dead In Cemetery Brockton, Mass., Jan. 16.-The fully clothed body of a woman was discovered half-buried in the ice and snow in Calvary cemetery yesterday. It was cut away from its frozen bed with difficulty by Medical Examiner Paine and two police officers and later an autopsy will be made. There were no marks to indicate violence, and the medical examiner expressed an opinion that death was due to exposure. The body was apparently that of a woman about five feet in height and 45 years old.

To retain a frigid atmosphere in the beef storage section, sawdust had been packed into a space eight feet wide between the walls. This sawdust became ignited and although streams of water from more than a score of engines were poured into the space between the walls it had no noticeable effect on the fire for hours. The smoke was so dense that the men were compelled to relieve each other every few minutes to escape suffocation.

Admits Attempting to Blow Up Steamer Umbria and Statue of Frederick the Great--His Real Identity Is Unknown

Philadelphia, Jan. 16.—"Gessler Roscontaining an infernal machine to the British steamship Umbria, at New for it. Bank Building, Quincy, Mass. York, in May, 1903.

The prisoner, whose right name is not known, made these admissions in the office of Captain Donaghy of the Philadelphia detective bureau, after he had been identified by persons brought here from New York and Washington for that purpose. He gives no reathat "there are too many foreign affairs in this country."

or interfering with the dynamite. Rosseau then gave the police the interesting information that he had intended making a second attempt to blow up the statue, this time with a time clock machine. As it was difficult to get past the sentries after nightfall, he intended going to the arsenal at about dusk, arrange the infernal machine so that it would explode at about midnight and then hang it on the statue. Regarding the sending of an infernal machine to the steamship Umbria, Rosseau said that he made part of the machine in Chicago and then took it to New York in a trunk. The trunk, he said, was not strong enough, so he purchased one better suited for the machine. In New York he finished the work of making the machine. Rosseau admitted obtaining the dynamite found ir the trunk on the strength of the name of a contractor.

The prisoner was closely questioned regarding the motive for blowing up the excess of $602,000,000. Umbria, but to all questions he made a non-committal reply. Having learned all they could regarding his attempts on the Umbria and the statue, the police then turned their attention to learning something of the antecedents of the man. He said he was born in America and that he was a farmer. Where in America he was born and where his present home is, he would not say. He admitted his name was not Gessler Rosseau. He said he had read much and that he was a student of social *conomy. He took the name of Gessler Rosseau because two of his ideals had those names-Albrecht Gessler, the Swiss dictator, who died in 1307, and Jean Jacques Rosseau, the French philosopher and writer, who died in water way of getting logs to market. These men paddle around in canoes hewn out of logs and follow the logs downstream until they reach their destination, when they are brought into the yards and sawed into timber. In the basin there are a great many bayous, and these bayous are often fifteen or more miles in length. Here the river men thrive; and here logs by the hundreds of thousands are dumped during the fall and winter, and in the spring they are towed in to the mills. There are a great many forest sections in the United States, but none perhaps where so much interest is being taken in the final clearing of the land as in the St. Francis valley. The soil is rich alluvial land, caused by the silt overflowing from the rivers, and now, since the drainage has been perfected, the crops grown are enormous, and the farmers are correspondingly anxious for a great development in the agricultural resources; hence the eyes of the agricultural department and the farming class are upon the trail of these timber choppers, with a view of

Sometimes a very small device saves many steps. This is true of a small table or stand fitted with casters, since it can be easily moved to the stove or wherever it is needed. Cover it with enameled oilcloth. When cooking, the culinary utensils can be placed upon it and wheeled up to the stove, thus saving the cook many steps. In baking it will also be found handy.

A cupboard built in the wall back of the stove has proved to be the most handy thing about the kitchen. Cambridge Mass., Jan. 17 .- "All we ask of you, gentlemen of the jury, is Shawmut Park, fair play. Give us that and we will Blue Hill Park, Charles L. Tucker is not the murderer

With these words, attorney Thomas F. Vahey opened the case for the defense at the Tucker murder trial yesterday. He told the jury that the whereabouts of the defendant would be accounted for from the moment he left his house at noon on the day of the murder until he returned to his home the same afternoon. He would prove that a knife other than Tucker's was the weapon used. The defense would not attempt to account for all the blood stains found on Tucker's clothing, but if the government wished to prove Tucker guilty it should have established Tucker's coat, and said to be the propabsent. erty of Miss Page, was owned by Tucker two years before the murder. Drift of Opinion.

I would urge young women to keep high standards in life, at home or elsewhere. If you are away from home you need to bring in evidence all your best home-training, out of respect to the dear family life which may seem so distant. The old home may be broken up, the members of the family the borders of Manchuria. scattered far and wide, yet the influence of the home life need never be lost. The love for our home and the sweet associations connected with it-with father, mother, brothers and sistersshould help to make us earnest and brave, and true to high ideals.-Priscilla Wakefield in the Delineator.

Judge Daniels, the United States Court Commissioner at La Crosse, Wis., declares that "the American dollar is the armor from which glance all the newspaper correspondent who foretold darts of the modern cupid," and is of the murder of King Alexander and the opinion that the high wages paid to Queen Draga three days before it hapgirls and women for labor is a cause pened now predicts a revolution arising for the falling off in marriage. Judge from dissatisfaction with King Peter's Daniels is quoted as seeing in this a government for its failure to get rid of proof that "matrimony was never a the regicides. If the judge is serious he is a poor student of the woman nature. He should know that a genuine love takes no thought of the financial side of a proposed matrimonial alliance. He should learn that there are few entitled to receive from the profits and women who would not gladly give up good will of the business of the Fleischtheir high wages and good positions in man firm the sum of $2,500,000. obedience to the call of love. The yearning for home life and the tender ministrations of affection are ever present in their hearts. Then again, Judge Daniels ought to know that high wages for women are rare-most of them are underpaid, and one of the chief reasons is that employers discount the possibility of matrimony and know by experience that "Cupid's darts" do pierce even the adamant walls of business life. It is unfortunate that a man occupying a position so high as that of Judge Daniels should publicly proclaim so low an ideal of marriage as is indicated in the above quotation. What is needed at this time is strong and hopeful expressions on the marriage question, coffee exports to pay current expenses the optimism which will inspire respect and meet foreign obligations. Chinese Neutrality Said to Have Been Repeatedly Violated --Far Reaching Complications Would Follow Extension of Zone of Hostilities

Washington, Jan. 17.-China's attention has again been indirectly invited by the American government to the necessity for a faithful maintenance of her neutrality, not only in her personal interest but in the interest of the world's peace. Secretary Hay, on the receipt of the full text of Count Lamsdorff's note expressing Russia's belief that China's neutrality had been repeatedly violated, has prepared instructions for the American charge at Pekin, directing him to make inquiry of the Chinese gov-

> This the second time Secretary Hay, in a friendly spirit, has urged on China the advantages which a strict observation of neutrality nolds, not only for her people, but the remainder of the world. China is one subject of conversation in diplomatic circles. At the state department yesterday, Sir Mortimer Durand, the British ambassador, was among the callers. He had a long conversation with Mr. Loomis, who is acting secretary of state while Mr. Hay is confined to his house by a cold.

The Chinese minister called on Secretary at his home. Although suffering from a cold, the secretary is keeping in close touch with the situation, and it can be stated that this government by no means has abandoned the hope that China may yet be saved from an extension of hostilities across

The long-heralded Russian note reached Secretary Hay from the Russian embassy direct. It was in French and its substance was given the secre tary several days ago by Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, during a call at the state department.

The text of the Russian note is regarded as confidential and for this reason the state department has not made it public.

Two Score Arrests as a Result of an Anti-Graft Crusade

Pittsburg, Jan. 17.-Nearly 200 informations were made yesterday afterncon against gamblers, unlicensed liquor dealers and keepers of unlawful houses in Allegheny City. It is said that informations will also be made against certain officials of Allegheny. This is the result of an investigation which has been carried on by the "anti-graft" league of Allegheny county, for the suppression of crime. Late last night information was made against Melvin H. Campbell, superintendent of police of Allegheny, charging him with aiding, abetting and maintaining a disorderly house and accepting money and a diamond pin from rietress of said rant has been issued for his arrest.

THE DOWLING LAW PRICES FOR

It Proves an Effective Weapon In Hands of Jerome

GAMBLING HOUSES CLOSED

New York City--Surrender of All Paraphernalia Renders Reopening Improbable

New York, Jan. 17 .- Following the surrender to District Attorney Jerome of the gambling outfit belonging to Frank Farrel, Dave Johnson and Frank MacDougal, it was declared by counsel for the gamblers that Jerome has closed every gambling house in New York city and that they will remain closed.

The instrument which made so effectual action possible was disclosed by Daniel O'Reilly, representing the gamblers, to be the Dowling law, enacted at the request of Jerome when he was trying to induce Jesse Lewisohn to testify against Richard Canfield. That law automatically releases from punishment any gambler who gives evidence against himself to the district attorney, but compels him to give such evidence.

"There will be no gambling house in this city", said O'Reilly. "The Dowling act has given the district at torney a weapon which he has used to close effectually every place in the city. That they will not re-open is shown by the surrender of all gambling paraphernalia. They cannot afford to buy more every time the district attorney takes a notion to make a raid. "Another important act which would indicate that there will be no more gambling is that if the men who have whole night of Jan. 12. surrendered their gambling apparatus should begin gambling again the dist-employes and their patrons. He says will do this.' Though Farrel did not personally respond to a subpoena issued for him, it was stated that he has promised to return to New York and give evidence

Armed with axes and crowbars, the inspector, with several detectives, went to the room last evening. They had to batter down five doors before reaching the main room. There were 50 men in the room and eight were

The annual meeting of the incorporators of the City Hospital of Quincy was held Monday evening in the Unitarian chapel. Hon. W. B. Rice, the presi- Telephone 111-3. dent, presided.

Timothy Reed reported for the trustees and showed these facts. Number of patients admitted 307, the largest number in any one year. There were 102 medical and 205 surgical cases. The latter included 28 cases of appendicitis, all but one being successfully treated. There are six puplls in the training school for nurses, all that can be accomnodated, but more are needed. The graduates of the school the past year were Miss Jean Allen, Miss Mary Lindsay and Miss Eva Blair. About $400 more was raised during "Hospital Week" in 1904 than in 1903. Thanks are due the collectors, also to the Hospital Aid association, the treasurer and

Warren W. Adams was unanimously reelected by ballot as clerk of the corporation and was sworn by James F.

The election of twelve trustees was

William B. Rice, Timothy Reed, Richard D. Chase, John A. Gordon M. D., Henry M. Faxon, Delcevare King, John 1387 Hancock Street, F. Welch, M. D., Henry McGrath, Fred Willard, Arthur W. Newcomb.

Dr. John A. Gordon proposed that measures be taken to increase the number of corporators, that more might be interested in the Hospital. He moved that a committee of six, one from each ward, be appointed to present names at future meetings. President Rice appointed John F. Welch, M. D., Arthur W. Newcomb, Andrew Milne, William T. Shea, Charles P. Hutchins, and Harry W. Read. Treasurer R. D. Chase thought more publicity would be a good thing for quarterly meetings and reports. Dr. Gordon and Fred B. Rice argued that Hospital Week should be held earlier, and it was voted that the preliminary meeting be held the first Tuesday in September.

Do not drop dirty, greasy dish towels in hot soapsuds. It only sets the grease. Wash them first in lukewarm water.

An old bookcase set on the kitchen table, back to the wall, makes a very respectable imitation of a kitchen cabinet and saves many steps.

The range should be so located as to escape a draft sweeping over it. A gas range should always have a firm connection. A hood placed over the range is a great ventilator.

When tins are hard to wash, where food has burned on, like baked fish or oatmeal, put the dish on the stove, filled with cold water and half a teaspoonful of baking soda, and let it boil, and your dish will wash, and the odor of fish will be gone.

The Uses of Responsibility. Every mother should remember that the making of her daughter is of far greater importance than the administration of things in her house, and every daughter should realize that she can learn to avoid mistakes only when she sees them. As a rule, the seats of the chairs are too high and those of Mrs. N. S. Hunting gave much pleas- the davenports and settles too wide and often too low. The colonial furniture makers were masters of comfort. Their chairs, with few exceptions, are perfectly proportioned and extremely comfortable. The old sofas and davenports are so constructed that pillows to brace the human back are not necessary. The wooden back is in its right place and meets every requirement. Reproductions of old pieces are not always exact in their dimensions. A free colonfal copy is usually a poor thing, having none of the grace of the original and little of its comfort. Vital Statistics Show City to be taminated. Growing Fast.

The returns of deaths and marriages Represented in Quincy by Mr. Otho A. Hayward: in Wollaston by Mr. W. J. Wellington births has not been completed as yet hospital. but it is believed they will keep up

The figures for deaths do not mean that number of persons died in Quincy, mean that number were married here, but includes all marriages where one or both parties claimed Quincy as their residence as well as those couples who came from out of town to have the knot tied in Quincy.

After making allowance for the number who were brought to Quincy for burial, and estimating the population as low as 28,000, the death rate of the city for the year 1904 was below 14 per 1000, an exceedingly low rate, Have Greatly ENLARGED showing Quiney to be very healthy, and free from enidemics free from epidemics.

It will be seen from the above that there were only 13 more deaths in 1904 than in 1894, although the population of the city increased from 20,000 to 28,000. Meanwhile the marriages increased from 186 to 253, a gain of 67, or really twice that number as it take two to make a natrimonial alliance. The increase in number of births for the ten years will be between 100 and 200, the number in 903 being 151 larger than 1894.

The excess of births over deaths for the ten years previous to 1904 was 3599, an average of 360 per year. The average has been higher than that in recent year. In the five years between the census of 1900 and 1905 Quincy will increase about 2,000 from vital causes alone.

May Burn Many Days Longer Chicago, Jan. 18 .- After 48 hours of continuous fighting, the fire in the storage warehouse of Schwarzschild & Sulzberger was placed under control shortly before midnight. The fire was exceedingly difficult for the firemen to reach because of the dense clouds of smoke and the fumes of ammonia that filled the building. Several men were overcome, but all will recover. The loss is estimated at $600,000. It will be several days before the blaze is entirely extinguished, scared of the word "Socialism" as his old mare shied at a piece of white paper. He recalled the old theory that the earth was the centre of the universe and said that after considerable ridicule the people accepted against their own belief the doctrine of Galileo that the still and everything revolved about it. Precisely the same thing, he said, had happened in our own sphere. Man was taught that he was a law unto himself, so that the individual came to believe himself as "It," The new theory is that man is not the centre, but that mankind is the centre, each doing his part. The theory was not yet established and very few can grasp it,

PRICE TWO CENTS.

Man is dependent on mankind. The savage was the purest example of individualism. He would hunt and kill his game, cook it and be independent, Fifty years ago men were self sufficient. Farmers raised everything necessary for their families both in food, clothing, etc. Today we are dependent on the vast body of people. Think how many work in different parts of the world for the food that is on our breakfast tablescereals, fruit, meat, vegetables, bread, coffee, etc.

The army is a good example of a socialistic body. If the government can have such an agency for destruction, why not to build up. The post fice is socialistic, so are the public chools. Now free text books are supplied; why not free clothes, free unches, etc.

It was claimed that with Socialism ndividualism would be wiped out, that there would be no freedom, Granted there would be less freedom. But in the big cities, today, we lose liberties Insurance is Socialism. Labor unions are only Socialism, so are associations of employers. Trusts are a necessity. They are not a bad thing. When they produce captains, the people will take

Dr. Schindler admitted, we were not ready for Socialism. That it would be a bad thing to jump into Socialism, but the change will be slow, and will come. Hearty applause.]

Prof. Emery L. Crane was then introaced. He disclaimed the title of 'professor' unless it was used in the ighter sense as applied to bootblacks and others. He said the only way we can learn is to begin at the bottom. He divided the topic into three parts:

1-Socialism. 2-Individualism.

3-Socialist, and individualism. Socialism was of many kinds he said; and proceeded to tell of "Socialists I have met," in these divisions: 1-The Socialist at the end of the Prof. Crane thought green trading stamps illustrated "Socialism and Individualism." If Socialism is accepted, Individualism must go. He queried, "Is the thing practical? Would it be possible for Wollaston and West Quincy to harmonize. Trade unionism takes Socialism as its guide, and places all on a level. The American people do not like Socialism. They want law and order and nothing that savors of the red flag.

Socialists may deny responsibility for certain riots, etc., etc., but they never will succeed until they acknowledge the sanctity of the home. They must recognize the marriage tie as unbreakable. [Great applause.]

The above abstracts do not do the arguments of the speakers full justice, especially "Prof." Crane, whose satire kept the club in good hamor. The subject was very cleverly handled by both speakers, and a rising vote of thanks attested the appreciation of the gentlemen present.

Washington, Jan. 18 .- The note of Secretary Hay relative to the Russian charge of violation by China of the laws of neutrality which is to be presented to the Pekin authorities by Mr. Coolidge, the secretary of the American legation at Pekin, will, it is expected, be rather welcomed by the Chinese government, as affording it a proper opportunity to make formal reply to the Russian charges.

It is certain that there is nothing in Secretary Hay's note in any degree distribution of the immigrants who are menacing, or calculated in any way to coming to us so rapidly. Handbooks touch the pride of the Chinese. It is of information as to the best places for further believed that the Chinese govsettling will be printed in a dozen difby the secretary of state, has practically prepared its defense. This will to each incoming steamer carrying amount to a sweeping denial of the accuracy of the Russian charges upon many points and a declaration that where the Russian statements are founded on facts they do not constitute violations of the laws of neutrality as accepted by the powers.

The Japanese government has been informed of the Russian complaint, and it is stated here that it is preparing a complete and categorical denial of the Russian charges. Besides this denial it is understood the note will make money by reason of her corporation sharp comment upon alleged violations of neutrality by some of the powers in

> Secretary Hay has addressed a note to the Russian ambassador here acknowledging the receipt of the Russian complaint of violation of neutrality by China. The secretary availed himself of the opportunity to call the attention lieved that he particularly directed attention to the formidable difficulties sure to be encountered by a neutral power near the theatre of war in its efforts to carry out in letter and spirit the obligations of neutrality in the presence of two such enormously powerful belligerents as are now engaged in hostilities. Through interviews with the Chinese minister here the secretary was acquainted with the Chinese position in this matter and of the purpose to enter a general denial of the Russian charges, which is probably also known now to Count Cassini.

Senators Think Mitchell Innocent Washington, Jan. 18 .- The unusual spectacle of a United States senator explaining on the floor of the senate charges made against himself in a court of law in his own state was witnessed in the senate when Mr. Mitchell spoke of the indictment recently returned against him by an Oregon grand jury. The senator was much affected, his emotion at times being such that he read his statement with great difficulty. For some time after he concluded Mitchell was surrounded by senators, who grasped his hand and gave him assurance of their confidence in his innocence.

Stoessel Made Urgent Requests For Relief

CAUSES OF CAPITULATION

Capture of Forts, Deadly Marksmanship of Japs and Disease All Contributed to Surrender --Alexieft's "Cowardly Flight"

London, Jan. 18 .- The correspondent at Nagasaki of The Express has had an interesting interview with General Stoessel, in the course of which the general said:

"The capitulation occurring on New Year's day was merely a coincidence. The loss of 203-Metre hill and the subsequent capture of forts, combined with the deadly marksmanship with the terrible 11-inch shells, the depressing effect of the death of General Kondratenko and the fearful increase of scurvy, really fixed the time of capitu-

"It is quite untrue that I dissented from the unanimous decision of the final council of war. Our final urgent | tions. requests for relief were never answered. As regards parole, I distinctly discouraged any concerted action. Every officer decided for himself. Generally, commanding officers stuck with their men and chose imprisonment. Most of the naval officers also chose captivity, many probably being influenced by the fear of impending court martial."

The correspondent adds that conversation with other Russian officers reveals great bitterness against and denunciations of Admiral Alexieff for his failure to properly fortify Port Arthur and "his cowardly flight" by the lust train from the fortress. They say the torpedo boat destroyers that escaped before the surrender carried all the regimental and naval colors to

The junior officers denounce the incapacity and folly of the government in entering upon the war, and declare that all the men who return to Russia from Port Arthur are revolutionists in spirit. These opinions were openly expressed in the presence of General Stoessel, who remarked: "Let them talk; they have earned the right to think as they please by braving untold Opposite Fore River Works deaths for our country."

Attempted Safe Breaking.

It was discovered Tuesday night by the janitor of Wilson's hall that someone had broken into the hall and attempted to get into the safe of Lay View lodge, L. O. L. The parties Tucker's handwriting in which existed gained entrance to the hall by smashing It is reported that there is excellent the panel of the door leading to the skating behind the bluff near the Sail- ante room. It was then an easy matter to turn the catch and open the door. The parties then smashed the combination knob and twisted off the handle of the door. They were unable, however, to get into the safe. It would have done them little good even if they Joseph Berraja, a former draughts- had, for all the safe contained was a man at the Fore River Ship-building bank book. Nothing else about the

Subjected to Sharp Inquiries ing other returns. In the Tucker Trial

DISPUTED MORTON NOTE

Assertions That It Was Written by Miss Page Modified Somewhat Under Rapid Questioning by Attorney General Parker

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 18 .- The sharp cross-examination of Attorney General Parker relieved the monotony of an uninteresting day of expert handwriting testimony at the trial of Charles L. Tucker, charged with the murder of Mabel Page.

For six hours handwriting experts were on the stand, illustrating their points on a blackboard, pointing out to the jury on many of the exhibits what they considered important characteristics of the handwriting of either Miss Page or Tucker and answering or attempting to answer sharp and sarcastic questions put to them by Parker.

This questioning by the attorney general was the only thing which kept the spectators in the courtroom, the long and tedious analysis, letter by letter, of the many specimens of handwriting in the case being extremely tedious. The lent society of the Wollaston Baptist discomfort of the witnesses when under cross-examination, however, kept every one attentive.

Colonel Edward B. Hay, who occupied the witness stand a portion of the time Monday, was recalled yesterday his investigations of the handwriting submitted to him for examination he could reach but one conclusion, viz., that Mabel Page was the person who wrote the disputed Morton address, and not Charles L. Tucker, as has been claimed by the prosecution. Mr. Parker, on cross-examination, having secured from the witness the information that a break between letters in the Morton address was one of the signifi-Page with the writing of the note, and that such breaks were unusual, presented for the inspection of Colonel Hay two envelopes which had been received in the morning mail and which showed numerous breaks between letters to prove that such breaks were not unusual. On direct examination Elbert H. Hinman, another handwriting expert, also expressed the opinion that Maoel Page wrote the disputed Morton address, and he illustrated on a blackboard why he reached such a conclusion. When questioned by Mr. Parker, however, Hinman admitted that the conclusions he arrived at were merely his "opinion" on the matter. The attorney general then pointed out to the witness several specimens of certain characteristics which Hinman, in his direct examination, had stated was of great significance in indicating that Miss Page wrote the Morton note The fact was further brought from the witness, with considerable difficulty. that his method was to search for sim ilarities and that, although he found characteristics of Tucker's handwriting in the Morton note, he did not mention them to the jury. Both of these experts were so con fused by Parker's rapid questions and exaggerated politeness that very frequently it became necessary for the court stenographers to repeat the questions more than once.

The answers made in a number of in stances caused much merriment to the spectators who crowded the room, and even while rapping loudly for order it was observed that the faces of the deputy sheriffs were wreathed with smiles. Tucker exhibited great interest in the questioning of Parker and his resentment of the attorney general's treat ment was very apparent.

...OF SALT

[Original.] "Did you ever think?" said Golightly to his friend Quackenbos, "what a little thing will turn a man's destiny? I 63,588 50 know a man whose present condition of wealth and head of a family, all he is, came from the overturning of a bar-74,518 83 rel of salt."

6,066 74 "I don't believe it, Golightly, but I 16,555 00 am ready to hear about it."

"Let me see. You know the man, and I don't want to give you his name till 56,380 00 after you have heard the story; then we'll see if you can guess who he is. For the present his name is Tomkins. $825,987 29 When he was a youngster he studied medicine and on graduation settled in a suburban place where there were people of all degrees from millionaires to washerwomen. At the end of the 127,600 00 first month he had not had a patient, so he resolved to go somewhere else. The 15 00 day before his intended departure a liv-Individual deposits subject to check, 440,091 64 eried servant hurried into his office and Demand certificates of deposit, 8,612 25 said that Miss Buckman's favorite and dle horse was dying and would he waive professional repugnance at doing a veterinary's work and go to see the animal.

I, HORACE F. SPEAR, Cashier of the abovenamed bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowl-edge and belief. "Tomkins needed money to square up before leaving, so he concluded to make a veterinary of himself for that once. When he reached the stable yard there Subscribed and sworn to before me this 17th stood a girl of twenty, pretty as a pic ture, evidently much distressed, watching a horse lying on his side.

"'Oh, doctor,' she said on learning of the groom who he was, 'if you will only cure Bob I'll love you forever!" "Of course she was so rattled she didn't know what she was saying, but somehow it came to the doctor that he would cure Bob and the girl would love him forever. It takes a young man, you know, to build castles out of air. He went up to the horse that was gasping for life, but before the doctor could get anything down the beast's throat he collapsed, and there he lay with his tongue hanging out, dead. At least if he wasn't dead there are no appearances by which a horse can be known to be dead. "The girl gave Tomkins an appealing look. 'Please do something for my poor Bob, doctor,' she pleaded, with blanched cheeks, 'I love him better than all the world. If you'll only cure him I'll make it up to you in some way. Do, doctor, try. Don't give up.

"What could Tomkins do? A dead horse on one hand and a tearful gir on Bob by rubbing here, feeling there, pouring a mixture of bran and water down his throat-he had nothing elsebut it was no use; the horse was dead as a doornall. Tomkins wouldn't own with board. 16 Faxon avenue. it to the young lady, but told her to go in the house and he would remain to observe and take advantage of the first sign of returning consciousness.

"'Don't leave us, doctor,' she pleaded. 'Remain all night. Your room will be on the second story, back, where you can look down on the stable yard.' "Tomkins declared he would never leave Bob so long as there was any hope, and the young lady dragged her self away and into the house, looking back often to see if Bob had come to life. Tomkins remained by the horse Houses, Stores, Hall, Rooms, Offices, till a servant came out and said that if the doctor felt that he could leave the invalid he was to come in to dinner. Of course Tomkins could leave a dead horse, so he went in to dinner, but broke away after a hasty meal to avoid the storm of questions as to the horse's chances of getting well. He had promised to stay all night. Besides, the more time he spent the bigger bill he could make for services, so at 11 o'clock he told the hostler that if Bob showed signs of life to call him and went to bed. The hostler knew as well as Tomkins that Bob was dead, so he went to bed, too, leaving poor Bob's body where it lay in the stable yard. But before retiring he telephoned the town scavenger to come the next morning to remove the carcass. "Tomkins hadn't ever slept on such a downy bed before, so he didn't wake up the next morning till late. Then he took a bath, dressed and before going for pasturage or tillage. downstairs drew up the window shade to have a look at the corpse.

"No miracle ever astonished any one as the sight he saw astonished Tomkins. There was the whole family in the stable yard and Bob up on his four legs eating sugar out of Miss Buckman's hand. The doctor didn't stop to deliberate on the cause of the remarkable resurrection, but pulled himself together and went down without the least appearance of surprise. "'Oh, doctor,' cried Miss Buckman,

'can one ever repay you?' "'My dear young lady,' said the doctor evasively, 'at no time in my professional career have I been so pleased at saving a human patient as I am now at saving your horse.'

"After looking Bob over and seeing that he was in excellent health the doctor whispered to the hostler: "'When did he get up?'

"'Don't know, doctor,' replied the man and ran to the gate to head off the scavenger who was coming to remove the corpse.

"Well, Tomkins got the secret of the horse's recovery from a stable boy. The boy had shortly before overturned a barrel of salt where the horse's head rested. The tongue, hanging out, had come in contact with the salt. Then the horse, having been revived, licked it, and it proved to be what he needed. Tomkins married the grateful girl and is today a successful practitioner. Now, Quakenbos, guess who he is." "You. Your story is well enough, but fate only required that you should meet the young lady for a sure case of mutual love. The overturned salt had nothing to do with it."

"Not at all. I maintain that all I am is due to a barrel of salt." WALLACE FLOYD LINDLEY.

tic Bridge.

Street Railway Without Location.

Plans Defective As to Slopes and Hancock Street Grade

It is possible that the Hancock street bridge over the railroad at Atlantic will not be reopened for travel this winter. That the teamsters, the street railway and others have been so docile is a wonder. Who is to blame? The contractor! The railroad!

The city!

The street railway! The Ssreet Committee. Ex-Mayor Bryant!

Or the plans! If the bridge must be closed there is no reason why Sagamore street should be closed at the same time. Nothing In WOLLASTON is now being done on Sagamore street, and it is said that the railroad has ordered Contractor Cashman to stop work there. There was introduced into the City Council early in November an order for the taking of abutting slopes on Sagamore street, Old Colony street, Madison street and Hancock street. The order was referred to the Committee on Streets who never reported except to refer to the City Council of 1905. It seems the plans accepted by the parties at interest-the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., the Old Colony street railway and the City of Quincy-are defective in that they did not provide for retaining walls on the streets mentioned or the taking of slopes.

Near the bridge Hancock street has never been constructed to its full width. When this is done the retaining wall will be on the inside of the trees on what is known as the Mahoney estate. In fact it will be quite close to the house and above the first story windows. Either the house should be raised or moved back, and the latter seems better | 1 can Peas, for the occupants. If it could be loca- 1 can Corn, ted on Old Colony street or Madison street so much the better.

Then arrangements might be made to fill in the slope satisfactory to the owner, and no ugly retaining wall would be necessary.

But the street railway is worse off than Mr. Mahoney, for it is doubtful if they have any location for tracks over | 1 can Peer. Cream 9c 1 lb. G. M. Cookies, 9 the bridge. It is said that the centre | 1 can C. Sardines, 9c 1 lb. Fig Bars, girder of the new bridge takes the place formerly occupied by the tracks, and tracks can be located only as permitted by the City Council.

Last November the Old Colony street railway petitioned the City Council for a location for a second track over the bridge. At the hearing Dec. 5, Mayor Bryant and James F. Burke opposed the petition, hoping that no more locations would be granted the company until they lived up to agreements. They hoped Council would give petitioners leave to withdraw.

At the same meeting the Council granted the petitioners leave to withdraw.

The west side of the new bridge is now in place and the girders are ready for the planking. The street railway company would like to lay rails on these girders before the planks are laid, but they have no location on this the newly widened part of the street.

Had a location been granted, cars would probably have been running over the west side of the new bridge this month. It would also be possible for teams to use this section early in February.

Now it will be several weeks perhaps months before any part of the new bridge is open to travel to the great inconvenience of many.

If the work should be pushed, it is up to the Mayor and Commissioner of Public Works to act.

If legislation is necessary on the part of the City Quncil as to slopes and street railw location, the people would like to know it.

There is no reason why the City of Quincy should stand the whole expense of retaining walls, or taking slopes, or damages because of house raising or house moving. All these things should have been provided for in the plans for the improvement.

Another defect in the plane is the failure to provide for a new grade for the approach to the bridge on the Quin-

Governor to Look Into the Matter of Margins In the Meantime and Submit Conclusions-Close of Greatest Disturbance In History of Textile Industry

Boston, Jan. 19 .- The Fall River strike is settled and the operatives are to return to work in their former places as fast as they can be employed. A proposition offered by Governor A proposition offered by Governor Douglas was accepted and signed by both parties after a conference at the state house lasting less than two hours. It is virtually an unconditional surrender by the men, as they are to return on the reduced scale of wages against which they struck, and they depend upon the governor's finding as to the justi- 1387 Hancock Street, fication of increased wages. Whatever increase the governor may decide upon shall be binding on the manufacturers only up to April 1, 1905. His excellency's proposition is as follows:

"The strike is to be declared off, and the operatives to return to work at once. All operatives are to be put to work in the mill in which they were employed when the strike began, as fast as practicable, and no discrimination to be shown on account of the present strike. After resumption of work I will take up and submit to you my conclusions as to what Metropolitan Terrace. investigate the matter of margins, and average margin snall prevail on which Hillside Park, the manufacturers shall pay a dividend of 5 percent on wages from the pres- Winthrop Park, ent time to April 1, 1905. It is agreed by both parties that the margin fixed by me shall in no way prejudice future wage schedules."

This was signed on behalf of the manufacturers' committee by Nathanof the Fall River Textile council by James Tansey, president.

The cotton mill strike, which began on July 25, 1904, was the greatest disgates, about 25,000 operatives were thrown out of work. Seventy-one mills.

The mills had reduced wages 10 persix mills of the Fall River Iron w a concern conducted independent of the Fall River Manufacturers' association. The yarn and thread mills, the Barnaby gingham and Stevens quilt mills were also out of the wage reduction agreement.

The mills affected by the strike have months the 71 mills were shut down the operatives lost nearly $150,000 considerable.

A notable feature of the great

Previous to the Fall River strike the 17,000 hands were out 12 weeks in 1902, fighting for higher wages. The last big strike against a cut-down was in New Bedford, about seven years ago, where 9000 hands stopped work. The manufacturers won both in Lowell and New Bedford. Now they have virtually won in Fall River.

Enthusiasm Dampened

Fall River, Mass., Jan. 19 .- The news of the settlement of the longpending strike was bulletined by the Hall's Catarrh Cure newspapers throughout the city and received with a general rejoicing, though there was no great amount of enthusiasm shown on the part, of the operatives when it became known that they would have to resume work under the 124 percent reduction.

the suit is on trial. It was an extraordinary tale of sudden elevation from the lowest and she had everything that great wealth had nothing to conceal and insisted that every dollar that Platt gave her had been given voluntarily.

She believed, she said, that she was under no obligations to return any part of the money which she now possesses. How much money Platt gave her she could not say, even approximately, as she never kept any account of his gifts, which were made in large sums at frequent intervals during their entire acquaintance.

Mr. Platt was very generous even from the first, she said, but he became more so after the death of his wife in 1893. He told her at that time that he wanted to provide for her handsomely and explained that if he mentioned her in his will a contest might result. He had decided, therefore, to give her a great deal of money while he was yet alive.

He advised her to invest this money carefully and suggested that it might be well for her to place a considerable portion of it in savings banks. She said that the old man always had been very kind to her, but that he was even more tender after the deam of his wife, and after his wife's death he gave the witwhen they were produced by Mr.

His Conclusions Are Not Inconsistent With Those of Prosecution-Stabbing Experiment

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 19.-Expert testimony occupied the entire time of the court during yesterday's session of the Tucker murder trial and with the exception of about 20 minutes, surgeons occupied the stand. Without exception these witnesses stated that a knife thrust into a body at an angle described by Medical Examiner Meade could not possibly touch the azygous vein. Each of the medical experts State of Massachusetts, County of Norfolk, ss. also stated that the knife shown them, a duplicate of the one owned by Tucker, would not have made the wounds similar to those found on the body of Miss Page, the reason ascribed in every case being that its broad back would leave a mark unlike the mark of a blade without such a back, and which marks were not found on the body.

Witnesses for the defense also testified that the stains on Tucker's overcoat were consistent with blood found in the bodies of certain dumb beasts, including horses, rats and muskrats. Drs. Leary and Austin, professors at Tufts college, who testified to this fact, said that although the specimens submitted to them for examination were very small they felt certain that the results attained by them were correct. Colonel Ordaz left her to join his regiment, and Senora Ordaz organized a battalion of Cubans, arming and equipping them at her own expense. When they were ready to take the field they demanded that she should command them. This she consented to do nominally, with rank of major.

The Spaniards at the outset of the revolution treated their captives as rebels and traitors. An officer and ten men of Senora Ordaz's battalion, having been captured, were shot. The senora in response to the clamors of her soldiers declared that she would shoot the first Spanish officer and ten privates that should fall into her hands. One day soon after this, while Senora Ordaz was sitting in her tent, she heard the tread of men marching, and in a few moments a squad halted without and a sergeant rapped on the tent pole. The major threw aside the flaps, and before her stood ten Spanish prisoners and a man in citizen's dress under

Why did the senora turn white and gasp for breath? She knew that these men were marched before her that she might give an order for their execution, but the ten lives were as nothing compared with that of the citizen, for under his disguise she recognized her husband. Colonel Ordaz had been arrested trying to pass as a civilian from one province to another bearing important dispatches, which were found on his person. This in all armies is considered to constitute a spy and is punishable with death.

The senora listened to the report of the sergeant with a heaving bosom hearing not a word. Colonel Ordaz stood erect, while a glance of recognition passed between husband and wife. When the sergeant had finished, the major, with difficulty commanding her voice, called him to her and said:

"These men, as I have promised, must die. Take them to the guard tent, and I will issue an order during the day for their execution. The spy I desire to examine myself. I will keep the papers for transmission to our general. Leave the man here with me till I call

APPOINTMENTS.

Expected at Meeting of City Council This Evening.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held tonight, The specific purpose of the meeting is to pass the order authorizing the Mayor to petition the Legislature for authority to borrow $200,000 to extend the sewer upon by the joint committee on Finance and Sewers.

Any new business will be in order and it is probable that petitions will be received and orders introduced.

It is more than probable that Mayor Thompson will at this meeting enlighten the Council as to the gentlemen whom he has selected for his official family.

GOOD AFTERNOON.

The numerous changes in department officials of the city should please the large majority of voters who demanded changes. In fact there are more new appointees than the voters expected Mayor Thompson would make. Whether all will be improvements remains to be seen. Some openly say that the is ready to give them all a trial. Many have said that no one in Quincy, outside of the present Commissioner, was qualified for the office, but the fact that Mayor Thompson has not gone outside of the city for any of his department heads is commendable. A good business man should successfully administer the office.

The reappointments of City Clerk Keith, City Treasurer Fay and Chief ineer Williams are perfectly satisory, and any changes in these dements would have caused a protest. wyer Thomas is no younger than of the other City Solicitors when appointed. DEFENSE SEEKS AN ALIBI

Prisoner Did Not Take a Short Cut Through Swamps From Page Home-Got Blood on Coat and Knife While at Theatre

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 20 .- With the expert testimony disposed of, the defense in the trial of Charles L. Tucker, charged with the murder of Mabel Page, yesterday called witnesses to testify as to the prisoner's whereabouts on the day of the murder, his personal appearance on that day, the manner in which the blood came upon his knife, and the ownership of a pin claimed by the commonwealth to have been stolen from the Page house, but which the defense claims was owned by and in the possession of Tucker over two years ago.

The question of the ownership of the pin occupied a considerable portion of the day, and, although the witnesses invariably during direct examination selected the alleged Page pin as one similar to that worn by Tucker, not one of appointments are weak, but the Ledger them when cross-examined by Atterney General Parker would make the positive statement that it was Tucker's.

More than one of the witnesses were considerably confused by the questioning of Mr. Parker, especially so when he placed before them several pins in addition to the disputed one, and asked them to select the one which had been worn by the prisoner. On Tucker's lap at the time lay the defendant's overcoat in such a position that blood from the cut could have dropped on the spot where Dr. Wood found blood stains. Fish admitted that he would not be able to identify the knife. Neither could he identify positively the pin he had seen Tucker wear on several occasions.

Tucker was seen on the Weston bridge at about 12 o'clock on the day ave had more experience in the of the murder by Miss Sarah J. Connolly and Edward G. Frost, and the former testified that she saw him again on the same day between 5 and 10 minutes before 1 o'clock. Frost thought he saw Tucker again at about the same tke an improvement in this time. Chinese Sallors in a Riot New York, Jan. 20 .- The police reserves of one of the Brooklyn police stations were called out to put an end to a desperate battle between factions in the Chinese crew of the steamer Hindustan, lying in the Erie basin. The Cantonese tried to take away the meat rations of the Pechili faction and the latter retaliated. Hardly a man in the crew of 24 escaped injury. One man has a fractured skull. Another was badly stabbed.

Rotten Politics In Colorade Denver, Jan. 20 .- The examination of witnesses in the Peabody and Adams gubernatorial contest continues. Witnesses have sworn they voted many times under different names, one of them stating that the repeaters were instructed by Chief of Police Delaney to vote as often as they could. One case was cited in which a man who gave the name of a dog was permitted to vote.

To Command Peary's Steamer St. Johns, Jan. 20.-Captain Samuel Bartlett, the Arctic navigator, left here last night for Bucksport, Me., where he will take up the duties of resident inspector of Commander Peary's new Arctic steamer, which is now being built there. Bartlett will command the steamer during next summer's polar cruise.

You cannot afford to grow old. In these days of strenuous competition it is necessary to maintain, as long as possible ones youthful appearance. It is impossible to do this without retaining a luxurious growth of hair. The presence of Dandruff indicates the presence of a burrowing germ which lives and thrives on the roots of the hair until it causes total baldness. Newbro's Herpicide is the only known destroyer of this pest, and it is as effec-tive as it is delightful to use Herpicide makes an elegant hair dress-ing as well as Dandruff cure.

Czar and Family Narrowly Escaped Being Wiped Out

A PREMEDITATED AFFAIR

Across River to Where Cere-Was Being Performed--Every Sign That Russian Empire Is on Verge of a Revolution

St. Petersburg, Jan. 20.-The cereyear was accompanied by an event more mysterious, unprecedented and extraordinary than any afforded by the annals of Russian history.

For a Russian sovereign to fall no new thing in Russian records, but that the czar should narrowly escape while he was engaged in a solemn religious rite, surrounded by priests of his church, is so difficult to realize as to be almost incredible. Yet this is what happened and the Russian public is left wondering and mystified. By the merest chance the imperial family escaped unhurt, but public opinion is stunned by what might have been the tragic results of the affair. The grapeshot came from a battery The artillerymen are supposed to have joined in a conspiracy.

The incident illustrates in an emphatic way the volcano upon which the Russian government is sitting and incidentally the foreign diplomats accredited to the Russian court. Ambassador McCormick and Secretaries Eddy and Bliss of the American embassy were present and shared the peril of the Russian monarch.

It is pointed out as being highly improbable that the gun had not been cleaned for two days and it is impossible that a second cartridge could have been inserted for saluting purposes behind the first: and it is certainly a startling coincidence that the gun containing this missle should have been trained directly on the imperial pavilion.

Whatever may be the solution, it is a strange fact that the shot came from the Bourse esplanade, where was stationed the First Horse Artillery of the Guard, the premier artillery organization of the empire and one of the most noted regiments in the whole Russian service. The roster of this organization of aristocratic traditions has included grand dukes, princes, and some of the most illustrious names in Russia.

Had the gun contained a service charge or a regular shell the pavilion must infallfbly have been destroyed and the whole Romanoff family would have been wiped out. It is clear, however, that the saluting was done most recklessly, as the flashes of the blank shots from St. Peter and St. Paul fortress showed that the guns were directed straight at the winter palace.

Russia's Troubles Multiplying London, Jan. 20.-The London papers and their St. Petersburg correspond. ents take the gravest view of the internal conditions in Russia. The mafority express the belief that yesterday's incident was a premeditated atmore a political than an industrial movement. In short, they consider that every sign makes it apparent that the city. empire is on the verge of a revolution.

It is alleged that the St. Petersburg manufacturers have decided to reject the strikers' demands and that the orthodox priest, Father Gopon, threatens to march on Sunday at the head of 100,000 strikers to the winter palace, with a petition for political rights, and that he will refuse to depart until the flocument is presented to the emperor.

> His country rose before his imagina world, the light of hope shining in her luminous eyes, a sweet smile upon her lips, the sword of justice in her fearless hand, her broad shield stretched out to shelter the desolate and oppressed. Before that gracious vision he bowed his head in homage. His Concord, Harvard college-he loved and served them all with a passion of affection in which there was no shadow of turning. His pride in the senate, in its history and its power, and his affection for it were only excelled by his jealous care for its dignity and its prerogatives.

It is impossible to follow him through those eventful years when freedom and slavery clinched in a death struggle far out in Kansas and the black clouds of civil war were gathering darkly on the horizon. But there are two incidents of that period which illustrate Mr. Hoar's character so strongly that cannot be passed over In 1854 the Knownothing movement broke out with all the force of a tropical hurricane. To men painfully struggling to bring a great cause to judgment against the resistance of the old and dominant parties it offered many temptations. But Mr. Hoar, unmoved by the storm, believing in freedom of conscience as he believed in political freedom, set himself in stern the Russian circular note to the powers opposition to a party which rested on on the subject of Chinese neutrality, the the principle of discrimination and Chinese government complains that it ostracism against all men of a certain has received no communication from race or of a given creed. FRICTION STILL EXISTS

Fall River Mill Men Refuse to Discharge Present Operatives

Fall River, Mass., Jan. 20.-A dozen orporations are running in full; others have less than three-fourths of their looms going. About half the members of the Slasher Tenders' union are idle because others have been hired to take their places, and about 50 loomfixers have reported that their places have been filled. At the union headquarters there is much ill-feeling expressed beause of alleged discrimination against he strikers. Some members of the Carders' union have not been able to get their old places back.

Concerning these complaints, manuacturers say it was expressly stated to the governor that no operatives would e discharged who were at work in strikers' places, and while the strike eaders pressed hard to have such an inderstanding, the clause in the signed agreement, "as far as practicable," was inserted, so that manufacturers would be free to protect those operatives who went back to their mahines at the first call.

Manufacturers expect more or less friction in getting the mills started for three or four weeks to come, but they say the calling off of the strike will result in many people coming back from Canada and places in New England where work has been obtained pending settlement of the local troubles.

It is estimated that the city will not ecover from the strike for one year at the earliest. Relief work will be necessary for a fortnight, as it will be 10 days or more before the strikers reeive much money.

Points of Interest.

Quincy will soon be as famous for pilgrimages as Plymouth and Concord, as parties come now almost daily. Surely there are many historic spots of National interest, and enterprises which are novel to many. A brief list is given below.

BIRTHPLACE OF PRESIDENTS.

Rirthplace of John Adams, the first Vice Presdent and second President of the United States, Franklin street, Quincy Adams; house built in 1681 and restored in 1897 by Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution. Open to public. Patriotic societies admitted free, although contributions are welcome to defray expenses of keeping house open and in repair. Small fee asked the general public.

Birthplace of John Quincy Adams, the sixth President of the United States, junction of Franklin street, Presidents road and Independence avenue. Built 1716, restored 1896 by the Quincy Historical Society. Open to public afternoons from 2 to 5. Admission charged.

JOHN HANCOCK BIRTHPLACE. Adams street, junction of Dimmock and Hancock streets. A bronze tablet has been placed by the City of Quincy on Adams Academy to mark the place where the house stood in which the patriot John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, was born. MYLES STANDISH CAIRN. Squantum heights, erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, of Massachusetts, in memory of Captain Myles Standish and his Sept. 30, 1621, guided by the indian Tisquan-

Many other points of interest might be mentioned: Thomas Crane Memorial Hall which is the public library building; Merrymount, the home of Mrs. John Quincy Adams, where Morton erected his famous May pole in very similar to one he had seen his 1626; the soldiers' monument at Mount Wollaston cemetery with its tablets; the famous Quincy granite quarries, many of great depth; the granite yards where monuments and statuary are being cut, and the polishing mills where granite is polished. Also the plant of the Fore River Ship and Engine Company where it is quite probable that today will see warships are being built for the the beginning of the summing up of the

MOTHER TESTIFIES

Mrs Tucker Fails to Identify Her Son's Stick Pin

DEFENSE DISAPPOINTED

Prisoner Completely Unnerved by Emotion Displayed by Parent on Witness Stand--Evidence Practically Completed

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 21.-Events of extraordinary interest followed in rapid succession at the murder trial of Charles L. Tucker yesterday and the climax came a few minutes before court adjourned, when Mrs. Alfred Tucker, the mother of the prisoner, failed to identify as the property of her son a stick pin which the prosecution claims was stolen from the Page home after Mabel Page was murdered.

Other witnesses had declared that Tucker had worn the pin for two years before the murder. Mrs. Tucker was handed two stick pins by James H. Vahey, counsel for the defense, and asked if she could identify either of them as the property of her son. One of the pins was what had been known as the Page pin and which was found in: Tucker's pocket after his arrest This pin, the commonwealth claims, was stolen from the Page home after the murder of Mabel Page. The other pin was one introduced in the case by the defense. Mrs. Tucker looked at the pins for a moment, and then, hand ing to Mr. Vahey the pin purchased after the murder, said she thought it was the property of her son. The "Page' pin she put down on the witness stand in front of her.

Mr. Vahey, try as he would, could not conceal his disappointment. His face flushed and he kept his eyes riveted on the floor for a moment before he said to the jury: "The witness refers to exhibit 36." The "Page" pin is known as exhibit 33 in the court records.

There was a momentary buzz of comment about the courtroom when it was realized that the witness had failed to identify the pin, but it was quickly checked by the sheriff's.

Mr. Vahey asked only a few more questions of the witness. She said that she had seen Charles' knife around his men of Plymouth Colony, who landed here room many times and on the week preceeding his arrest the knife was clean and unbroken.

se Taker looked in the direction of Attorney Signeral Par-As the attorney general rose to his feet every eye in the courtroom was turned upon him. He faced the witness and, bowing slightly, said in a kindly, low tone, "I shall not question you, Mrs.

Father, mother and brother, relations and friends, were called to the stand by counsel for the defense to establish an alibi for Tucker and to Quincy centre. In auditorium each side of high identify the pin which has been a nent feature of the case. It was while Mrs. Tucker was on the stand that the prisoner showed the first rea! emotion since his arrest on the charge of murder.

Almost simultaneously mother and son burst into tears, the mother sobbing hysterically and her som holding his head in his hands while the tears rolled down his cheeks, which were flushed a vivid red. Mr. Vahey had asked Mrs. Tucker if she could identify her son's yachting cap, which he handed her. Up to this point Mrs. Tucker had been calm; in fact she several times smiled affectionately at her son while testifying, but the cap recalled to her mind her son's happy days on the Charles river and clutching it convulsively she covered her face with it and sobbed. Tucker had been watching his mother and her emotion completely unnerved him. Resting his head in both hands he cried for a moment or two, and then, with a great effort once more mastered his feelings and resumed his intent gazing at the witness stand. Judge Sherman spoke to Mrs. Tucker and told her to tell her story if she could. Mrs. Tucker soon regained control of herself and resumed the testi mony. The incident aroused the sympathy of everyone in the courtroom, and a deathlike stillness prevailed until Judge Sherman spoke.

Tucker's father and brother were on the stand during the afternoon session and the former's pale face plainly showed the great strain he has undergone since his son's arrest.

Mr. Tucker works nights and he slept during the day of the murder, and he therefore could not testify as to his son's movements on that day. He did, however, pick out the alleged Page pin as the one which he thought his son had worn for a period of three years previous to his arrest. On cross-examination by Mr. Parker, the witness said he could not say positively that the pinhe picked out was the property of his

Walter Tucker, like his father, knew nothing of the prisoner's movements or the day of the murder. He said with great emphasis that the Page pin was wear. Several witnesses were called te tell at what points on the road and at what time they saw Tucker on March 31 and Attorney General Parker was unable to shake the testimony in any great degree on cross-examination.

The presentation of evidence by the defense is practically completed and Business Men quivered hoarsely. "Oh, Ben!" Something of the agony in the cry seemed to penetrate the man's dulling brain, for a tremor went through him and he straightened suddenly, as though by a great effort. The dull eyes opened and shut heavily, and again the hand passed across the forehead as though to force some intelligence into the clogged brain. Then:

"D-don't speak like that, girlie," an unrecognizable voice mumbled. "I'm not drunk. I never drank a drop in my life. You know I-speak-true. It's a d-r-ug," his voice drifting back again into the stupor.

The girl was beside him with a swift movement, the basket thrust into the shoulders, her eyes close and gazing rushed in. She turned to him first, straight into his, lovingly, compelling-

"Ben," the voice forcing itself into clearness and steadiness, "look at me now, hard. What is it? Think!"

The man made a supreme effort. "It was messenger 12-Timson, you know."

She knew. She had refused Timson's love.

"He offered me a drink of water, and I took it. Then he crossed to track 3 and jumped on board his train. It was the one that just pulled out."

"But what did he do it for?" "Don't you understand, Delia?" a sharp agony quivering in the voice. "This trip was to furnish the money for our wedding. Timson knew it. He planned it just before my train starts, so I will lose the trip. There is no time to find a substitute. My train will go without me, and the company will be angry and discharge me for drunkenness, and and become ness, and and his form swaying more heavily-"and I'm losing myself. I can't see you. A few degrees too much either way might mean the loss of a good many thousand dollars to the company.

It was a hard trip, for the outside 70 degrees in six hours, and the next morning was back again to 31 degrees and falling. It meant a constant shifting of the ventilators, with an impossibility of keeping the car thermometers from fluctuating uneasily. Zero you put it?" weather would have been infinitely

The conductor gave a long whistle which ended in an apologetic cough, But his face lengthened visibly.

"What's the company thinking of?" he ejaculated hotly. "Next we know girls will be put in as conductors and brakemen and engineers." And he hurried away, still choking resentfully. Seven days later Delia entered the company's office at New Orleans. The manager himself happened to be in, and he seemed to recognize her by the papers she carried in her hand. He came forward quickly. But at that moment a figure which had been lounging about the street door-a white, anxious faced man, who had been peering into the office most of the time for the last eight days-also saw her and

"How are you, Ben?" she asked eagerly. "All right?"

"Yes, yes! But you? What have you been up to, girlie? The office has been full of talk."

The manager was beside them now, "Is this Miss Delia?" he inquired. "Yes, sir. Here are the receipts your ommission agents gave me. They said the fruit was in prime condition." The manager glanced over the papers hurriedly. "Yes, yes; they're all right," he said.

"But we knew that before. Our agents wired us that the fruit was in the very best condition-as good as they had ever received. I-I hardly know what to do about this. It's a most untoward thing and should receive our severest censure, and yet you did as well as our very best messenger-better almost. I suppose we shall have to pass it over. May 25, After Supper. EAREST-I like this place you have sent me to. It is lovely, but it does seem a shame for me to be spending the summer in the country with the birds and flowers, with you there in New York working away so hard to support us. I know what you said. You would rather work in New York than idle anywhere else. But that was only your sweetness.

I remember the joke you got off, too, when I said I believed one grew more contented with one's lot in the country, and you said you thought you would if it were a lot in a cemetery. Then how you wrote it up and sold it

We might make our expenses, mightn't we, if only we could think up enough jokes? But the trouble with jokes is they are no good unless they are spontaneous—that is, not much.

If you would only let me help you, but you won't. I shall never forget the time I made the shirt waist for your friend. It is the only thing I can dosew. How you took her to the theater, to a supper afterward and gave her your prettiest piece of bric-a-brac, so that altogether it amounted to about four times as much as she paid me for making the waist. You hated so to be under obligations.

I can't help you in that way evidently. As a matter of fact, I have thought t all out and concluded that the only thing for me to do is to marry. That is plain, it seems to me, as the nose on

She is sweet, but a plain little thing. She hasn't half the good looks that this know. No thanks for that. So maybe there is a chance yet for yours truly. MABEL.

May 30, Same Old Time. Dearest-They all go to bed at 8. Accordingly there is nothing to do but read or write, so I write. The girl, Delia, has told me all about it. She is going to be married soon. He said, "I am sorry I disturbed chicken has inherited from somebody I you." But, looking at the long peacock feather with which he had touched my cheek, I was inclined to be slightly incredulous.

'I don't believe you," I returned. "What did you wake me for? I was having such a nice nap."

"I wanted to talk to you," said he. With that he sat down by me in the hammock-I had sat straight up when he wakened me-and pushed it for me with his foot.

We had grown to be rather friendly making of the dress. I was laughing and talking with him and joking when Delia came up the walk with Dick.

me blush. These country farmers are very susceptible. It doesn't take long. By now Delia stood on the veranda directly in front of us. She was gazing at Tom with a puzzled look.

Then she turned to Dick. "I am getting all mixed up on the neckties," she said. "Did you change yours. Dick? I thought when you came you had on a blue one, and now it is

June 30, at 12. Dearest-You will never believe what for her church wedding-it is to be has happened. I can hardly believe it

First, the wedding came off with great eclat-that's what they call it in the papers, isn't it?-and Delia was a dream in her little white dress we had made her. I had on my dress you gave me and looked pretty fair, considering We had beautiful flowers, and the twins were magnificent.

You couldn't tell which was which as usual, until Dick stood with Delia at the altar, then walked out with her to the tune of the wedding march. And that left Tom with me.

We drove, all four of us, to the home of the bride, and Tom and I concluded to walk back again through the hedges and byways, listening to the whippoorwills and those other birds that fill the country night with so much melody.

We were quiet awhile, thinking over the wedding, for weddings are solemn things, dearest. They are so uncertain. You never know whether they are to olossom into happiness or divorce. But by and by Tom began to talk.

I had been listening to a bird that was singing somewhere in the wood, but at the first few words I forgot the bird and listened to him.

"I am not Tom," was what he said. "I am Dick."

How would you have taken that, dearest? Wouldn't it have given you r something of a jar?

Drift of Opinion.

The whole foreground of most women's minds is like a country store, full and running over with dry goods and groceries. If we could look into the chart of this dear, common mother brain we should see it platted out something like this: Eight-tenths of the area, John, the children, the housework. Three-twentieths heaven. Onetwentieth, all the rest of the world's affairs. BROWN SYSTEM.

& H. R. R. Men.

Supt. Whaley of the New York divibeautiful gold ring, in behalf of the comprise a committee to revise the company. After recovering from the rules of the New Haven road, and some that have died a natural death through old age and changing conditions and revising all to the plane of the 20th century railroad. Every station on the New York, New New Haven, giving notice of a contemplated change in the system of discipline now in effect on the road to that of the "Brown" system.

Briefly, the "Brown" system is that of discipline without suspensiou, including the use of merit and demerit marks, rewards for good work by employes and serving to extend the education of the train bands. It was developed by George R. Brown, general the New York Central. Realizing that the old system, that of suspension for did not attain its object alone, as almost invariably it was the family of the erring employe which had to suffer for such penalty.

Mr. Brown decided to put into effect merit system. This was inaugurated in the early '90s, and from it grew a method of discipline that drew the eyes of all railroad men in the country to it as a model of successful management. Under it, there is suspension without loss of pay, but the marking system comes into play here and renoves what might be an incentive to soldier" on the part of the employe.

This involves the keeping of a record bulletin of each man in the company's employ, and when there is any violation that necessitates suspension from duty as a penalty, the offender has a certain number of demerits marked against his name. When these demerits reach a certain total, this on some roads being 100 and on others 60 or 120, according to conditions, the man is discharged. But in addition to the demerits the employe has the opportunity offered him of working off the black marks against his name by meritorious conduct or by some exceptional act of courage or forethought, and oftentimes in event of some particularly commendable act the employee receives special consideration in the number of marks in his favor.

An offence for which an employe is disciplined is bulletined, the location of the fault and the name and date of the offender and offence being left out, and known. Every trainman will know when he reads such a bulletin just about what the affair was, as such news travels swiftly along the line, but there will be nothing to call the attention of the outsider to the fact.

It is considered and it has been found true that once the merit system is adopted the emvloyes show marked efforts to keep upon the right side of the bulletin and immediately there results a more general sense of self-discipline throughout the entire corps of workers. Some of the objections to the propo sed system which have been made by the management of roads where it is now in force are that often it causes in cases of a big rush of traffic the running up of a man's total of demerits to the discharging figure in a very short time, through no real fault of his own, and such a rush does not give him a chance to reinstate himself by a total of merits. Again, in cases of commendation of an employe for some act of courage there is apt to, and has been, much criticism by the man's fellow employes, some of whom may have figured in acts of greater courage which have escaped being reported.

However, in general, the system has been proved practicable and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Co., is now to adopt it. The fact that each employe has been urged to make suggestions will bring the system nearer to the men and it is anticipated that there will be a ready response to the ATLANTIC BRIDGE.

Plans Approved by County Commissioners.

Quincy's Objections Overruled.

The Street Railway Situation Up to the City Council.

The article in Thursday's Ledger in relation to the Atlantic bridge and approaches was an eye opener to many and the citizens in general are pretty well aroused over it. No one seems to want to assume credit for the conditions and everyone blames someone else.

Commissioner Knowlton, when interviewed, said that the plans were passed upon by the County Commissioners. who accepted them and ordered the railroad to go ahead. Before this the plans were submitted to the city. That he and City Solicitor went over the plans carefully and disapproved of the STREET CAR SERVICE.

The discussion of the Atlantic bridge situation also calls attention to the very unsatisfactory street railway service on the Neponset line which is the most mportant line in the city. Through travel has been interrupted almost from the first and for the past two or three months it has been necessary for passengers to leave the cars and walk not only across the bridge but a long distance besides.

This is bad enough in the day time in pleasant weather, but at night and in stormy weather it has been anything but pleasant. The west side of the bridge is now so far advanced that it would have been possible some days ago to lay the tracks across it, and to have completed the line so that through car service could have been resumed by the first of February.

The location which the railway have however, is not on that side of the bridge. At present there is no bridge where the company has a location.

The Old Colony street railway company understood the situation and sent a petition to the City Council for a new permitted them to lay tracks across the section now nearly completed.

The City Council in its wisdom, and by the advice of Mayor Bryant, turned the matter down, and thus inconvenienced thousands of citizens who daily use this line. The main reason apparently was because the Mayor could not learn what the hitch was between the Old Colony and Boston Elevated in re-Trousers now $3 50. We haven't time nor space to enumerate all of the Bargard to through cars to Dudley street. The railway companies considered gains. Come and see for yourself.

this a matter between themselves. There was no question, however, but what the matter would have been settled and the through car service to Dudley street would have gone into effect by this time if it was possible to run cars over the Atlantic bridge.

The question now is, will the street railway petition the City Council for a location over the bridge or will the travelling public continue to be inconvienced for months to come.

The railway officials say it is impossible to put the Dudley street ser vice into effect until there are double tracks over the bridge and they hesitate about asking again for a location.

There is no question, if the railway officials are met in a spirit of fairness, instead of a spirit of bulldozing that has characterized some of the meetings in the recent past, that better accommodations can be secured.

Mike Donovan Tells of His Bouts With the President.

URGED TO HIT HARD AND OFTEN

Knows How to Give and Take Blows-He Had as Much Fun as a Can Hit Like Lightning.

Mike Donovan, dean of boxers, got home recently from Washington, where he boxed with the president for an hour every afternoon for four days, says the New York World. It was the continue for some days. Donovan talked of his experience as follows:

with Mr. Roosevelt since he was gov- Mrs. W. L. Thomas. ernor. If anybody tells you he's an easy mark, don't believe it. He knows how to use his head too. I never saw a man pick up faster than he in those

"We boxed every afternoon from 5:30 until nearly half past 6 in his study. A wrestling mat was placed on the floor for us, but I found it too thick, and we used the regular carpet. The president wore a pair of riding trousers, a light undershirt and a pair of canvas shoes.

"'Don't mind hitting me,' he said right at the start off. 'I want you to hit me as often as you can, and don't mind how hard either.' We started off in good fashion, and every time we hit each other he laughed good naturedly. It was not any tapping, I will tell you. They were good, honest blows of the sort that you wouldn't run into knowingly. We had seven ounce gloves. The president took his part of it always with a laugh.

"I never saw a pleasanter man or one who gets more enjoyment out of a thing. He had as much fun as a boy, and he laughed and joked all the time. He's a fighter and knows how to give and take blows. He doesn't try to knock a man out, but he does like to know that he has hit him.

"He kept me busy, and I was not running into any of his blows either. Don't get the idea that I was there to teach him-not by any means. He is a veteran boxer and can hold his own with the best of them in the clubs. I know few men who box regularly in the athletic clubs who can worst him.

"One day he had to rush away to attend the diplomatic reception, where he shook hands with over a thousand persons. He told me he would much prefer to take his book and sit down and read "Every day while we boxed some one came in and watched. His boy Theodore was always there with his two cousins, football players, and several times men came in to talk with him on business while he was boxing. A man from Texas came in to arrange about his making a hunting trip to Texas directly after inauguration. He said to me. 'Oh. how I wish it were here now.' He is longing for the recreation and the exercise in the open it will give him. "The life in Washington has made im stout, and he is not as well trained as when he was governor. To keep down the weight a man must diet, and it is impossible for the president to diet himself and attend as many dinners as he has to attend. He misses tremendously his active exercise. But he is as lithe as an Indian yet, supple in every joint, and he can hit like lightning. "I have arranged to go down several more times to box with him and to give lessons to Theodore junior. I gave lessons to young Theodore every day. He is now a fine, strapping young boy, seventeen years old, and weighs 135 pounds. I thought when I first gave him lessons at Albany that he would never be a strong man, but he is developing and will be as tall as his father. He is a fighter, too, and a good hitter.

Italian Tobacco System In Japan. The infinite adaptability of Japan to western civilization recently received another striking illustration, says the London Globe. Last year a commission of Japanese administrators was sent to Italy to study the system upon which the Italian tobacco monopoly was organized. The result was so satisfactory that the commission reported that it would be suitable for adoption in the mikado's dominions. The Italian minister of finance has received a communication from the Japanese minister.

St Petersburg, Jan. 21.-A proclamation was issued this morning forbidding all assemblages, parades or other demonstrations in the city, and warning well-disposed workmen and other private individuals to avoid gatherings, break up and disperse meetings imperilling public safety.

With the city seemingly on the verge or an incipient revolution, thousands of outs, the situation was hourly growing rioting and overawe the violent-minded.

2500 cavalry and 1000 infantry from square beyond. Tsarskoe Selo and filled the streets. especially in the disaffected quarter, with heavy patrols of soldiers.

The refusal to permit a delegation of workmen to present a petition to Emperor Nicholas at Tsarskoe Selo has made it known that the great demonstration planned for Sunday, with its unlimited possibilities for an outbreak, will not be permitted to take place. At the same time, acting in conjunction with a conference of employers, it has been determined to offer concessions in the terms of employment, which the employers declared the great majority of the workmen would be inclined to accept if they were guaranteed protection from the more violent faction.

The situation entered an acute stage yesterday, and the strike assumed an open political phase. The day was one of intense excitement. Mill after mill and factory after factory closed. Throngs of workmen paraded the streets and when their colleagues refused to join them, broke down gates and forced out the men. The whole industrial centre is idle. All the textile mills and every printing office in St. Petersburg are closed. One electric light plant and one water plant have shut down and over 100,000 men are out Throughout the day workmen's meet ings were held, at which incendiary being uttered as to what would come speeches were made, the wildest threats the Pennsylvania Railroad company in the event of the authorities and employers failing to meet their demands. The nervousness and dread of what the next few days might bring forth was increased by reports that the workmen of Moscow, Kieff, Kharkoff. Kishineff and other large cities in the interior might join the movement. While the government and employers temporized, the telegraphers and railroad employes threatened to join the walkout, paralyzing the communications of the country. Many foreigners are preparing to send their families tersburg has been forced to suspend

The suddenness of the strike and the not be in the convention. far-reaching nature of the workmen's organization was largely a surprise to the government and employers. Starting with the walkout of a few thousand employes of the Putiloff Iron works, due to purely industrial causes. it spread as rapidly as a conflagration through the laboring classes of St. Petersburg and became general.

At first only industrial demands were presented, such as shortening the hours or labor and for increase of wages, but poverty and discontent, under the incitement of Socialistic Democratic agitators, led to the formulation of political demands. A petition was drawn up and largely signed which, going beyond the complaints on which the strike originated, attacked the whole capitalistic system of the country, bitterly assailed the present government as one of bureaucracy and demanded the reform of both, asserting that death was preferable to existence under such conditions. This was to have been presented personally to Emperor Nicholas. A deputation of workmen endeavored to see the czar at Tsarskoe Selo and appeal to him to come to the winter palace Sunday to be present at an immense demonstration of the industrial classes., It was planned to have all the workmen in St. Petersburg, headed Sun rises-7:07; sets-4:45. by Father Gopon, in full gorgeous Moon rises-6:42 p. m. canonical garb, march to the palace and High water-12 m.; 12 p. m. assemble in the great parade ground in front of the palace and there present er in Maine and New Hampshire.

He has been accompanied everywhere by a score of Izvoschiks, and has not been sleeping at his own home for a week for fear of the contingency of arrest by the police, which is reported to have happened last night.

As a peasant swineherd, when a boy, Gopon showed such capacity for learning that he was sent to the Poltava ecclesiastical seminary to be educated as a monk. His leaning towards politics diers at Capital to Prevent led to his exclusion from the seminary and this exclusion prompted a desire to get close to the people and share their lot. I never knew the man's real name, but he was always referred to as Slippery Sam for the reason that no one had ever been able to catch him. He had for some time been the terror of the community. When Slippery Sam became unbearable it was the unanimous wish of the settlement that I should make an attempt to get hold of him either alive or dead. One day a boy rode in among us and said that Sam was hanging about a house in the next county, where he was courting a widow, and I was persuaded to go over and see what I could do, with a view of checking his lawless career.

A traveling parson had been among us and left a lot of Bibles and tracts. I was not overscrupulous as to the means I employed with desperadoes, so I put a white handkerchief around my neck, stuck a pair of revolvers under my breeches, slung to my waist by a cord, and made for the widow's house, reaching it about supper time. Fall River Strikers Charge Discrimination by Mill Men

LATTER MAKE A DENIAL

Their Stand In Objecting to Another Conference Upheld by Labor Leaders--Complications Largely Due to Weavers

Fall River, Mass., Jan. 21 .- The committee of the cotton manufacturers met yesterday afternoon and concluded not to have a conference with the representatives of the Textile council to settle the grievances recited in a letter from the secretary of the council to the manufacturers' committee. In this letter it was set forth that many of the strikers had been refused work at the mills and that discrimination was being made against the strikers.

After the meeting of the manufac turers' committee a letter was received by Secretary Taylor of the Tex tile council from Secretary Hathaway of the Fall River Manufacturers' association. The text of Hathaway's reply is as follows: "Your communication of Jan. 19 duly received, and I am instructed by the no discrimination to be shown on account of the present strike. The manufacturers' committee are of the opinis very explicit and they can see no reason for a misundersta ding of its meaning. The unbalanced condition of the mills yesterday made it impracticable for all to be put to work at once, ments did not return. The weavers in doubt that in a short time conditions will be little cause for complaint. Therefore, we are of the opinion that a conference at this time would be of no practical value." The labor leaders are inclined to favor the stand taken by the manufacturers in objecting to a conference at the present time. TRAIN DERAILED

Four Cars Demolished and Many Persons Injured

Durham, N. H., Jan. 21 .- A broken rail was responsible for a serious train wreck on the Boston and Maine railroad here when four cars attached to the "Sunrise express," the fastest train running between the maritime provinces and Boston, were derailed and demolished and a score of persons were injured. Of this number six were injured seriously and one of them, Albert Hall of Portland, Me., may die.

The train was running at a high rate of speed in an effort to make up as much as possible of considerable lost time. The train consisted of a locomotive, baggage car, two Pullman sleeping cars, and three coaches. As the express was passing through a stone culvert a broken rail was encountered. The locomotive, baggage car, and one Pullman passed over without leaving the rails, but the four rear cars jumped the tracks, shot through the air and were thrown into the stone culvert. There were more than 100 passengers on board the train, and nearly all those in the derailed cars were bruised by the force with which the coaches were thrown from the rails.

The engineer stopped the forward portion of the train immediately after the rear cars left the track, gave the alarm. and then hastened to assist in the

TRUSTS AND POOLS

By JAMES J. HILL.

HE most offensive word to the American people is "pool"railway pool. Any administration or congress that attempts to LEGALIZE railway pools will be quickly turned out by an uprising of the people.

There is a very simple method of dealing with the trust question. Let it be made necessary for any industrial corporation that wishes to do an interstate business to secure a FED-ERAL license, but before that license is issued the corporation must prove that its capital is REAL MONEY and based upon actual

A majority of trusts nowadays are the products of promoters who hastily gather in two or three concerns, whitewash them over and over again, issue sheaves of printed securities and carry them down to Wall street TO FEED THE LAMBS.

The general business of the country is not booming; it is only quietly and MODERATELY prosperous.

EVERY RAILROAD WOULD BE HAPPY TO HAVE REBATES ABOLISHED AND THE LAW AGAINST THEM ENFORCED. THE LAW NEVER HAS BEEN ENFORCED NOR ANY ONE PROSECUTED.

A pool is a game in which you hand over your property to another man to divide, a device by which a weaker concern seeks to obtain an EQUALITY with the stronger.

The inevitable law of nature is the survival of the fittest. You cannot change that law by legislation. It may work for a short time, but IN THE LONG RUN nature will triumph.

A RAILWAY POOL WOULD HELP ONE TOWN AND RUIN THE

It is not the magnitude of a business that works damage. Has the enormous business of the Krupp company injured Germany? Can any one in this country point out an injury inflicted on the people which can be traced to the MAGNITUDE of the Carnegie company -mind, I say the magnitude.

The serious objection to trusts is the method of their creationnot for the manufacturing of any particular commodity, but for the purpose of selling securities WHICH REPRESENT NOTHING more than good will and the prospective profits to the promoters. I do not include ALL trusts in this classification, but a large majority of them.

Any company desiring to do interstate business should be compelled to satisfy a federal department or commission that its capital stock was ACTUALLY PAID UP IN CASH OR PROPERTY at a fair valuation, just as the capital of national banks is certified to be paid up by the comptroller of the currency.

If a company claiming to have ten, twenty or fifty millions of capital desires to do business in Minnesota or California it is only fair to the business man of the state that he should know that the company's solvency and soundness have been passed upon by the federal government and that its capital is what is professed. Germany is our most active and hardest competitor today in the markets of the world. That is because the German emperor never to Chicago. The commission holds that ceases, day or night, to work and press forward the best business | the discrimination is not justified in interests of his country. There has been some playing with fire in Washington, and they don't know just how to put out the flames.

We as a nation have been too ready to look to state and federal legislation for remedies which are BEYOND THEIR POWER to give. The laws of trade are as certain in their operation as the laws of gravitation.

YOU MIGHT AS WELL TRY TO SET A BROKEN ARM BY STAT- Spread. UTE AS TO CHANGE A COMMERCIAL LAW BY LEGISLATIVE ENACTMENT. LET US LEAVE WELL ENOUGH ALONE.

That which is good let us keep and that which can be made better let us approach with intelligence and work together for the accomplishment of results that will benefit not only one, but ALL THE STATES of the country, and in that way secure the prosperity of the individual and corporate interests as well.

The Artificial Creation of Life

By Professor A. P. MATHEWS, University of Chicago

IFE originally HAPPENED. Life is made up of certain organic compounds. Certain organic compounds were made by nature; they could not be made by human beings. These compounds came together in some manner, and the result

There are two facts which PRACTICALLY ASSURE us of the ultimate artificial formation of living matter.

These are that LIVING matter is every moment formed from LIFELESS matter in ourselves and all about us and that living matter must have begun to exist at some definite time in the earth's history and must then either have originated SPONTANEOUSLY or have come from space.

As there is no evidence that life exists anywhere in the universe but on our earth, and as there is no reason why, if seed from space reached the earth in the past, it might not do so now and NEW BEINGS constantly appear without earthly parents, which no biologist believes, it is more probable that living matter originated spontaneously from lifeless matter.

Fortunately there have been other lines of investigation which have modified this pangenetic hypothesis. Many different sciences have contributed to an understanding of vital processes.

To make living matter we shall not first have to make a living substance, for, as has been shown, no such substance probably exists, but we shall have to duplicate a reaction in which possibly several substances are concerned.

WHILE, THEREFORE, ITS ARTIFICIAL SYNTHESIS MAY BE LONG DELAYED, I THINK, FROM RECENT PROGRESS, WE HAVE EVERY REASON TO FEEL ENCOURAGED AND TO LOOK FORWARD WITH CONFIDENCE TO THE ARTIFICIAL FORMATION OF LIFE.

SMOOT'S TESTIMONY

Mormon Oaths Are Not in Conflict With the Constitution

Washington, Jan. 21.-Interest in the Smoot investigation before the senate rommittee on privileges and elections was stirred by the unexpected determination to put Senator Smoot on the stand in his own behalf, without waiting for other witnesses now en route from Utah. The senator was under firect and cross-examination all day and frankly answered most of the questions asked. He acquitted himself excellently and appeared to make a favcrable impression on the members of the committee. The examination of Smoot related to matters intimately connected with church policy and his duty toward the church as compared with his duties as a senator. He said he had not taken any oaths that would interfere with his loyalty to his government. His recollection of the endowment house ceremony was indistinct, he said, but he was sure there were no obligations taken to avenge the blood of the prophets upon either "this nation" or "this generation," as has been testified to by witnesses for the prosecution.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 21.-The poard of regents of the University of Michigan were sursrised by the formal tender of his resignation by President Angell, who stated that he thought it would be to the advantage of the university to call a younger man to the position he occupied. The regents declined to consider the resignation, saying: "We feel that no one, young or old, could fill your place. Should you at any time desire assistance, the regents will be pleased to furnish same in any form."

Santo Domingo Looks to United States For Relief

HER APPEAL IS GRANTED

Our Government Will Collect Customs Revenues, Revise the Tariff Laws and Adjust Foreign Claims

Washington, Jan. 23 .- After a consultation with Secretary Hay, the following statement regarding the situation in Santo Domingo was published by Assistant Secretary Loomis: The Dominican republic has formally and freely invited the government of the United States to assist it in the admin istration of its customs revenues, and to aid it in establishing its fiscal system upon a firm and businesslike basis. The government of the United States having been explicitly, repeatedly and emphatically informed by more than one of the great powers that it ought either to try to evolve some order out of the financial chaos in the Dominican republic, or assent to certain European Jersey firm manufactures Navajo rugs and to the administration of the Dominexclusively for an Indian tribe that ican custom houses by them, supported by their warships, has deemed it advisable, in view of the unfortunate financial conditions in Santo Domingo, to accept the invitation of the Domin ican government, and therefore representatives of this government and of Santo Domingo have signed a memo randum of a proposed agreement looking to the American control of the fiscal affairs, upon the request, and government.

The United States proposes to guarantee the territorial integrity of the Dominican republic.

It is not the purpose of this government to assume a protectorate over Santo Domingo, or to interfere with, or participate in, its domestic affairs any further than the collection of its customs revenues, the necessary revision of its tariff laws and the adjustment. through properly constituted tribunals or commissions, of its foreign claims, and its economic and fiscal organiza tion on a sound basis.

President Morales has signed a de-Statements which have been put cree in which the government of the and to collect all the revenues, 45 per cent of which are to be returned to the Dominican government for its current expenses. The balance is to be used to meet the interest charges on the ac- Telephone 111-3. knowledged bonded indebtedness and tions representing the bonded indebtedness are largely owned by foreign creditors.

The government of the United States does not guarantee the debts of Santo Domingo, or agree to provide for the payment of them, but only promises to try to so organize and adjust the fiscal administration of the country that in time their liquidation may be accomplished automatically and on a basis of equity towards all creditors.

It is believed that if the Dominican revenues are wisely collected and disbursed all legitimate claims against the republic will be ultimately satisfied. In this connection it may be added that under the award of the tribunal of arbitration of July 14, 1904, between the United States and Santo Domingo, eventually to take possession of the four principal ports on the northern side of the island, and under the award the fiscal agent appointed by the United States is now in possession of the important custom house at Puerto

The unfortunate financial condition the last decade has brought to the United States government questions fraught with imminent peril. The government of the United States could not with due self-respect allow the impression to deepen and gain currency that shield by American republics to deny justice to other governments.

The Dominican government itself reached the conclusion that its only hope of escape from bankruptcy was through the assistance of the United States government in the organization of its finances. In view of these grave conditions. the president has deemed it wise at this time to assent to the strongly ex-

In the cab of the engine of the meat train were Conductor Kane and Engineer Fish, Brakeman Rose and Fireman Holyoke. All jumped, and at the train was going at the rate of 35 miles an hour, they were more or less hurt. Holyoke was picked up unconscious and taken to the Danbury hospital, where it is stated his injuries may prove fatal. Rose was severely injured and later was taken to the hospital. How Parisians View It

Paris, Jan. 23.-The naws of the bloody events in St. Petersburg has caused a profound sensation here. The general view is one of the deepest apprehension that the events of Sunday may precipitate in Russia a period of revolution such as France has witnessed. It is pointed out that Emperor Nicholas' withdrawal to Tsarskoe by the rudders becoming fouled by a Selo places 21 kilometres between him and the excited populace.

It is with the people who think that seeing is believing that the three card trains stop as follows: nonte men dearly love to do business.

Eve wasn't armed with a hatpin, or it might have been different when the serpent tempted her.

There are thirty-nine reasons why some women are old maids; the first is, they were born so. The others don't Saved. Deep in the pocket of his vest He felt with patient care, And then he tried the other side, But, no, it wasn't there: And every pocket in his coat le went through o'er and

And in a trance he searched his pants, And then he walked the floor. Back to the starting place he came And made another try And made another try;
Again with zest through coat and vest
He made his fingers fly. He turned the lining inside out, Looked through them all once more,
And in despair he paused to swear,

And then he walked the floor. But Hope once more, the sly coquette, Said, "Look again and see; It may be you in glancing through
The place where they should be
Have missed the object of your search So feel again with care."
But no reward this effort scored,

And then he tore his hair. But, hold, an inspiration comest He rushes down to where The vest he wore the week before Is hung away with care. He reaches up and murmurs, "Saved! Thank goodness, here they are!" Then with dispatch he strikes a match And lights a fat cigar.

THE WILD BOAR.

Full of Courage and Cunning and Never Loses His Head. The wild boar never loses his heador his heart. Such courage I have never beheld in any four footed creature.

He has all the cunning commonly accredited to his Satanic majesty and in his rage is a demon that will charge anything of any size. I have seen a small boar work his way through a pack of dogs and his smaller brother, the peccary, in Brazil, send a man up a tree and keep him there. The boar looks ungainly, but the Indian species is as fleet as a horse for about three-quarters of a mile. He be- Post 88, G. A. A Sort of Mania That Sometimes Affects Engine Drivers.

In a party of locomotive engineers who were talking about old time fellow craftsmen reference was made to one old timer who had come to his death through "jump fever." "What's 'jump fever?' ' inquired an outsider who was interested in the conversation. "'Jump fever,'" explained an engineer, "is a sort of hallucination that Mrs. Beatrice Porterfield will give a affects some engineers and leads them posed impending collision. It's mostly freight engineers that are affected. On long runs out west a freight engineer may be thirty-six hours at the throttle without much chance for rest owing to mishaps. He gets sleepy and dozes in the cab. All of a sudden he wakes up, but his faculties are scattered, and what with lightness of the head and the motion of the cab he gets an idea that a collision is about to happen. In a semiconscious state he dives out of his window, and the chances are he's a goner when he lands. The engineer we referred to had done the trick twice. but he was killed the third time out on the Santa Fe road."-Philadelphia Rec- their order.

FINAL SUMMING UP

Vahey Tries to Disprove Evidence Against Tucker

NO MOTIVE ESTABLISHED

Prosecution Claims That Prisoner Lied as to His Movements -- Accused Man Faces Jury With Expressionless Features

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 23.—The case of Charles L. Tucker, charged with the murder of Mabel Page, will be given to the jury today. James H. Vahey finished his final effort in behalf of the prisoner shortly after 3 o'clock yesterand one half hours in delivering his Quincy. argument to the jury.

Attorney General Herbert Parker followed and began his final summing up, but had not concluded when court adjourned for the day. He resumed be followed by Judge Sherman's charge threshing machine. to the jury. When that charge has been concluded the jury will retire to fate of Charles L. Tucker.

Throughout the day the attention of the jury and spectators was held by the final arguments. In the courtroon the case.

> were in court early and remained until adjournment. Not five yards away was seated Edward Page, the father of the girl with whose murder Tucker is charged. With him were his son and daughter and Amy Roberts, a servant at the Page home. Scattered about the courtroom were others who have participated in the trial in one way or another, police officers, friends of Tucker's who testified in his behalf regarding the famous "Page" pin, and disinterested persons upon whose statements the defense based their claim for an alibi for the prisoner.

> Perhaps the most interesting feature of the entire day was the prisoner himself. When he entered the courtroom he looked pale and worn, but Mr. Vahey had been speaking in his behalf but a few moments when a vivid flush spread over Tucker's face and he watched every movement made and listened in tently to every word uttered by his counsel. In strong contrast to this attitude was that assumed by the prisoner while Mr. Parker was speaking. The sphinx-like appearance which has characterized the prisoner from the be ginning of the trial was once more to be seen and although he closely watched Mr. Parker and the 12 men to whom he was addressing his remarks Tucker's face was expressionless. Even when the attorney-general stepped back and told the jury to scan closely the features of the accused, not a muscle of Tucker's face twitched as he coldly and squarely met the gaze of the 12 men who will decide whether he is innocent or guilty. Mr. Vahey's contentions in his clos-Shawmut Park, ing argument briefly were that the blood from his own finger; that the prisoner had no Bige ow Park Annex. opportunity or time to visit the Page house on March 31; that the Canadian stick pin was his property and not that of Mabel Page; and that the breaking foolish boy trying to avert suspicion wrongfully director toward him." During Mr. Vaney's argument the prisoner's mother hid her grief from the crowded courtroom, but behind a handkerchief wept silently.

Mr. Parker's argument was made in a well modulated tone. His attitude was not that of the aggressive and sarcastic cross-examiner, but rather that of an orator using every possible effort to make a deep impression upon his listeners. The attorney-general laid great stress on falsehoods with which he charged the prisoner when questioned in connection with the murder and he asked FIRST CUT RIB ROAST, the jury if they could believe that a person seeking the protection of the 2 bs. Several philosophers of late have word in regard to science and religion. But if a philosopher is one who consideres every question as open every morning and never closed when the sun goes down, he must expect to be one of a small minority, so long as he lives among men and women who are obliged to work for a living, to decide one question after another in order that they may act promptly, who must choose what they shall teach their which has appointed a committee to cochildren, who must help the living and operate with similar committees in bury the dead, and who for every emergency of life must act upon what they believe to be knowledge of the facts in the case. THE DOG'S COLD NOSE.

its Origin, According to the Log Book of Noah's Ark. "The true story of the dog's cold nose has been handed down to us sailors from the log book of the ark," says a sailor in the New York Times. "Mrs. Noah went down one morning to the potato bin in the lower hold for the vegetables required for the noonday meal. Her favorite collie dog, Nip, followed her, as was his daily custom. While Mrs. Noah was sorting out the tubers the ark collided with a small snag, which punctured a small hole in her side close to where the lady stood. Seeing that immediate action was necessary, she took off her woolen petticoat and apron and stuffed them into the hole, but the pressure of the water forced the things out, and so she put them back again and sat on them, calling loudly for assistance. But no one seemed to hear her, as the animals were making such a noise. In her position she leaned back so that the backs of her arms were pressed up always cold. The water was coming in fast, and she began to fear for the safety of the ark, so she jumped up and, grabbing Nip, put his nose into the hole and bade him stay there until she went to the fore hatch and shouted for help. A carpenter's mate heard stopped the leak. The water outside was very cold, and Nip got a cold nose, and hence all healthy dogs have a cold

THE INFERNAL REGIONS.

How They Are Depicted In Buddhism

The infernal regions of Buddhism are horrible. They comprise a great hell and 136 lesser hells. In these hells, according to the sculptures of the Buddhist temples, men are ground to powder and their dust turned into ants and fleas and spiders. They are pestled in a mortar. The hungry eat redhot iron balls. The thirsty drink molten iron. Islamism says of the infernal regions: "They who believe not shall have garments of fire fitted for them. Boiling water shall be poured on their heads and on their skins, and they shall be beaten with maces of iron." In the Scandinavian mythology, the mythology of Odin and Thor, we are told that "in Nastrond there is a vast and direful structure, with doors that face the north. It is formed entirely of the backs of serpents, wattled together like wickerwork. But the serpents' heads are turned toward the inside of the hall, and they continually send forth floods of venom, in which wade all those who commit murder or forswear themselves." In the past Christian clergymen loved to describe hell. The present tendency, however, is to avoid discussion of this place-to dwell upon the gentler and more lovely side of Christianity.-Exchange.

Work Suspended In Moscow and Other Large Cities

WORST IS YET TO COME

Existing Conditions In Old Capital of Russia Will Render It Difficult For Authorities to Suppress Any Rising of Workmen--St Petersburg Terror-Stricken by Shutting Off of Electric Lights and Water Supply--Over Twenty Thousand Troops at Czar's Palace

St. Petersburg, Jan. 24.-The most startling feature in the situation is the have closed and that the workmen in the old capital of Russia are repeating the tactics of their fellow-workmen of the new capital, marching from shop to shop and mill to mill, demanding that the establishments be shut down.

The whole city is reported to be in a state of great excitement over the has precipitated immediately the strike that had been planned for Wednesday. Moscow has more workmen and less troops than St. Petersburg, and besides is just now the heart of the Liberal movement and the danger of bloodier occurrences there than have been witnessed here are proportionately greater. A rising at Moscow is also more likely to have greater results industrially and politically than that in St.

According to private reports the workmen in several other big cities, notably Kharkoff, where large locomotive works are located, already have completed plans for a general, suspension of work. Moreover, reports are wise would soon be forced back into the shops or starve, have received assurances of financial support from the ocieties which hitherto have furnished the sinews of war to the Libhave not before been in touch with the loaded shell was fired on Jan. 19, strikgeneral all over Russia, and especially buildings, have been arrested. if the railroads are drawn in, it might immediately force the nation to make Side Light on Port Arthur Surrender home. peace with Japan.

The situation appears grave from steps have been taken to meet the general situation, however, has not yet been disclosed, but there are extremely significant reports that Emperor Nicholas, in making the decision council of the empire at Tsarskoe Selo yesterday to declare St. Petersburg in a state of siege, announced that he had resolved to issue a manifesto to the people with a view of calming them, promising to create a mixed commission of workmen and officials to inthe demands of the strikers, especially the one affecting hours of labor. which Russian law fixes at 11. from Russia to the London papers again bristle with sensational statements. For instance, the correspondent at Kieff of The Express asserts that the naval depots at Sevastopol have been mittee that he was living in violation of the country's soldier boys as possible bearable by overwork and robbery by corrupt officials. He gives circumstantial details of 8000 of the men rising and attacking their officers and firing and destroying the buildings while the troops that (according to the story) were summoned to quell the revolt renews that several factories in Moscow | fused to fire at all or fired in the air. Other dispatches report soldiers killed by bomb throwing, raiding of government rise factories, etc., none of which can be confirmed in any responsible quarters.

There is much curiosity as to the intentions of the imperial family. There are rumors that they are going to the Crimea, Copenhagen or some place till the storm has blown over. According to The Daily Telegraph's St. Petersnews of the bloodshed here, which burg correspondent, Emperor Nichola: yesterday went to Gatchina.

Drift of Opinion.

I hope the workingmen will get eight hours a day, not by law, but by gradual growth of public sentiment that eight hours' steady application to one kind of work is enough. But, as to work itself, that should be limited only by the number of hours one is not asleep, and brief intervals for recreation. The healthiest recreation is some kind of work. It is only the idler who gets into mischief.-Rockland Independent.

It is hardly surprising to note occasional evidences of longevity among people on Cape Cod. One who knows the district can find such cases every day-cases of men and women living to the great age and feeling happy and content and reasonably strong through it all. The air and the quiet and the peaceful regularity of life in a district of that kind bring the years and maintain the health and keep the mind free from the mental miasma and illnesses that afflict in the cities. - Brockton Enterprise.

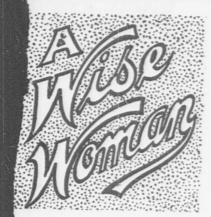

I think our generation is growing forest sick, just as our western folk get New England sick-to see once more the brooks and rocks and the hills. City people are coming out into the country with a craving. They call it land love and tree love, but it is something more than that and something deeper. There is in our blood a longing to do as our grandfathers did-once more to go beechnutting and to hear the butternuts drop on the roof and go bounding down the shingles, to jump into a clove-pink bed. -E. P. Powell in New York Independent.

Hon. John D. Long continues to bother some of the party leaders. His is apparently still a name to conjure within certain directions. Of course it is not his fault that the leaders are Rents and Bills Collected.

He is very much in the public eye. His service has been long and distinguished. He has served his commonwealth at Washington Street Hack, Livery home, and reflected credit on her in his service to the nation. He is entitled to a rest. The trouble is, however, that John D. Long isn't tired enough to rest-at least his friends say thisand he isn't old enough to spend his time in the narration of things past. He occupies a peculiar position as far as the affections of the people generally are concerned, and in his cozy way stands pat in this connection .- Practi cal Politics.

> There were 4862 applicants fo positions under the Panama canal com mission who have just taken the civi service examination, including amon the number 1191 clerks, 266 bookkeep ers, 1061 timekeepers, 173 surgeons, 28 doctors and 1044 civil engineers. Is possible that there are in idlenes seeking employment, such numbers men qualified for the positions CENTRE which they applied, or was it simp that there was a chance to get on t government payroll for which they we willing to throw up jobs in private en ploy? Certainly there isn't much a traction in the Panama prospects. ciety down there cannot be over-attra tive, sanitary conditions are not of t best and there is no indication that t rate of pay is going to be extravagar But the average man is born with longing to get a job under the gover ment, or if he doesn't have that los ing as a birthright, he soon gets into his noddle with the idea tha government job is a snap. - Haverh

A GOPON PROCLAMATION

Members of Government Have Ontlawed Themselves and Should Be Removed by Bombs and Dynamite--St Petersburg Under Military Control--Authorities Face a Decidedly Gloomy Situation at Moscow

St. Petersburg, Jan. 25 .- There was no bloodshed in St. Petersburg yesterday, but the condition of affairs has not improved and in other of the large cities of Russia matters appear to be rapidly assuming a critical phase.

In Moscow, particularly, the outlook is threatening, the strike there having become general, while the revolution ary spirit seems to dominate.

A proclamation in the name of Father Gopon has been circulated, inciting to the use of bombs, dynamite or any weapon whatsoever against the members of the government, who, it is age, determined to have her if he had asserted, outlawed themselves by the course that was adopted against the workmen of St. Petersburg on Sunday.

The office of governor general of the city and government of St. Petersburg has been created by imperial order, with extraordinary powers for dealing with the existing condition of affairs, and General Trepoff, whose administration of the office of chief of police of Moscow brought upon him a sentence of death by the revolutionary party, has been appointed to the post. A NAVAL TEST.

Plan to Measure Smoke Emission a New Cruiser.

The new cruiser Milwaukee, nov nearing completion at the Union Iron works in San Francisco, when she starts on her official trial trip next summer will undergo a novel test, says the New York Post. In addition to the isual tests of speed, turning, stopping packing and performing other evolutions, the Milwaukee will be observed for the amount of smoke she emits from her stacks. The volume and character of smoke given out while steaming has become regarded as factor of the vessel's efficiency, for her visibility at sea is largely measured by the smoke she gives out, a steamer's smoke being ordinarily seen long be fore the vessel herself becomes visible It is further desired to measure th smoke emission on account of its be ing a valuable index of the efficiency of boilers and furnaces, excessiv smoke indicating indifferent fuel or im perfect combustion of the fuel.

According to the plans at prese suggested, a series of photographs the cruiser will be taken while she under way, and from these, taken a fixed intervals of time, the amount of smoke may be determined with fair ac curacy. DANCES SOLD FOR CHARITY

Chicago Girls Reaped a Golden Har vest From Dancing Partners.

Two of the happiest girls amor these who worked for the success of the recent charity ball in Chicago were Miss Italia Blair and Miss Lena Small says the Chicago Inter Ocean.

"Just think!" exclaimed Miss Blai "Just think!" exclaimed Miss Blair the next day. "A score of men paid at least $5 each for the privilege—no, Apply to S. SCAMMELL, Glencoe place, not that: I'm not so conceited as to Quincy. think that-for sweet charity after dancing with me.

"When it got toward morning I was dancing for five dollar bills sticking out from between all my fingers. Som gave a great deal more than the mini mum price of $5 per dance."

Sixty-five dollars was the sum real fzed by Miss Small from selling her dances at the ball. Miss Small, however, extracted $50 from the pockets of Chicago society men by selling frappe. Owing to her dividing her attentio between the dance and the frappe booth the sum total of her earnings was a little less than that of her friend.

To shoot at kings, of course, would be Esteemed somewhat as treason, But here it's different. For me It's always open season

My doubts and fears concealing, A bomb exploded from behind Removes me through the ceiling When some good subject's hand I clasp, Whene'er I feign real peace of mind,

Though spies about me hover, He leaves gun cotton in my grasp, I afterward discover. Yet all unterrified am I;

It's always my endeavor To stifle sob or moan or sigh Though bombs boom on forever. To fight the men of far Japan

I've sent my mighty ar And chuckle that out there it can Have little chance to harm me. When of the nihilists' bloody plots

I get a trifle weary
I box them up in hundred lots And ship them to Sibery. And thus I lead a peaceful life; I think I'm rather clever, For in the midst of blood and strife I keep my head forever.

HARVARD AND TECH

University Paper Gives Views on Proposed Alliance

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 26.-An editorial in The Harvard Bulletin declares that selfishness on the part of Harvard university is not a factor in the endorsement by Harvard men of the proposed working merger between Harvard and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The editorial says:

"Harvard has no selfish motive in furthering the project for some kind of a union. The arckay millions were bequeathed to Harvard, and Harvard can rightly claim these millions for its own purposes. The Harvard authorities, in advocating a working alliance between the university and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, are actuated only by a desire to help the cause of education. In plain words, it will be of no particular material benefit to Harvard itself to co-operate with the Boston institution. It seems clear to laymen, even, that much more nearly satisfactory work could be obtained if Harvard and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology were to supplement each other."

The editorial expresses the hope that the "slings" which have been thrown out to the effect that Harvard is trying to "gobble up" the smaller institu tion will cease.

Milligan Wanted at Boston

Boston, Jan. 26 .- Chief Inspector Watts of this city has notified the police of Milwaukee that Arthur H. Milli gan, against whom a warrant charging murder was sworn out in that city yesterday, is wanted here on the charge of the larceny of $2000. Watts will send an inspector to Milwaukee to bring Milligan here, provided he is not held on the murder warrant. Milligan formerly was a clerk for the Boston Herald, from which paper, it is alleged, he stole the money.

Although it was bitter cold and a high wind prevailed Thursday night, nearly one hundred braved the elements to attend the lecture at High School Charles Fuller, whose subject was on the Panama canal and Cuba. It was an interesting talk and Capt. Fuller showed nimself to be thoroughly conversant with his subject.

The lecture was illustrated by upwards of one hundred stereopticon views, which were very fine, and the lescription was entertaining. The subject is one in which many are gains. Come and see for yourself.

FIGHT AT HUN RIVER

Conflict Raging on Snow-Clad Plains In Zero Weather

General Kuroki's Headquarters, Jan. 27 .- A heavy and continuous artillery roar was heard to the westward all day yesterday. Apparently the largest engagement since October is being fought.

Reports received here are to the effect that a Russian force has crossed the Hun river on the Japanese left wing. A Japanese force advanced against the Russians, making an attack.

The fighting must be attended with great suffering from the cold. A snowstorm began on Monday, following a long period of remarkable mildness. The temperature is below zero and the plains are covered with several inches of snow. The ground is too hard for rapid trenching.

Yesterday's move by the Russians is the first important one since General Mistchenko's recent raid.

The DUCHESS PACHELLI

[Original.] The Duchess Pachelli sat in her boudoir reading the morning paper. It was winter, but the duchess was spending the season at her villa at Nice, and from her window, into which the warm sun shone, she could look down the quay lined with tropical plants.

"But Andreas' love, turned to hate, grew through the years, and as each year he sank lower he wished to return and take his revenge. But he never dared remain anywhere long enough to accumulate sufficient funds to make a journey which, after all, might lead to his arrest and imprisonment. At last he went to a new town in the far west and worked at his trade till he saved enough to go in search of his beautiful wife. He found that after he had left her she had ensnared a duke, that he had died and left her his fortune, that society had opened its exclusive doors to her, but a love for adventure and villainy had led her to take service as a spy for crowned heads—a Delilah to entrap the rulers' enemies-and that many a secret murder was laid up against her.

"And where, my good man," asked the duchess, deadly white, "did you learn all this?"

"I met in New York a Russian who. under the charge of being a Nihilist, had been sent to Siberia, from whence, after twelve terrible years of exile, he escaped and fled to America." The duchess started. "His name?" she asked under her breath.

"Nicholas Vassaliovitch." The duchess staggered as though struck by a blow and caught at the back of a chair.

"It was fortunate," the man continued, "the meeting of these men, Andreas and Nicholas, for they both wished for revenge. But neither would be safe in this old country, and so it looked as if the scullion duchess would end her days in peace, a pet of society, a favorite of the czar of Russia, rich and still beautiful. But both had been kind to the little scullion, and their love had turned to wrath. One possessed written proofs of one of the duchess' crimes. That proof is now in the hands of the czar of Russia and a requisition has been lodged with the government at Paris." Suddenly the duchess stepped to a cabinet, opened a drawer, turned with a dagger in her hand and was about to spring upon the man when she saw that he had covered her with a revolver. Turning the weapon upon herself, she sank down on the floor. "Gendarmes!" called the intruder.

Two policemen, headed by a man in Hood's Sarsaparilla citizen's dress, sprang up the stairs and into the room. "Well ended," said the citizen. "This

The pine stands in the woods like an Indian, untamed, with a fantistic wildness about it even in the clearings. If an Indian warrior were well painted, with pines in the background, he would seem to blend with the trees and make a harmonious expression. The pitch pines are the ghosts of Philip and Massasoit. The white pine has the smoothor features of the squaw.

The distant woods are but the tassels of my eye.

Books are to be attended to as new sounds merely. Most would be put to a sore trial if the reader should assume the attitude of a listener. They are but a new note in the forest. To our lonely, sober thought the earth is a wild unexplored. Wildness as of the jay and muskrat reigns over the great part of nature. The ovenbird and plover are heard in the horizon. Here is a new book of heroes come to me like the note of the chewink from over the fen, only over a deeper and wider fen. The pines are unrelenting sifters of thought; nothing petty leaks through them. Let me put my ear close and hear the sough of this book, that I may know if any inspiration yet haunts it. The members of the council claim that there is discrimination shown in the matter of taking back the operatives, and that the manufacturers are acting in violation of the agreement. The manufacturers base their attitude upon the clause of the agreement which says that the operatives shall be reinstated as fast as practicable in the mills where they were formerly employed. The labor men argue from the clause which says that no discrimination shall be shown, and they ask for a conference for the purpose of reconciling these differences.

The principal complaint comes from the slashers and weavers, many of whom are still out. The date of the conference is left with the manufac-

Brief Panic In Playhouse

Boston, Jan. 27 .- Someone in the audience in the Columbia Music hall threw a lighted cigaret into one of the stage draperles last night and in an instant the flimsy fabric was in flames. One of the audience cried "fire" and instantly there was a rush for the doors. Many who could not get out returned to their seats a moment or two later when it became known that the fire had been extinguished. Many chorus girls, clad in their stage costumes, fled through a rear door and shivered in the bitter cold until they were assured that all stand for different stations and indicate that danger had passed. There were no trains stop as follows: casualties. The damage by fire was a POEM THAT WON A SUPPER.

Chicago Alderman Dashed Off Three Stanzas and Beat John L. Sullivan. Doubting the ability of Alderman Bathhouse John Coughlin of Chicago to dash poetry off the reel, John L Sullivan, former champion pugilist, recently wagered a supper that the "pompadour bard" could not extemporize a poem of three stanzas on a subject to be chosen by Sullivan, the topic being "I Wish I Was a Bird," says a special dispatch from Chicago to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"Easy swag," said the Bathhouse as he produced his pencil and went into a trance. In a few minutes he triumphantly flashed the following in the face of the great ex-fighter:

I WISH I WAS A BIRD. I wish I was a bird, flitting from bough to bough, With nothing on my mind, nothing to crease me brow.

Campaign to Increase the Crops Will Be Managed by a Railroad.

Following campaigns in South Dakota, Minnesota and Nebraska by the Chicago and Northwestern railway in its prosecution of a pure seed propaganda, it is announced that a special train for the state of Iowa will be placed on the road about the middle of February and will reach practical ly every important grain shipping point in the state, says the Chicago News. More careful and scientific selection of seed corn with a view to increasing the production of the state is the object of the enterprise. Professor P. G. Holden of the State Agricultural college at Ames, Ia., is the demonstrator. A total of more than 200 stations and South Terminal Station News Stand over 1,500 miles of well equipped lines that reach the finest grain growing regions in the state are to be covered.

Houghs Neck Got the Fury of the Northeaster.

A visit to Houghs Neck will give some idea of the severeness of the northeast storm of Wednesday. For two days this section was cut off from the city proper. Friday the street railway had its line opened up.

The drifts in the streets were not any nore severe than they were on Hancock street at Wollaston. The only difference on Hancock street the street railway kept the street open while at Houghs Neck they waited for the City men to come. A gang of men and boys shoveled out the worst drifts at the Neck while a gang from Quincy dug a roadway through to the causeway.

The causeway from Post Island to the Willows is in a bad condition. Here is where the tide came over. When it receded it left the street full of ice. The cakes are anywhere from two to six feet square, and they rest on the streets at all kinds of angles, making passing with anything but a light team dangerous.

The steamboat wharf and shores show the effect of the high tide. The fences that ran along the steamboat wharf on either side are smashed, twisted and scattered along the wharf. Besides this they are covered with ice. Large cakes of ice are also scattered along the wharf.

On the shore, end of the steamboat wharf is a good sized house boat. This boat had been moored off the club house. During the storm, it was broken from its moorings, and the tide lifted it tion, where it now rests.

The yacht club house escaped any damage, but the shore is lined with small boats, and pieces of wreckage.

Assortment the Largest, Prices the Lowest for Quality Offered.

Our bargains are made by marking down our own stock to a low price, not by purchasing inferior goods to make an attractive price.

It is a mistake to infer that we carry only high-priced fabrics. We have medium grades as well, and our prices are low because our expenses are proportioned over a volume of business exceeded by few in our specialty in the United States, and equaled by none in New England.

STORM SWEPT.

Houghs Neck Got the Fury of the Northeaster.

A visit to Houghs Neck will give some idea of the severeness of the northeast storm of Wednesday. For two days this section was cut off from the city proper. Friday the street railway had its line opened up. The drifts in the streets were not any more severe than they were on Hancock street at Wollaston. The only difference on Hancock street the street railway kept the street open while at Houghs Neck they waited for the City men to come. A gang of men and boys shoveled out the worst drifts at the Neck while a gang from Quincy dug a roadway hrough to the causeway. The causeway from Post Island to the Willows is in a bad condition. Here is where the tide came over. When it receded it left the street full of ice. The cakes are anywhere from two to six feet square, and they rest on the streets at all kinds of angles, making passing with anything but a light team dangerous. The steamboat wharf and shores show the effect of the high tide. The fences that ran along the steamboat wharf on either side are smashed, twisted and scattered along the wharf. Besides cakes of ice are also scattered along the wharf. On the shore, end of the steamboat wharf is a good sized house boat. This boat had been moored off the club house. During the storm, it was broken from its moorings, and the tide lifted it high enough for it to float to the position, where it now rests. The yacht club house escaped any damage, but the shore is lined with small boats, and pieces of wreckage.

RUSSIAN STRIKES

BAD CLASH AT WARSAW

An Attempt to Turn Economic lution Has Apparently Failed -- Strikers to Get Slight Concessions and Agitators to Be the Japanese. Repressed With Great Vigor

St. Petersburg, Jan. 28.-Every indication seeks to point to the disintegration of the strike movement in Russia. Several large factories in St. Petersburg reopened yesterday and a general resumption of work on Monday is expected.

General Kuropatkin's report of the success of his latest forward movement seems to have acquired in St. Petersburg the added importance of being a check to a Japanese advance. It is probable that this has had some effect toward quieting the uneasy populace of the Russian capital, but in any case the workmen seem to have been converted to the idea that their surest reliance for remedy of their grievances is in the government.

At Warsaw yesterday there was a serious collision between workmen and soldiers, official reports giving the casualties as two killed and seven wounded. The strike at Libau continues and there has been no material change in the situation at Moscow.

Saratoff and Lodz. There are grave fears of trouble at Ivanovo-Voznoansk, the foremost cotton goods manufacturing town in the empire. Predictions are made that the ending of the strike will but result in increased activity on the part of the

It seems quite likely that the strike movement soon will become less acute The net immediate result of the whole incident probably will be some slight concessions to the workingmen. What the ultimate result may be no one can quite tell, but it is entirely possible that it may be claimed that it marks a trial lines continue busy, testifying to step in Russia's progress toward more liberal form of government.

Whether this step will be longer or shorter than that which the czar contemplated when he appointed Mirsky to office and announced in a manifesto his intention to better the condition of his people cannot be known. If the affair does not result in the setting back of the clock the Russian people are to be congratulated.

The present policy of the government workingman from the revolutionist. The former is encouraged to believe that all that is possible "within the law" will be done for him, but the latter will be repressed, though, perhaps, not so sternly as in the past. Indeed, the minister of the interior has promised to consider the cases of the prominent writers who were sent to the St. Peter and St. Paul fortress for their activity in the political agitation, and has given a qualified promise that they shall be released.

A special council was held at Tsarskoe-Selo yesterday at which, it is reported, various contiliatory measures were decided upon, but no details yet have transpired.

Emperor Nicholas gave a luncheon at Tsarskoe-Selo in honor of the birthday of Emperor William of Germany. The empress, the dowager empress, the German ambassador, Count Lamsdorff and M. Witte were present.

The strike continues at Saratoff and Lodz. No newspapers have appeared in either city. At Warsaw Lie situation appears to be becoming worse. The strike is rapidly spreading, shops have been closed, there are no newspapers, and the telephone service Las been stopped.

London, Jan. 28.-The situation in Warsaw is very grave, according to the correspondent there of The Daily Mail.

Polanders In Sorry Flight

When the bakers struck, rich people besieged the shops and bought the stocks, and the supply of bread is now exhausted. The correspondent adds that the general condition in Poland is pitiable, owing to the bad harvest. There are fully 300,000 unemployed, not Police Call - Three 3 blows, Three reckoning the strikers. Warsaw itself is full of troops and the gas works and water works are being protected by the

Why Trepoff Was Appointed

St. Petersburg, Jan. 28.-A semi-official announcement says: The expressions in the foreign newspapers of lack of confidence regarding the appointment of Governor General Trepoff as a measure calculated to improve the situation have created astonishment in official circles in St. Petersburg and on the Bourse. A person invested with extraordinary powers can alone reestablish order. The governor general's course since his appointment proves that he was not appointed with the view of repressive measures or the re-establishment of order by harsh means, but by satisfying the just demands of the population.

Three Rulers Denounced

London, Jan. 28.—The large East End resort, "Wonderland," was the scene last night of a remarkable revolutionary demonstration. The audience numbered 3000, and was composed largely of Russian Jews. The presid- jury.

ing officer denounced Emperor Nicholas and the grand dukes and was constantly interrupted by cheers for the Russian revolution and the singing of the revolutionary hymn. This was followed by a speech from a Londoner who delighted the audience by denouncing Emperor Nicholas, Emperor William and King Edward, and proposed that the audience rid themselves of "all emperors, thieves and other loafers."

If the fighting develops into a general engagement military men here be lieve that it must reach out to the flanks, their opinion being that a frontal attack by either side under the present circumstances is impossible.

On Thursday the Japanese began moving against the Russian right, attacking viciously Russian positions along the Hun river, where that stream bends southward. The Russians not only beat off the attack after severe fighting, but advanced in the evening to the line of Hugoudi and Hounli-

Trade Receives a Check

New York, Jan. 28 .- R. G. Dun's Weekly Review of Trade says: Storms at home and complications abroad tended to check activity in commercial and financial markets, but most indusconfidence that trade inter-uption will be brief. New England manufacturing plants are well engaged, but buyers have left the Boston footwear market without placing contracts, owing to disagreement as to prices.

Investigation In Order

New York, Jan. 28 .- The Bar asso ciation of the city of New York held a special meeting last night to consider the case of Justice Hooker, against seems to be to separate sharply the whom charges have been made in connection with the postal investigation. The meeting decided that the charges should have prompt and searching legislative investigation or else that there should be impeachment by the assembly. Resolutions to this effect were

> Appleyard Charged With Larceny Buffalo, Jan. 28.-Justice Murphy, who has been conducting proceedings with a view to ascertaining if there was anything criminal in connection with the insolvency of the now defunct German bank, has issued warrants for the arrest of Arthur E. Powerful Party Overthrown

Vienna, Jan. 28.-All reports from Budapest indicate that the defeat of the government in the elections is greater than was first thought. Premier Tisza is expected to come to Vienna after the last polling day to formally tender the resignation of him self and the cabinet to the emperor. After being in power since 1867, the Liberals have suffered their first de-

Interested In French Policy

Rome, Jan. 28.-Premier Rouvier's statement of the policy of the new French cabinet has produced a moderately favorable impression at the Vatican, as it is construed as indicating that the course of the French government towards the religious associations will be less harsh than that under the Combes cabinet.

Tennesseeans Loyal to President Washington, Jan. 28.-Representative Brownlow (Tenn.) has advised the inaugural committe that practically the entire Tennessee legislature will come to Washington in a special car to participate in President Roosevelt's inaugural parade. Mr. Brownlow's letter says that "the governor declines to join the party."

Immigrant Charged With Murder New York, Jan. 28 .- On the arrival of the steamer Moltke from Hamburg, Marie Bonida, a Hungarian girl, 20 years old, was taken into custody at the request of the Austrian consul, who said that the girl committed a burglary in Hungary and while making her escape murdered an old man.

Bogus Insurance Alleged New York, Jan. 28.—Charged with the forgery of insurance policies, by which he is said to have swindled small shopkeepers on the East Side to the amount of $30,000, Albert S. Lambert was arrested here. He waived examination and was held for the grand

ANIMAL WONDERS.

The Way Some Wild Creatures Hide From Their Enemies.

Nature has strange and wonderful ways of helping her wild creatures to protect themselves from their enemies. She teaches them how to hide so that hardly the sharpest eve can discover their whereabouts, even though they are not covered up at all. There is a ground the bird can hardly be distinguished from it. In summer time the ptarmigan grows a new set of feathers which exactly match the dull mosses and weeds where it is usually to be found. There are birds' nests which are so like the tree limbs that hold them as to deceive the keenest eye, and other nests closely resemble the mosses or the ground upon which they rest. Insects there are, too, no end of them, which are to be found, if one has the skill to see them, upor foliage or branches having exactly the same coloring as themselves. One of the most curious of these creatures which are so well protected by their coloring from discovery is a butterfly discovered by a naturalist in the jun gles of Borneo. When flying it shows the most brilliant hues upon its wings but when it settles upon a bush it car scarcely be distinguished from the leaves about it.

Game of Duplicate Letters. Here is a game that can be started at a moment's notice anywhere and that will make fun for many a quarter of an hour that otherwise would lag.

One girl propounds a question such "If I were a lamp post, what would you do with me?"

The girl whose turn is next must an swer with a sentence that shall have at least three words in it that begin the notice of the new the state of the new the n with the same letter as the noun "lamp post." For instance, she might reply: "I would leap loyally to light you."

The next girl may ask: "Will you lend me a dollar?" The reply may be: "I dare say I would donate it if I were not so dolefully poor."

The answers that are made on the spur of the moment are often so ludicrous that they would make an owl laugh. Fish and the Sixth Sense.

It is stated that there are some indications that fishes possess a sixth sense, the organs of which are the pores of the head and of the latteral band. This band is a row of little canals connected with the external world by holes through the scales. In these cavities, under which runs a large nerve, are found nerve heads or terminations like those of other sense organs. The use of this apparatus is un-

MISSING WITNESS

Miss Walker Appears, Now That Tucker Is Convicted

VERDICT SURPRISED HER

Claims That She Was Told Her Testimony Was Not Important -- Now Willing to Brave Ordeal of Courtroom If Needed

Boston, Jan. 28 .- A special to The Post from Damariscotta, Me., says that Miss Mabel Walker, who was with Charles L. Tucker on the day that Mabel Page was murdered, and who was sought by the defense during the trial at which Tucker was convicted, returned to her home in Damariscotta late last night. The Post correspondent says that Miss Walker regrets her failure to have appeared at the trial and expressed her determination in case a new trial was secured to appear and testify in behalf of the convicted man.

Miss Walker claims, says The Post, that certain police officials told her that of National interest, and enterprises her testimony was not important; and which are novel to many. A brief list that she stayed away because she thought Tucker would be declared not guilty, and that her testimony would not be a factor in the case. Tucker's conviction came as a sudden shock to

Detectives and sheriffs searched for her in vain. It was given out that she though some people believed that she was in Boston keeping watch on the trial. But, instead of that, Miss Walker really stayed in her own state, and was as safe and secure from searchers

The sole reason for Miss Walker leaving town, she said, was because she did not care to mix up in the matter, thinking her testimony would not be of use to Tucker. If Tucker's attorneys apply for a new trial they can have Miss Walker's assurance that she will be present and brave the ordeal of the

Hunting For Hoch

Chicago, Jan. 28.—The man suspected of being Johann Hoch was arrested at Burkett, Ind., and taken to Argos. He said he was Adolph Steinbaum, and had never heard of Hoch. At Argos Marshal Hagenbush at once said the prisoner was not Hoch. The whereabouts of Police Inspector Shippy who has taken active charge of the search for Hoch, are a mystery to all except Chief of Police O'Neill. Shippy has not been seen by his friends or members of the force since he left Chicago in disguise on Thursday.

Rossini, the Italian composer, is re ported to have said a droll thing on the unification of Italy when some one asked his opinion on this matter. He replied that he thought it very difficult if not impossible to effect it for the simple reason that the Neapolitans eat nothing but macaroni, the Florentines nothing but fagiuoli and the Lombards only polenta, while the Piedmontese swallow all they can get. "It it clear," he said, "that uniformity of cookery must precede unity of government."

Marriage is not the church, the ritual, the blessing of clergymen or the ratifying and approving presence of one's friends and relations at the ceremony. Still less is it a matter of settlements and expensive millinery. It is the taking of a solemn vow before the throne of the eternal. Nothing can make marriage an absolutely sacred thing except the great love, combined with the pure and faithful intention of fulfilling the vow involved.-Marie Corelli.

Your Elixir is just what has helped me out of this combination of bad feelings. I had used it in my family years before and knew of its great worth, as I had given it to my small children for destroying worms; for such it is second to none. I saw your advertisement in the program at the Jefferson the other night, that reminded me of the Elixir, and knowing of its great worth I got a bottle of it at E. L. The Dodge-Morse matrimonial tangle has been rich in sensational features At the time the divorce of Mrs. Clemence Dodge was first questioned by her former husband, who alleged that he had never been properly served with papers in the proceeding, the legality of Mrs. Dodge's marriage to Charles W. Morse, requesting her to appear before the grand jury to testify in connection with the Dodge-Morse case. She sailed for Europe a few days later. On her arrival on the other side she to New York if necessary and at the same time declared that she never had had any intention of marrying Mr Morse, as had been publicly reported. She is still in Europe.

Mrs. Morse obtained a divorce from Dodge some years ago and later was married to Morse. After this marriage Dodge sought to have the case reopened and made affidavit that he had not been properly served with divorce papers. Justice Fursman appeared as counsel for Mrs. Morse at that time.

The district attorney charged be fore the grand jury that Mrs. Morse never was consulted by her attorney and that her interests were not properly cared for. One of the attorneys for Dodge in the original action came forward and produced a letter, which, he said, he had received from Dodge, telling of the service of the divorce papers. The charge of subornation of perjury grew out of the Dodge affidavit. Justice Fursman sat for years on the bench of the supreme court in New York county and Abraham Hummel is one of the most widely known lawyers of this city. Hummel appeared at one stage of the legal proceedings as counsel for Mrs. Morse

WHAT THE TEACHER SHOULD BE

By Dr. WILLIAM MAXWELL, Superintendent of

TEACHER should have the ability to pick out essentials and DISREGARD the other things. That is the only solution of the problem of the so called overcrowded courses of study. THE FAULT LIES ONLY WITH THE TEACHERS. Those in authority should discover person's qualifications before they give permission to teach. Applicants for a teacher's license should be persons who intend TO DEVOTE THEIR LIFE TO TEACHING. It is all too frequent that young men take up teaching simply as a makeshift until something can be found that will bring in more money. And it is not unusual to find young women who think that they will teach a year or two until the right young men come along to take them from the burden and care of the schoolroom. Teaching is a high and holy calling, and no one should enter it unless willing to devote all of his or her energy, soul and time to it.

No work, I presume, is more nerve racking than teaching, and it needs good health as well as strong will and strong mental powers. A person afflicted with serious physical or nervous trouble is by just so much incapacitated to do good work as a teacher. A TEACHER SHOULD BE THE MODEL OF HIS CLASS. If he is irritable he is not the proper person to teach children; if he is a cripple he cannot lead in the exercises, and by just so much he fails in his ability

Sound, extensive, accurate scholarship is the second quality that a man or woman should have who intends to teach. The public schools are established for the purpose not merely of giving the elements of a literary education, BUT TO DEVELOP THE FULL-EST EFFICIENCY, individual and social, of every citizen. This is realized by bringing each child into harmony with his environment. His mind must be brought into contact with the great possessions of the race—our intellectual inheritances. However, it is not enough that a teacher knows something of these inheritances. He must the wages paid in Fall River. Notices possess industry, courage and, above all, SIMPLE MINDED DE-

FOR CHAPPED HANDS.

How to Make an Inexpensive Remedy For Healing Them.

"These are the days when chapped hands and lips are in evidence, and I suppose most people use pure glycerin for a remedy," said a chemist to a representative of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat recently. "It is a mistake to presume that glycerin is a cure for such a condition as this. Quite on the contrary, it is a distinct aggravant.

"One of the best remedies for chaps I know of is quite simple, and any one could compound it in her own home. Take ten grains of tragacanth and place this in three ounces of moderately warm, not hot, water. It must then be allowed to stand for several hours, when one ounce of glycerin should be added.

"If it is desired to give the preparation a pleasant perfume, this may be obtained by adding a small quantity of oil of roses at the same time. The whole compound should then be mixed thoroughly either by shaking it up well or stirring with a spoon, after which it is ready for use.

"This remedy is soothing, pleasant and an almost infallible cure after two or three applications. As a rule, unless the cracks in the skin are very much inflamed, an application of the compound just before retiring at night and another in the morning will generally have the desired result of healing them.

"It is also a fine preventive, and few will be troubled with chapped hands who rub it on the skin in the morning after washing."

How to Save Horses From Slipping. If one is caught in wet or frosty weather with a smooth shod horse on asphalt he may be got safely home by wrapping the horse's feet with a few turns of wire, says the Utica (N. Y.) Observer. Lay the middle of the wire across the toe between shoe and coronet, pass both ends under the shoe, cross then, then between shoe and heels, then under foot, cross again on a different spot and over toe. Repeat Commonwealth of Massachusetts. this for five or six times and your animal is fairly well rough shod and will get along with ease for a long distance. Even the finest wire will answer, although something extra well tempered, like piano wire, is the best. plied by any one.

How to Treat an Ingrowing Nail.

To cure an ingrowing toe nail take some lint or old linen and tear it to some lint or old linen and tear it to the center. This will cause it to leave the flesh at the sides and the discomfort will be passed.

How to Freshen Ostrich Tips. Ostrich tips can be shaking, hold them either in the sun a surety on his bond. or before a fire till they are quite dry.

How to Whiten Linen.

Take one pound of fine white soap, cut it up into a gallon of milk and put it over the fire in a kettle. When the soap has quite melted put in the linen and boil for half an hour. Now take it out, having ready a lather of soap and warm water. Wash the linen in it and then rinse it through two cold waters, with a very little blue in the last.

be easily banished. The plan is to put a box or bucket of lime in the cupboard or storeroom, as the case may be. The lime will absorb the damp and thus render the air quite dry. The mailing postpaid, or delivering a copy of this lime must be renewed from time to estate, seven days at least before said Court.

How to Stuff Clams.

Wash clam shells thoroughly and pair them. One quart of fine crumbs, fifteen clams chopped fine, one egg, each of salt and pepper. Mix thoroughly and pack in the shells. Bake for fifteen minutes and serve hot with satchup. Garnish with parsley.

How to Clean Marble Washstands. Don't allow your washstand if it possesses a marble top (or your marble chimneypiece) to remain with ugly stains upon it when by making a paste of vinegar and whitening, which Ca you spread over the surface and leave on for twenty-four hours, you can make it perfectly clean.

How to Clean Coffeepots.

To clean the coffeepot fill it with water, put in a pinch of borax and a piece of hard soap and set on the stove, letting it boil for half an hour. It will said be as bright as new and should be submitted to this treatment frequently.

FORCED TO RETIRE

Russians Unable to Carry Redoubt at Sandepas

ATTACK BY KUROPATKIN

Probably Undertaken to Distract People at Home From Internal Dissenston-No Decisive Movement For Some Time

St. Petersburg, Jan. 30 .- Instead of confirmation of Saturday night's report that General Kuropatkin had broken through the Japanese left, there comes Lieutenant General Sakharoff's official admission that the Russians had been compelled to retire from Sandepas on account of their inability to carry a redoubt.

It is also significant that dispatches from Russian correspondents at the front have again suddenly ceased, which is regarded as an indication of the failure of the operation, and strengthens the first impression that it was a demonstration undertaken to present situation.

graphed the following report to the general staff under date of Jan. 28: "On Jan. 26 the enemy began to concentrate in considerable force near Sandepas, intending to take the offensive. On Jan. 27 our column on the the villages of Sumapu and Paotsia, south of Sandepas, which were occupied by the enemy. During the whole of Jan. 27 an obstinate fight was going on here and after midnight we tool Sumapu. "On Jan. 26 another column advancing upon Sandepas occupied in the evening a great part of that fortified village, but coming upon a strong redoubt with a triple row of artificial obstacles which had been scarcely damaged by our fire, and which was armed with field artillery and quick-firers, and seeing the impossibility of carrying the redoubt without a preliminary bombardment, our troops left Sandepas, which had been set on fire, it being impossible to remain there without risking defeat.

On Jan. 27 and 28 Sandepas and its redoubt were heavily bombarded, while our extreme column engaged near Sumapu and Paotsia. Details have not been received.

"On Jan. 26-27 our cavalry, operating six miles south of Sandepas, at tacked and defeated a Japanese com pany and took 100 prisoners. Alto gether the Japanese must have suffered considerable losses."

Nemirovich Danchenko, the war correspondent, who has just arrived from the front, says: "I do not regard the present offensive movement as like ly to be prolonged. I believe General Kuropatkin does not contemplate a decisive movement before a couple of months. The weather conditions until then will be unfavorable. General Kuropatkin now is merely preparing which have recently arrived."

the way and sharpening his troops A telegram from Huam mountain states that General Mistchenko has been wounded in the leg.

The Japanese Report

Tokio, Jan. 30.-It is reported that the Russians are massing about 65 .-000 troops on the Japanese left and bombarding the left flank and centre. Small forces of Russians are attacking all along the line.

Manchurian headquarters of the Japanese army report that on Saturday the Russians occasionally bombarded the right and centre armies, following up the bombardment with attacks which the Japanese immediately re pulsed. In the direction of the left wing a Japanese detachment was victorious at Chenchiehpao and occupied Liutiako and Lichiawopeng on Saturday, the Russians retreating north and west.

The Japanese occupied with infantry positions southeast of Heikoutai on Saturday and are now assaulting the main position.

The Russian strength opposing the Japanese left flank is roughly estimated at eight corps, consisting of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth infantry divisions, the Second and Fifth brigades of European rifles, the Ninth in fantry division of the Tenth corps, part of the Sixty-First infantry division, part of the First Siberian corps and the First and Ninth brigades of rifles.

Law Offices to Close.

The Quincy Bar Association met again on Saturday, Jan. 28, to consider further the proposition to close the law offices three evenings a week. The following agreement was entered into, and it was voted to spread a copy on the records of the association and hand a copy to the press for the information of clients. While Mr. Pattee's name is not signed to the agreement, he sent word to the meeting that he would be bound by it.

AGREEMENT. We, the undersigned, Attorneys and Counsellors at law, practicing and having offices in Quincy, hereby agree to close our said offices on and after February 1st, 1905, on the evenings of Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and that on the other evenings office hours shall be from seven to nine.

Mabel Walker Is Reported to Have Again Disappeared

Boston, Jan. 30 .- The Post says: A summons was sent to Maine Dec. 27, asking that state's courts to send Mabel Walker, the missing Tucker witness, back to Massachusetts. On Dec. 28, at 6 a. m., Miss Walker disappeared from Damariscotta, Me.

On Dec. 28, at 10 a. m., Judge Hall of Damariscotta issued a summons from his court, commanding Mabel Walker to return and testify what she knew about Charles L. Tucker's whereabouts on the day of the Page murder. Sheriff Rafter sought Mabel in vain

On the evening of Jan. 27 (Friday of last week) Mabel Walker reappeared in Damariscotta. She then expressed a willingness to return to Massachusetts and testify if Tucker were given a new trial. At noon next day, Jan. 28, Sheriff Rafter visited Mabel's uncle's home with the summons issued on Dec. 28. Mabel Walker had heard of his announced intention and had again vanished. Her uncle expects her to return again today. Sheriff Rafter says that if she does return he will then serve that summons on her.

WASHING WITHOUT WATER

is Like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide.

Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water? If you did what would you say of him?

It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of Dandruff and to prevent Baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with Canthrarides, Vaseline, Glycer-ine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Vigors. Newbro's Herpicide is successful be-cause it attacks and kills the parasitic germ which feeds on the hair roots.

It is the original and only genuine scalp germicide manufactured. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Largely Responsible For Strife Now Pervading the Empire--Gopon a Refugee In Sweden --Czar Will Be Included In Next Challenge to the Aristocracy

St. Petersburg, Jan. 30.-Evidence is accumulating that Emperor Nicholas, charges of negligence and inattention throughout the present crisis, has acted to duty have been preferred against largely upon the advice of Grand Duke sub-Lieutenant Kurzeff, who had im Sergius, who is the most reactionary mediate charge of the gun from which a shell was fired Jan. 19 during the member of the imperial family, the tize as Russia's evil genius.

Against Sergius' influence the ministers at present are apparently powerless. Sergius remains in the little palace inside the strong ramparts of the Kremlin fortress in Moscow, from whence he dispatches daily a courier to Tsarskoe-Selo. Arrests continue. Among those seized last night and conveyed to St. Peter and St. Paul fortress were Yakonbovich, the poet who served a term of exile in 1886 for connection with Office hours (except Mondays) 8.15 to the revolutionaries; Mme. Father Gopon, it has now been definitely established, escaped through Finland and was conveyed across the gulf to Sweden by sympathetic Finns At present he is supposed to be in Stockhoim.

The zemstvos of Saratoff, Nijni, Nov gorod and Vladimir have adjourned because the St. Petersburg zemstvos are practically in control of the governmachinery of the provinces, and some of the Liberals are trying to in duce others to close, with the object of further embarrassing the government and compelling it to yield to the demand for the convocation of con stituent assembly. A marshal of the nobility from one of the central prov inces has expressed the opinion that dispersing a workmen's meeting. the government could not extricate it self from the present situation withou very substantial concessions. The situation in Poland is increasingly threatening, especially in Warsaw and Lodz. In the latter place, it is reported, 100,000 men are out or strike. There are prospects of exten sion of the strike in Odessa and other manufacturing cities of southern Russia, where the workmen are better or ganized.

Meanwhile practically all classes proclaimed immediately after the close of the zemstvoists' congress they were told that the gauntlet would again be thrown down to the aristocracy, but that this time the czar would be inciuded in the challenge. Attempts especially are expected upon the officers who a week ago ordered the soldiers to shoot. The newspapers very gingerly dis cuss the tragedy of Jan. 22, and are only able to hint strongly that it might have been avoided if proper measures had been taken in advance. It is extremely significant, however, that all the papers severely criticise the information about England's responsibility for the strikes. "SAVE HIM" New York, New Haven

Tom Kenerson and Ned Fowler were daring young fellows, neither of whom as follows: would be apt to choose a commonplace occupation. They were working in a cotton mill on small wages, when Kenerson noticed the wages paid to livers and proposed to Fowler, with Quincy. at Boston. Boston. at Quincy whom he had become very intimate, that they should learn how to dive. They left the mill and, entering the r service of a wrecking company, soon became the most daring among the company's divers.

Meanwhile Kenerson married, and r 8 26 abd was said that the marriage was a sad blow to Fowler. But this was made up merely from observation, for neither Fowler nor Mrs. Nancy Kenerson ever said a word to any one as to how either regarded the other, interested in Mrs. Rogers. A delega- 1463 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass. erson. However this may be, the two men became stronger friends each year until they were more like brothers than friends. Ned Fowler was often a guest at the Kenersons' and always conducted himself toward his friend's wife honorably.

Ten years after the two men entered the diving profession Fowler was still in the service of the wrecking com- r 11 13 abc pany, while Kenerson engaged himself for odd jobs requiring a man of great nerve and experience, for which ne received large pay.

One day Fowler received a telegram: Tom is caught under a big weight at the Red Jacket wreck. Come and save him.
NANCY.

These few words brought up a distressing picture to the diver. He saw above water men with anxious faces steadily pumping air, others eagerly r 10 18 abc watching for any sign from the life line, while perhaps fifty to a hundred feet below lay his friend, held down stand for different stations and indicate the under a mass of wreckage, hourly get- | trains stop as tollows : ting weaker, the signals hourly becom-

Ned Fowler reached the railroad station he found a locomotive with steam up ready to take him to the scene of the disaster, and, flying at the rate of a complete the rate of a local state of the disaster. mile a minute, it was but two hours A. M., 1.16 5.16 10.19 P. M. from the time he received the telegram till he was on the float over the sunken Red Jacket. Nancy was there, wonderfully cool outwardly, but Ned saw by 4.16 5.16 6.46 10.16 p. m. SUNDAY-8.46 A. M., 12.16 the imploring glance she gave him how she suffered. "Nancy," he whispered, "tell me that, whether or no I save him, you'll believe I did my best." "Save him," was all she would say

The helmet was put on, and Fowler, getting on the ladder, soon sank out of sight. It was half an hour before he came back and reported that he had found his friend in the hold of the Old Colony Street Railway Company steamer pinned under an iron frame which had slid down upon him while he was at work. He had taken Tom's hand and by a pressure they both knew well assured him that his old crony was with him. The difficulty was to remove the debris. Fowler had attempted to do so, but had failed to stir the mass. He had come up to get a hour until 8.40 P. M. and 9.10 P. M. rope to attach to it, hoping that those above might lift it. Meanwhile the signals on the life line were becoming fainter. Before assuming the helmet a second time Ned whispered to Nancy, who was now a picture of despair: "Nancy, do you believe I am doing my best?" "Save him," was again her sole reply. The last look those present caught of the diver's face was that of one who had determined to go to his death. He had little hope that he would save his friend, and he knew that he could not face his friend's wife if he came up alive leaving him dead below. He sank beneath the surface, a cable coil on his right arm, which uncoiled as he descended. Within twenty minutes after he had disappeared he gave the signal to pull on the rope. A dozen PROBATE COURT. | men took hold; there was a creaking; then the heavers went down on their backs in a heap-the rope had broken! other nights 11.50 P. M , to Quincy Point only. The woman who always has just enough Fancy Evaporated Apples, and none to spare may have the conviction that she is a good manager and may be economical in her purchasing, Brier Bush Feas, but what would she do if she happened to have an extra appetite at some meal? It isn't always wise to measure too closely. At the same time it isn't wise to purchase things in such Baltimore Table Peaches. large quantity that the members of the family are forced to sing a parody on the old song, "Beef for breakfast, beef for dinner and cold roast beef for tea." Cold roast meat is nice occasionally and is much to be preferred if one is given a choice between it and some elaborate concoction which means the same cold meat spiced past recognition, but still bearing the label of being made over. Don't make a practice of spending as much time on the reconstruction of a made over dish as would be necessary to plan a whole meal of new materials. A little wisdom in selecting the materials for the first meal will save much time spent in reconstructing what will not be relished after all the time has been given to it.

TRAINING CHILDREN.

A Mother's Correction Should Never

Outrun Her Love. The best means of encouraging truthfulness in children is a problem which taxes the judgment of the best among us. The road to truthfulness can only to know what demands she can and ought to make upon her child's obedience to her higher will and which teaches the child uncomplainingly to accept her wishes as law. To win this trust a mother's correction should never outrun her love, and she may well make it a golden maxim never to let

Modern Bluebeard Is Caught In New York

Marriage After Brief Acquaint-Twenty-Five Women

New York, Jan. 31.-Johann Hoch, charged with bigamy and wife abandonment in Chicago, and who, it is alleged, married 25 women, was arrested in a boarding house in West Fortymuch abused man."

"How abused?" he was asked. said he is 45 years old, a machinist, living at 6430 Union avenue. Chicago. Hoch is known under the names of Alfred Hecht, Albert Buseberg, Joseph lodge, Mt. Wollaston. No. 80. Hoch, Jacob Hoch and Adolph Brumm. he came to New York at once and has been here ever since. He was locked up at poffce headquarters. Hoch stated that he had not been married 25 times. He said that he had first wife is still alive.

Mrs. Catherine Kimmerle, the landlady of the house where Hoch was arurday and had not been in the house 20 minutes when he asked to be allowed to peel some potatoes for her. Yesterday he proposed marriage and she then told the police. Mrs. Kimmerle said the man talked a good deal to her Sunday she thought.

"He was so anxious to talk that I did not know what he was after," said Mrs. Kimmerle, "till all of a sudden he told me he wanted to marry me. I remembered reading in the papers about that awful man and it suddenly flashed across my mind that this man, who wanted to peel potatoes after being 20 minutes in my house, and wanted to marry me after knowing me a day or so, was the same man they wanted in Chicago, and I ran to the station house as quickly

Four detectives hurried to the house and waited for Hoch, who came in at 10 o'clock. "Hello, Hoch," was Detective O'Neil's

The prisoner made no resistance and was taken to the West Firty-sevenin street station, where we afterward admitted his identity. Everything the man had on him or in his possession was new. He had a new suit of clothes, six new handker chiefs, one razor, a new trunk and other articles, all new. He also had six $100 bills and change in every pocket of his clothing. In one pocket was a newspaper containing a record of Johann Hoch and a description of him The Chicago police were at once notified of the capture.

The Charges Against Hoch Chicago, Jan. 31 .- The Chicago po ice are elated over the arrest of Johann Hoch in New York. The only specific charges they have against him at present are bigamy and wife abandonment. From all accounts Hoch has been married to 25 different women and six of these have died, it is said under circumstances which the police declare to be suspicious.

Yaquis on Murder Bent

Tuscon, Ariz., Jan. 31.-W. V. Daly mining engineer and mine owner, just arrived from Minas Priestas, says that the Yaqui outbreak in Mexico is serious. The Indians are well armed and, according to Daly, are killing Americans and Mexicans without discrimination. Twenty persons, Daly says, four of whom are Americans, have been killed within the last week Auger Hole In Ship's Hull Pensacola, Fla., Jan. 31.-An aleged attempt to scuttle the Italian bark Caesar, lying alongside of docks here, was discovered yesterday afternoon. An inch and a quarter hole, i is stated, had been bored on the port side, through which water was pouring. An augur was found in the forecastle which vaused the arrest of the chief carpenter.

Martial Law In Philippines Manila, Jan. 31.-Habeas corpus has been suspended in the provinces of Cavite and Batangas. Federal troops garrison the towns and martial law has practically been established. The present situation in the two provinces is partially due to ladronism and to disaffection fostered by the opponents WARD L. HAYWARD of the internal revenue law. Main Spring while you wait.

Towns Forging Ahead

Poor Towns Expending More Per Child Than This City.

The State House correspondent of the Ledger sends the following concounty:

George H. Martin, the new secretary seventh street station, where he was the same lodge. It was learned that of the State Board of Education, has taken, he said: "I'm Hoch, and a the Past Grand had been taken ill at just issued his first report in his new Quincy, where he went to spend the capacity, as a part of the annual report Christmas boliday with his sister, Mrs. of the board, and he discusses some He had nothing to say. He gave his F. F. Prescott; he was a guest of most interesting phases of our public school system. It is a meaty document gives $7.08. dents," and during his sickness bad throughout. But the continuation of former tables is of much interest also gives $6.67. to the people of the cities and towns, > especially to the taxpayers. There are three tables in the report which bear directly on the problem of gives $6.27. carried him on to the ferry, and from the small towns from the state gives $6.11. very comfortable one, and seemed to of taxes per $1,000 of valuation raised gives $5.86. there is a table of attendance.

> > Norfolk county makes a much better showing than most of the counties. Of large interest is the table, one of whose columns shows the amount yielded for each child in the membership of the public schools by the local tax for school support. The previous year is brought into the comparison, so the table shows the variations of policy r taxation.

At the head of all the towns in the state stands Lincoln, in Middlesex gives $4.77. county, which pays the enormous comparative sum of $66.16 for each child gives $4.50. in its public schools. Next is Weston, and these two towns were the top two gives $4.36. last year, only their respective positions line, the wealthiest town in the state, gives $4.10. is third, with $51.39,-and that is a big drop from the Lincoln figures, and local taxation. Norfolk county has the following ecord: Milton was No. 6 last year and this, and raises $47.09. Wellesley drops from No. 7 last year o No 8 this year, and raises $44.04. Cohasset rises from 10 to 9 and raises Westwood rises from 19 to 11, and raises $37.80. Dedham rises from 37 to 25 and raises $32.34.

Hull is fourth with $48.47. The so-called tax-dodging towns stand thick together in this part of the table, while the towns of the four western counties, scattered among the high hills, are mostly found at the other end of the table. Boston stands gives $2.99. No. 14 in this list with $35.92 appropriated for the support of each child by gives $2.99.

Hyde Park rises from 39 to 26, and raises $32.25. Canton drops from 30 to 50, and raises $29.42. Sharon rises from 85 to 61, and raises

Dover drops from 11 to 78, and raises

Needham rises from 92 to 72, and aises $27.74. Norwood rises from 144 to 73, and raises $27.74.

$27.53. Walpole drops from 58 to 81, and raises $27.39. Wrentham rises from 108 to 86, and raises 427.02.

Norfolk drops from 81 to 106, and raises $25.07. Foxboro rises from 139 to 116, and raises $24.49. Weymouth rises from 121 to 119, and

Medfield drops from 126 to 162, and raises from $23.08. Randolph rises from 182 to 164, and raises $21.96. Quincy drops from 154 to 167, and aises $21.71: Medway rises from 273 to 219, and raises $19.36.

raises $17.67. Avon rises from 315 to 266, and raises in the State, therefore the Norfolk town of Avon which raises least per child stands far from the bottom of the list, and may therefore think itself fortunate to be so blessed with this world's goods. Now the next table is far more interesting, as a whole, though the good fortune of Norfolk county people prevents the application being quite as forcible as the poorer portions of the state. Now come the table showing | F the sum per $1,000 of valuation which is appropriated by the towns severally for the support of their public schools. At the head of the list stands the hill town of Huntington in Hampshire county, which pays $8.47 out of every | $1,000 of valuation for the support of the public schools. Warren in Worcester county was second, both last year and this and her percentage is $8.45. Now let us look for the Norfolk county

Randolph rises from No. 25 last year | to No. 7 this year, and gives $7.96 per $1,000 in school taxes.

Weymouth rises from 28 to 16, and gives $7.24. Norwood rises from 53 to 20, and

Foxboro rises from 57 to 53 and gives Holbrook drops from 45 to 58, and Wrentham rises from 58 to 32, and Bellingham drops from 33 to 65, and Mayor Thompson Interviewed Rel-Braintree rises from 91 to 85, and

$5,89.

Walpole drops from 78 to 93, and gives $5.84. Avon rises from 162 to 94, and gives considered Mr. Menhenick one of the $5.83.

$5.81. Needham rises from 211 to 154, and gives $5.19. Franklin drops from 133 to 173, and gives $4.89. gives $4.81. Norfolk drops from 117 to 188, and Dedham rises from 237 to 221, and gives $3.52.

Wellesley rises from 311 to 308, and his department did their work faithgives $3.12. Milton rises from 327 to 313, and gives $2.42. Brookline rises from 349 to 343, and gives $1.98. This is the lowest Norfolk town in the list, but it is almost at the bottom for the entire state, showing how enormous is the wealth of the town which can stand so near the head of the amount appropriated for the support of each child and so near the bo tom in proportion of school raised per $1000 of valuation bottom of the list is Gosno. only 83 cents, but that is an ex small town and evidently does much in education. Most ofthe rich towns, and a few very poor ones stand at the tail end of the column. One more table will have interest to the tax-payers, and that is the one which shows the actual payments for the public schools. The first column shows the total expenditure for the public schools and the other the population in 1900. Quincy receives only $204 from other sources than taxa-

President Roosevelt Says Control Over Railroads Must Come Through National Government -- Would Protect Alike the Corporation and the Shipper

Philadelphia, Jan. 31.—President Roosevelt was the guest of honor and principal speaker last night at the 42nd anniversary banquet of the Union to the Union league.

When President Roosevelt arose to make his address he was greeted with long continued applause. Then the entire assembly stood and sang "The Star Spangled Banner," accompanied by a band. President Roosevelt, in his address said in part: When President Roosevelt arose to address, said in part:

This club was founded to uphold the hands of Abraham Lincoln when he effort made along the lines marked out

The principles which Lincoln applied to the solution of the problems of his day are those which we must apply if we expect successfully to solve the Unquestionably, however, the great development of industrialism means that there must be an increase in the supervision exercised by the government over business enterprises. The details must rest with the lawmakers of the two houses of congress; but about the principle there can be no doubt. Hasty or vindictive action would merely work damage; but in temperate, resolute fashion, there must be lodged in some tribunal the power over rates, and especially over rebates which will protect alike the railroad and the shipper, and put the big shipper and the little shipper on an equal footing. In some such body as the interstate commerce commission there must be lodged in effective shape the power to see that every shipper who uses the railroads and every man who owns or manages a railroad shall on the one hand be given justice and on the other hand be required to do justice. We do not intend that this republic shall ever fail as those republics of olden time failed, in which there finally came to be a government by classes. Ours is not a government which recognizes classes. It is based on the recognition of the individual. We are not for the poor man as such, nor for the rich man as such. We are for every man, rich or poor, provided he acts justly and fairly by his fellows.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

The Overconfident Fish

"Of all the fish in all the sea there's none so very smart as me," sang the swordfish.

"If you were really as smart as you all the fish beneath the sky there's none so very smart as I," declared the mud dabbler. "Your grammar isn't very good."

"Well, I'm smart, anyway," declared the swordfish. "I shall never be caught by any of these fishermen with a funny little worm on a hook. I'm too smart for that."

And then he went darting around beneath the boats of the fishermen who had come out from the shore with their hooks and lines and nets to catch fish. Every now and then the swordfish would go to the surface of the water and jump up into the air to show himself to the men and let them know what a beautiful fish there was that they could not catch. He went as near the boats as he could, too, so everybody could have a good view of him. "I would like to have that fish," said one of the men, "but he won't bite at any of my lines."

"I'll get him for you," replied an old fisherman, as he picked up a stout stick from the bottom of the boat.

Then the very next time that the fisherman reached over and dealt him a hard blow with the stick, and Mr. Fish fell into the boat with his senses knocked out. Moral.-There's more than one way

EXPLANATION ASKED FOR

Tension Increased by Riding picion. Down British Consul General and Pro-Consul at Warsaw-Strike Situation Improved at St Petersburg, but Crisis by No Means Passed at Warsaw

London, Jan. 31 .- Reports of continued acts of hostility to Great Britain and citizens of this country in Russia are causing considerable perplexity and anxiety in official circles in London. At the foreign office there is evident apprehension of another popular anti-Russian outburst here and, while diplomats say there is no doubt that full satisfaction will be given for the Warsaw affair, the newspapers are and attribute all incidents to anti-Brit-

The following communication was is- European Russia. ued by the foreign office last evening: "Information has been received from he British consul general at Warsaw that he and Mucukain, the pro-consul, were attacked by soldiers on Jan. 28. Murray (the consul general) is not believed to have been injured, but Mucukain, who is a Russian subject, was wounded by sword cuts and is in a hospital. Representations were at once made by Ambassador Hardinge to the Russian government, which demandeu that the governor general of Warsaw institute strict inquiry into the incident. His majesty's ambassador has also sent to Colonel Napier, the military attache, to Warsaw, to report on the subject." The new tension between the London and St. Petersburg governments arose Libau, the notices, like that at Mosow, charging the British with foment ing the disorder. They bear the signature of the governor of Courland. The riding down of British consular officers by troops who were clearing the streets added to the tension. The circular issued by the holy synod, ascribing the disorders largely to foreign intrigue. is apparently almed against Britain.

SIEGE PROCLAIMED

Crisis Yet to Come at Warsaw, Where Strike Continues has been transferred entirely from St. Petersburg and Moscow to Warsaw, Lodz and Libau, where a state of siege has been proclaimed.

Warsaw is the chief centre of interest on account of the rioting there on Sunday and Sunday night, in which at least 160 persons were killed or wounded. The strike continues unabated and business is paralyzed, but there was better order during the day. In Warsaw, however, the crisis is by no means passed, and there is great apprehension here with regard to what the night may bring forth, especially if the attempt to disable the lighting system should be successful. The .Warsaw demonstrators evidently are in an ugly mood. Work is being generally resumed. In Moscow the men's demands have been partially conceded, and all the railway workshops have resumed operations. The strike has ended at Saratoff. At Libau some of the strikers have returned to work, and there have been no ported at any fresh centres, nor are there disorders except at Warsaw.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 31.-General Kucopatkin's attempt to break through the Japanese left wing and outflank Field Marshal Oyama's position on the Shakhe river seems to have failed entirely. Few details, however, are available beyond the information contained in the official dispatches. Field Marshal Oyama, as at the battle of the Shakhe river, appears to have answered the Russian advance with a counter offensive movement, but no great disposition was shown to carry the war into the territory held by the Russians. A TRAGEDY OF THE ICE last I saw of the Talisman. The weather was not severe, and I was warmly clad and did not suffer much during the night. In fact, I slept most of the time, leaving the boat to take care of herself. There were food and water and blankets, and unless the little craft should get into a squeeze I might drift for several days and not be much the worse for it. I awoke at daylight next morning to find the fog still holding and the pack still drifting, and it was not until afternoon that the weather cleared.

[Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure.] Our ship, the Talisman, was slowly passing an iceberg a hundred miles off Cape Horn when the captain made out a lot of wreckage lying at the base of the berg and sent four of us off in the yawl to inspect and report. When the berg was reached the mate and two men scrambled on to the ice for closer look, leaving the boat in my charge. They had reached a shell above me and 200 feet to the east when, without the slightest warning, the great lump of ice began to split and quake, and down came thousands of tons into the sea. The three men must have met instant death, while the boat was shot to a distance of half a mile as if moved by steam.

Then a fog came up. That was the

When the fog rolled away I was within half a mile of one of the biggest bergs that ever drifted up from the frozen south. It was a mile or more in length, but not over forty feet high--a mighty mass of ice, as blue and as hard as steel itself. Here and there were great rocks showing, and the configuration of the berg hint ed that what was now out of water had once been fathoms deep beneath

I hauled my boat on to the ice and set out to reach the berg and see what b Norfolk Downs, sort of shelter it afforded. The pack ice had piled up ten feet high around d Neponset, it, and I was all of an hour making that half mile. most of all in such an experience. Evening gowns oughtn't to last too long; business and street clothes can't -always supposing it's the woman knee. with the small purse who is consider ing the purchase. And street clothes should be of quiet, rather neutral colors -the kind "you don't get known by," as one woman put it.

Afternoon gowns get hard wear-as hard as the street clothes in realityso they should naturally be made of materials that can hold their own and with excellent board in private family. Fine location. Wavy Hair.

Of very great assistance in attaining that desirable waviness which nature has denied some heads of hair is tar water. The deprived ones may apply this liquid once a day. It cannot hurt the hair, for it is a tonic as well as a sure wave producer. To make it get from the druggist a five cent box of white pine tar; pour the contents into a bottle (a quart size) of hot water; let stand until cold. The tar will cling to the bottom of the bottle. One a little larger than a toothbrush will do. While the hair is wet push it forward and press it with the fingers. When the water is all used replace with hot water again. The same tar should last for three months, with renewals of water when necessary.

Letter Writing.

Should anybody ask me what general accomplishment the present day women lacked I would not need a momen for consideration. I stand ready with my answer-the art of letter writing. There are undoubtedly many women who can write interesting letters, with well expressed thoughts and correct spelling, but I fancy you would be surprised at the smallness of their number. Wealthy women hire secretaries to conceal their deficiencies in this direction when they have them, and women whose business requires much correspondence rely upon the typewriter and its presiding genius.-Minneapolis Tribune.

a better way to clean it is by a dry method. Use two parts of finely powdered starch to one part of powdered borax. Spread the chiffon on a clean muslin and rub the mixture well into it Shake this out and sprinkle liberally with clean flour and borax. Cover and leave overnight. The next day brush south Terminal Station News Stand and shake every particle of powder from the chiffon. It should be found quite spotless.
